SCHOOL FUND SHORTAGE IS MADE GOOD

Clyde Blanchard, Secretary of Berkeley Schools Deparements, Admits Irregularity in Handling Fund

Former Official Declares He Will Meet Any Demand for Monies That Are Needed to Square Accounts

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—"There may have been irregularities but every cent of money has been made good. If, however, any further shortage is detected in my accounts, every cent will be returned to the people of Berkeley. I am reserving a complete statement of this entire matter until after the audit is made."

This admission of "irregularities" in his books as charged by school officials was made today by Clyde Blanchard, for three years secretary and business manager of the Berkeley school department.

Blanchard's admissions are substantiated by Prof. William B. Herms of the University of California, president of the board of education, who declares that the deposed business manager told him that he had used public funds. One particular shortage of $500, Prof. Herms states, was made by Blanchard with a personal check.

BLANCHARD UNCERTAIN AS TO DETAILS

"Blanchard has been ill and his mind is somewhat muddled over his transactions," says Prof. Herms "He does not think there are any more shortages but of this is not sure. Thus, we will have to wait for the audit to determine the exact status of affairs."

The audit of Blanchard's books was ordered at yesterday's meeting of the board of education following the acceptance of the enforced resignation of the school official. It will cover only one phase of the business manager's official transactions. This will concern a special account opened by Blanchard in the First National Bank in the name of the Board of Education, a proceeding in violation of the school laws which provide that all money must be immediately transferred to the county treasury, according to school board officials This account, Blanchard says, was used for the depositing of money received by the board in rents of various buildings and from other miscellaneous sources. He explains that he opened the account as a convenience to avert frequent trips to Oakland with petty amounts of money. That as soon as enough was accumulated he immediately deposited it with the county authorities, is his statement.

ONLY $30,000 BANKED IN SPECIAL ACCOUNT

Prof. Herms declares that the amount of money handled by Blanchard in this account will not exceed $30,000. Blanchard himself says that "between $10,000 and $15,000," received from rents was placed in this fund in addition to $16,500 insurance money received after the destruction of the Hillside school in the fire of September, 1923.

Discovery of this "special" account was made by the Board of Education on the complaints of citizens and according to Prof. Herms the account was closed January of this year.

When discovery was made two weeks ago that the official audit as ordered by the grand jury did not cover all phases of school department transactions and that Blanchard's "special" account had never been checked, Prof. Herms, as president of the board, led the movement to have a complete checking of the books. County officials refused to approve funds for a new audit, an opinion from the district attorney's office declaring that the grand jury's checking of the books "met all legal requirements."

That Blanchard is not under bond was also disclosed yesterday. Blanchard came to Berkeley three years ago from Stockton and has filled the role of business manager for two years. He is secretary of the Berkeley Rotary Club, treasurer of the Northbrae Community church and has served as lecturer in the University of California extension division.

He will probably be succeeded by Vincent R. McHale, examiner for the Berkeley Federal Land Bank. McHale has been offered the position and will probably be named at a special meeting of the board on Friday. The salary is $4500 a year. The audit of Blanchard's accounts, started today, will consume three or four days, it is believed.

Hotel Man Rumored For Boxing Chief

The governor's office at Sacramento, in the absence of the state executive, was unable to confirm or deny reports to the effect that James Woods, former manager of the Hotel St. Francis, San Francisco, and at present managing director of the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, had been appointed chairman of the new state boxing commission by Governor Richardson. Richardson is in Los Angeles.

TENTH KEY WRECK VICTIM SUCCUMBS

Several hours after the grand jury adjourned without returning a report of any kind to fix the responsibility for the Key System-Sacramento Short Line train crash, the tenth victim of the wreck died last night at Fabiola hospital.

The latest one to succumb to injuries received when the Short Line train crashed into the rear car of a Key System train on the Key Route pier on December 4 was John P. Muller, 682 Brooklyn avenue.

Muller was a native of Oroville, but had resided in the bay region for thirty years, where he has been engaged in the lumber business. Surviving him are a widow, two daughters and a son.

After spending two days inquiring into the circumstances of the disaster, the grand jury adjourned late yesterday afternoon without filing a report of any kind. R. E. Beach, the foreman, said the wreck was a closed incident as far as the grand jury was concerned. About 15 witnesses were examined but not sufficient evidence was obtained to warrant an indictment of V. C. Brubaker, motorman of the Short Line car, or to indicate any specific cause of the disaster, he said.

District Attorney Ezra Decoto declared that the State Railroad Commission or the Interstate Commerce Commission have separate investigations under way, and that it will rest with these bodies to fix the blame for the disaster.

Commissioner of Public Health
Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Frank Colbourn, said he would call a conference of the police officials today to determine what further action might be taken.

Captain of Inspectors Richard McSorley said he had received word that a brother of Tony Stil-

GOVERNMENT ISLAND TO BE NEW AIR BASE

Estuary Land to Supplant Crissey Field as Western Terminus Owing to Greater Safety of Approach

Development of Bay Territory as Flying Station to Begin at Once, Secretary Weeks Announces

Government Island, in Oakland harbor, is to supplant Crissey Field, San Francisco, as the War Department's principal airplane base in this region.

This was announced by Secretary of War Weeks in a letter received today by Representative James H. MacLafferty, according to despatches received from Washington, D. C.

The greater safety offered flyers in approaching and leaving Government island, because of its flat and unobstructed surface, is the reason for the intended transfer, Secretary Weeks explained. Crissey Field, it was pointed out, 'is bordered on two sides by abrupt hills, and is subject at times to dense fog." Because of this, Secretary Weeks declared, "the development of a landing field on Government Island will be much safer and more desirable."

The war department, Secretary Weeks said, "is considering plans for the development of the entire surface of Government island, except a small portion which is to be temporarily retained by the bureau of public roads, into a flying field suitable for the landing and taking off of aircraft of all descriptions.

Crissey Field will not be abandoned entirely, according to Weeks' letter, but the maor portion of air service activities will be centered on Government island.

Government island was leased by the government during the war and this lease still has nineteen years to run.

Litigation has been under way for some time between the cities of Oakland and Alameda to determine the ownership of this island, each city claiming it as its own. Secretary Weeks today expressed the hope that the officials of the two cities will have "no objection to the continued occupancy of the island by the United States."

Puzzle Fans Cut Waste Paper Hoard

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Cross-word puzzles have caused many readers who formerly left their newspapers in subway trains to take them home. The revelation is made by a paper collector for the Interborough subway in a letter to a newspaper. He says that the waste paper now collected by the company is about one-third of what it was before the advent of the puzzles.

Mrs. H. Fleischmann Dies in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Henrietta Fleischmann, 80, widow of Charles Fleischmann, founder of the Cincinnati company bearing his name, is dead following a three year illness. Mrs. Fleischmann was the mother of Julius Fleischmann, New York, former mayor of Cincinnati; Mrs C. R Holmes, also of New York, and Max Fleischmann of San Francisco.

Yale Professor, Senator-elect, Holds Three Political Plums

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—Hiram Bingham, Republican, long a professor at Yale, now is lieutenant-governor, governor-elect and United States senator-elect. In a special election yesterday he defeated Hamilton Holt, Democrat, by more than 40,000 votes for the seat made vacant by the death of Frank B. Brandegee, Republican, who represented the state in the senate for nearly 20 years. The vote was.: Bingham 112,290; Holt, 71,699.

After being inaugurated next month Colonel Bingham will resign as governor. He will then go to Washington to take the oath as a member of the senate. The office of governor will automatically fall upon the newly elected lieutenant-governor, John T. Trumbull. During the brief period that Colonel Bingham holds the office of governor he will be ex-officio a fellow of Yale University from the faculty of which he resigned a month ago.

No man in the political history of Connecticut has had so many honors placed upon him in so short a time as Colonel Bingham. After two years' service as lieutenant-governor, he was nominated for governor and on the ticket with President Coolidge last month he was swept into office by the largeste plurality ever given a gubernatorial nominee in Connecticut.

Indians Trot Through Snow in Driving 5000 Deer in Canyon

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Dec. 17.—Trotting through the snow-blanketed forests of the Kaibab Game Refuge, 50 Indians and cowboys under the direction of George McCormick, are hearding together between five and eight thousand deer, threatened with starvation if they are not moved to fresh feeding grounds. The unique drive is proceeding satisfactorily, according to word sifting back here today.

Indian scouts, ringing small bells as they plod through the snow, are rounding the deer into one big band.

The hungry animals are at the east end of the Kaibab Plateau. They are being worked down to the north rim of the Grand Canyon, where they will swim the Colorado river and climb up Tanner's trail to the south side, a few miles east of Grand View.

McCormick will receive $2.50 for every deer herded safely across the river. He expects to complete the drive by Saturday.

Million in Gems, Stolen for Aged Collector, Sent Back to Owners

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Following the recovery of the valuable art treasures and jewels which were taken from the London mansion of Lady Ludlow last June, and which were recently mysteriously surrendered at Scotland Yard, The Evening News publishes an unusual story today, asserting that the robbery was planned by an unnamed American millionaire, a resident of a middle western city in the United States.

The American, according to the newspaper, was a connoisseur and coveted the Ludlow collection but the owners refused to sell.

The jewels and art works had been collected by Lady Ludlow's first husband Sir Julius Wernher, the South African millionaire.

Being unable to acquire the coveted objects legitimately the American is said to have employed a gang of expert cracksmen in the United States to go to London and loot the Ludlow home. They were given a minute description of the collection, of the pieces wanted and the exact location and so were able to perpetrate the robbery with a minimum of effort and danger.

After obtaining the art collection the robbers escaped in an automobile to Dover, it is related, proceeded in a private yacht to a French port and then leisurely went to Cherborg where they embarked for New York.

But when they arrived there, June 19, the story continues, they found that their aged millionaire patron had died. Unable to dispose of the treasures, the robbers anonymously informed Scotland Yard where the collection could be found and it is now intact at London police headquarters.

The news says it is understood the millionaire paid the thieves a first installment of $15,000 each before they went to London and that he promised them approximately $75,000 when they would have completed the job.

U. C. SAVANT DINES AT WRONG 'FRAT'

Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Hughes Are Guests at Student Surprise Party.

WOODLAND, Dec. 17.—When Professor and Mrs. E. H. Hughes of the College of Agriculture at Davis were invited to dinner at one of the fraternity houses, they arrived at the appointed hour and knocked at the door. An embarrassed freshman ushered them into to house and made them as comfortable as circumstances permitted.

Perhaps the educator and his good wife wondered why the conversation of the students was somewhat strained and why there was such a long delay before the dinner call was sounded. Perhaps they wondered why the food was just the ordinary "slum" of the ordinary day in the ordinary fraternity house, and why they were not even allowed the benefit of napkins.

Or perhaps the professor and his wife felt entirely at home with the students and did not wonder at all

Anyway, just before the dinner drew to its disastrous close, the professor was called to the telephone, and to his dismay, discovered he had stopped for dinner at the wrong house, and the fraternity that had invited him to dinner had been searching wildly for him for an hour.

U. S. Sues Ship Firm To Get $7,536,432

Nebraska Senator Condemns 'Midnight Conferences on Mayflower and Elsewhere' as Perversion of Justice

General Electric Company to Grab Alabama Project in 'This Rape of Treasury,' the Congressman Asserts

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. — Asserting that the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill would make "Teapot Dome look like a pinhead" and "Doheny and Sinclair look like pikers," Chairman Norris of the Senate agricultural committee told the Senate today that enactment of the legislation would later become known as "the rape of the treasury."

"Oh, President Coolidge," shouted the Nebraska senator, "how can you, just after receiving the vote of confidence from the people, offer your great position to such a proposition? You are at the oars and heading this great ship straight into Wall Street.

"SKIDS GREASED," SENATOR SHOUTS.

The Nebraska senator declared "the skids had been greased and the steam roller brought up to defeat his own bill, providing government ownership and operation. The opposition to his administration, he said, planned to turn Muscle Shoals over to some private corporation.

"Giving President Coolidge credit for his honesty in every move," he said, "and giving Senator Underwood the same credit, it seems the inevitable conclusion will be that if this bill is enacted it will be known as the 'rape of treasury.'

He compared Muscle Shoals to a "great ship" with the American flag swinging at the mast, and the Coolidge Republicans tugging away.

The General Electric Company would get the property probably if the Alabama Power Company obtained it, he asserted.

After two years of consideration, Senator Norris said the agricultural committee had brought his bill to the Senate where it was confronted with the opposition of the administration.

MIDNIGHT CONFERENCE ON MAYFLOWER RAPPED.

"It is not fair and it's not conducive to future efficiency of committees of congress," he said, "to have the work of our committee condemned at an outside midnight conference—either on the Mayflower or elsewhere."

"Oh, President Coolidge," he exclaimed, "how can you lead these confiding, these trusting, these obedient senators into an arena to use their votes as you would herd sheep into a corral?"

"If the Underwood bill is adopted," he added, "it will be possible for the lessees to defy every single one of the state regulatory agencies.

"It may be Mellon will manufacture aluminum there and get a subsidy from the government as well as a high tariff."

Senator Norris said the Alabama Power Company and all other power companies were in a rust.

"There isn't a place in the United States," he said, "where the influence of this mighty trust isn't felt and the whole control goes back to Wall street."

Senator Norris traced what he ermed the interlocking power corporations, giving names of directors who held positions on boards of more than one company. He mentioned R. A. Mitchell, vice-president of the Alabama Power Company as being a director of the Electric Bond & Share Company, which he said is owned by the General Electric Company. Mitchell, he said, also was a director of various subsidiaries of the bond and hare company.

There is no place to drop this great property in Alabama, except to drop it into the hands of the General Electric Company," he said.

Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, author of the bill, interrupted Senator Norris to charge that an organized filibuster is being conducted to prevent action on the measure.

"The senator," said Underwood, refering to Senator Norris, "dreams of what might happen and what has not happened. What surprises me is that he has attacked the President of the United States. So far I am aware the President of the United States has in no way violated the Constitution of the United States as the senator has charged."

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Rupert Hughes, novelist and motion picture director, and Elizabeth Patterson Dial, known to the screen as Patterson Dial, will be married here early next year, it was announced tonight by relatives of Miss Dial.

The first Mrs. Hughes hanged herself in a stateroom aboard a Chinese coastwise steamer during the night of December 13, last year. She had gone to the Orient for her health, having been operated for cancer some time before.

Reports of her husband indicated that Mrs. Hughes became deranged on board ship as it drew near Haiphong, Indo-China. The ship's doctor gave her a sedative, but this failed to quiet her. A stewardess found her body in the morning. She was something of a writer and collaborated with her novelist husband in some of his work. According to Major Hughes she was the "most beautiful soul he had ever seen."

The body of Mrs. Hughes arrived in this port on February 7, 1924, and was buried shortly afterward.

Trio Robs Hotel Till By New Trick

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—A new method was used by three robbers who entered the Gartland hotel at 5:45 this morning, and escaped with the contents of the till, $69.85.

Two of the men distracted the attention of the night clerk, Fred Burtt, by using the telephone. The third loitered near the counter. All departed hastily, and Burtt discovered that $69.85 had been taken from the money drawer, opened with a jimmy. The trio drove off in a taxi. One man has been arrested on suspicion.

Pacific States Swept by Most Severe Weather of Season; 64-Mile Wind Is Reported at Point Reyes

Ten Deaths in Colorado Attributed to Snowstorm and Zero Temperature; Middle West Cities Hit

Leaving the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain region locked tight with ice, snow and zero weather, the coldest wave of the winter was today reported to be extending east and southward. Ten deaths, directly attributed to the snow, were reported from Montana and Colorado.

Snow fell along the entire Pacific slope yesterday and last night from Puget Sound to the Mojave desert, while killing frosts were reported from the valley regions.

General weather conditions were reported better today in California, although "continued cold" was predicted by the weather bureau. A wind of 64 miles velocity had subsided to 48 miles at Point Reyes and storm warnings were ordered taken down all along the coast.

Eleven inches of snow fell at Summit during the 24 hours ending at 5 a. m. this morning and apparently the flurry had passed at dawn. A depth of 25 inches was reported at the Summit weather station.

30 INCHES OF SNOW FALLS AT YOSEMITE.

More than 30 inches of snow are reported to have fallen in the mountains surrounding Yosemite Valley, while the floor of the valley itself was covered with six inches of snow yesterday afternoon. Snow conditions throughout the Yosemite region are reported to be satisfactory, according of F. S. Townsley, chief ranger in the valley.

Rainfall measurements taken at the Chabot observatory show a precipitation of .04 of an inch during the 24 hours ending at 7 o'clock this morning. This brings the season's rainfall to 7.44 inches, .74 more than normal and exceeding last season's record by 3.89 inches.

The first snow of the season fell on the Mt. Hamilton range yesterday, three inches of snow being reported. Heavy flurries of snow fell in the vicinity of Mission San Jose late yesterday afternoon while a cold, drizzling rain fell on the Santa Clara valley.

STOCKTON GETS TOUCH OF REAL WINTER.

Intermittent snow flurries fell yesterday in Stockton, while an inch of snow is reported in the Santa Cruz mountains. Light snow also fell in the mountains south of Livermore and in the region of Sunol. Workmen at the U. S. Veterans' Bureau Hospital at Cresta Blanca, four miles south of Livermore, were forced to stop outside work from 11 a. m. till noon, owing to the snow which was falling at the hospital site.

The Mojave desert, famed for hot weather and scorching sunlight, experienced an unusual sensation yesterday when swept by snow and rain.

Porterville and other foothill towns in Tulare county were clothed in a garment of snow.

Escondido, in San Diego county, had the heaviest rainfall, 1.40 inches. Marks for other points were: El Cajon, 1.12; San Diego, 1.06; Riverside, .94; Redlands, .98; Corona, .96; Porterville, .84; Pomona, .66; Bonita, .63; Lindsay, .80; Bakersfield, .26; Eureka, .04; Fresno, .30; Calexico, .02; Paso Robles, .08; San Pedro, .30; San Bernardino, .34; Los Angeles, .34; San Francisco, .03; San Jose, .10; San Louis Obispo, .30.

WASHINGTON GRIPPED BY ZERO WEATHER.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 17. — Record season's cold, which dropped as low as 7 degrees below zero in eastern Washington and to zero on the Pacific coast is reported. The minimum was reported from Deer Park, near here.

The temperature here dropped 50 degrees in the 21 hours ending at 8 a. m. and showed a 20 degree drop in two hours. It was accompanied by a light fall of snow.

Bellingham was the coldest point reporting on the coast, with an unofficial minimum of zero.

COLD ENVELOPS PACIFIC NORTHWEST.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 17. — Relentless, piercing cold today enveloped the Pacific Northwest for the third consecutive day with indications it would last throughout the week.

DEATHS ATTRIBUTED TO STORM IN COLORADO.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 17.—Ten lives, indirectly attributed to the severe weather in the Rocky mountain region, was the toll reported at noon today.

Two men and two young women school teachers were killed yesterday near Sterling, Colo., when the driving snow prevented them seeing a fast approaching train and their automobile was demolished. The four bodies were horribly mangled.

Poor visibility as a result of the heavy snowfall in Helena, Mont., is believed to have been the cause of a collision between a streetcar and a Great Northern train that took four lives.

Two young children of Mrs. Charles Cary were suffocated in Bozeman, Mont., when fire destroyed the Cary home. The children were found dead in bed after firemen had extinguished the flames.

DES MOINES FEELS PINCH OF WINTER.

KANSAS CITY COLD. WILL BE COLDER.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 17.—Winnipeg with a temperature of 24 below zero today, was one of the mildest spots of the three prairie provinces, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, according to weather reports received here.

Two Stills Found in Private Residence

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Prohibition enforcement officers acting on a "tip" raided a private residence at San Bruno early today and uncovered two stills in full operation. They arrested Thomas Mullenger and confiscated 400 gallons of mash and 70 gallons of jackass brandy ready for the market.

Postal Pay Increase Now Hinges on Raising Funds

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Had the administration been able to command enough votes to sustain the veto message on the postoffice pay increase there would have been a vote on the measure before this, although in the next 48 hours a vote may be taken. The administration has a strong enough argument to appeal ordinarily to its party in congress and if the bill is passed over the president's veto it will be a sign that the last election has taught very little about the value of party leadership. Many a member of the senate and house was willing enough to lean on the Coolidge pillar of political strength to win his own election, and now the president is trying to hold his party in line by virtue of that strength which he has with public opinion and which he may have two years hence in the congressional elections.

Coolidge makes it clear in his talks with the men on capital hill that he favors the increase in postal pay, but that he wants to make sure that the funds are forthcoming before there is an authorization to spend. But the proposition is not even as simple as that for one would say offhand the postal service ought to be self-supporting. The rub comes when the president tries to into meet the increased pay. Nearly every interest which could possibly be affected by the suggested increase in rates has come down to Washington with a loud clamor lest its business be affected. The farmer doesn't want the increase tacked on the parcel post. Newspapers and periodicals are insistent that second class matter is already overburdened with expensive rates, shall not be tampered with lest the cost of distributing information and intelligence be so prohibitive as to diminish the educational development of the country by newspaper and periodicals. The business men of the country do not want to see the first class mail rates increased, and so on down the line.

Where, then, is the $68,000,000 coming from to pay the increases which most everybody admits are due the postal carriers and mail employees.

The president has let it be known unofficially that if the veto on the last pay bill is not considered for the present, at least until there is an agreement between the senate and house as to how the money shall be raised, he will ultimately have no objection to the overriding of his veto. In fact, he will recommend the passage of an increased pay bill very much along the lines of the one now proposed by Postmaster General New. In all the budget of isn't there $68,000,000 which can be better spent for postal employees' wages than for other items? That is the question with which the budget officers of the government have been struggling with, but when the budget was sent to congress the question was not answered, whereupon the friends in congress of the postal employees went ahead with their plan to get a vote to override the veto. The executive may yet have to find the money by cutting down on some building expenditure elsewhere, but the chances are some change in rates will be put through to meet the new expense.

Featuring the organization's [illegible] with a program, which opened and closed with Christmas carols in special stage setting, members of the Oakland Orpheus Club presented their annual Christmas concert last night in the municipal auditorium before a crowd which packed the theater. The concert was under the direction of Edward Dunbar Crandall.

One of the features of last night's entertainment in addition to the concert numbers were vocal selections by Mme. Lorna Lachmund, soprano. Mme. Lachmund sang "Thou Brilliant Bird," aria from "Perle du Bresil" (David) with flute obligato by Kathleen Woolf. Charles F. Bulotti, tenor, sang "Star Vicino" Salvator Rosa; "Thine Eyes Still Shined" Schneider; "Charity," Richard Hageman; "Lolita" Buzzi-Peccia, and a duet with Mme. Lachmund "Parigi, o Cara," from the opera "La Traviata" Verdi.

Numbers by the club included "At Sea," Dudley Buck; "The Big Lumberman's Song," Paul Bliss, and others.

The Orpheus Club is composed of 100 business and professional and musical men of the Eastbay and is well established in the [illegible] in the development of the male choral music.

S. F. Leather Store Looted by Thieves

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Burglars forced their way into the leather goods establishment of the Walsh-Richardson company, 52 Geary street, during the night and escaped with loot worth $5000.

Entrance was gained through the roof, a trap door was jimmied open and the burglars rifled the store at their leisure. Only the most expensive leather goods with solid gold and silver mountings were taken and all of the loot could have easily been packed into two suit cases. The police believe that the men may have rented a room in a nearby hotel and let themselves out of the window onto the roof.

Voyager in Open Boat Dies of Cold

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 17.—Frozen to death, George F. Watts, a cook, residing at 245 Fifteenth street East, North Vancouver, was taken from an open boat in the middle of the Frazer river at 2 o'clock this morning by a rescue tug. At the same time J. Greenwood, fireman, Vancouver, was rescued in a state of extreme exhaustion from Matsqui island, opposite [illegible] hospital at Mission, B. C., where he will recover.

Junior Red Cross Sends Yule Gifts To Guam Children

Scooters, toy trains and fire engines, dolls and hundreds of other articles to delight the childish heart will hang upon the Christmas trees of far-off Guam this year, owing to the thoughtfulness and generosity of local boys and girls who are members of the American Junior Red Cross.

In response to the plea of Dr. Thomas Collins, superintendent of public instruction in the island of Guam, the children of the Pacific states prepared 2500 Christmas boxes, which are now on the way to the native children of the island.

Christmas for the disabled service men in all the local hospitals will be as much like "Christmas at home" as the women of the Red Cross are able to make it, according to William Carl Hunt, manager of the Pacific division. There will be a Christmas tree in every hospital where disabled men are confined and gifts prepared by the American Legion and its auxiliary, War Mothers, and various church and fraternal organizations will be distributed.

[illegible] thousand Christmas bags, made and filled by Red Cross volunteers throughout the United States, have been shipped from San Francisco to men in the army and navy stationed in Samoa, Hawaii, Alaska, China, and Guam, Hunt announced.

$165,000 VETERAN CLAIMS REVIEWED

Reports from the field offices of the United States Veterans' Bureau, show that up to October 31, 1924, approximately 165,000 cases have been reviewed under the veterans' compensation act, according to an announcement received at Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion, today from General Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau. The total number to be allowed is not yet available as many claimants must be physically examined before the present degree of disability can be determined, according to the word received here.

"Reports, however, up to November 1, 1924 show that 14,415 cases had received a new or amended award involving an accumulated additional cost of $2,261,657," General Hines' announcement declares.

"During the month of October alone 451 neuro-psychiatric cases and 302 tuberculosis cases were disallowed [illegible] under the new law while 1155 neuro-psychiatric and 1,[illegible] tuberculosis cases were allowed during the same period. A total of 4531 new or amended awards was made under this new legislation during October involving an increase in the [illegible] compensation of more than $[illegible]."

THIEF FREED ON PROBATION, WEDS VICTIM'S CHILD

Mother of Girl Learns of Whereabouts After State Hunt Is Prosecuted.

After she had obtained probation for 22-year-old Ray Cummings on a burglary charge, growing out of the theft of her daughter's mandolin, Mrs. Loretta Crance, 603 East Eleventh street, was informed today by the police that Cummings had run away with her 17-year-old daughter, Helen, and had married her in Monterey.

The girl had been missing from home since December 2, and a state-wide police search for her had been under way.

She and Crance have been living in Monterey, according to the police, under the name of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thompson.

A warrant for Cummings' arrest as a defaulting defendant was sworn out by Captain of Inspectors R. V. McSorley as soon as he learned of the youth's whereabouts, and a telegraphic request was sent the Monterey authorities to arrest him and hold the young woman.

Cummings is wanted by the police for failing to appear before the local authorities at the time set for his periodical report concerning his probation.

British Ex-Premier To Take Health Trip

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald plans to start Monday on the sea voyage recommended for his health. It was recently stated that he might visit the United States but his actual itinerary comprises only West Indian and Central American ports.

Leaving Avonmouth aboard the steamer Camito he is due to arrive at Kingston, Jamaica, January 6. After visiting Costa Rica and Panama he will return by way of Kingston, expecting to arrive at Avonmouth on February 9.

"Coming of Age" of Airplane Observed

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The coming of age of the airplane today, the 21st anniversary of Orville Wright's first flight in a power-driven heavier-than-air machine at Kittyhawk, N. C., is made a conspicuous feature in the London newspapers, which give much space to this first accomplishment, together with pictures of the Wright Brothers and their machine.

Man, Fainting in Road, Run Over, Killed by Auto

POMONA, Dec. 17.—Edgar A. Lawrence, 62, died last night of injuries received when an automobile ran over him as he lay in a faint in the street. The driver of the car told police he thought he had run over a garment dropped on the pavement. He ran back to pick it up, he said, and found Lawrence unconscious and dying.

FAMOUS HOTEL AT CARMEL IS RAZED BY FIRE

CARMEL, Dec. 17.—The famous La Playa hotel, which for a score of years has been the favorite stopping place of writers and artists, is in ruins today. Fire, which started during the night on the third floor, swept the structure before aid could be secured from Monterey. The loss is estimated at $70,000.

The fire is believed to have started from an overheated stove in one of the guest rooms.

Hotel La Playa was the last remaining landmark of the original artist founders of this little literary colony. The hotel was built in 1906 by Chris Jorgenson, Oakland and Yosemite Valley artist, and for many years was the gathering place of the art clan. In recent years it has been operated by Corwis Brothers, who carried $30,000 insurance on the picturesque building.

Oakland Teachers Escape New Rules

New state regulations concerning school administration and school supervision credentials will have no disturbing effect upon the Oakland system according to John W. Edgemond, secretary of the board of education, who asserts that no principals or administrators in Oakland will be subject to its provisions. The law goes into effect January 1.

The new law requires a certain length of service and a certain certification before an educator may be rated as an administrator or head of a school, says Edgemond.

COOLIDGE HOLDS CONFERENCE ON POSTAL MEASURE

President Meets Leaders of Senate and Discusses Pending Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The Senate agreed today to vote January 6, on President Coolidge's veto of the postal pay increase bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The situation resulting from the successful efforts of proponents of the vetoed postal employees' pay bill in bringing the measure yesterday before the senate, led President Coolidge today to call to the White House half a dozen Republican senators for discussion of [illegible] the measure until revenue producing legislation can be considered.

Senators with whom the president conferred included Cummins, Iowa; Gooding, Idaho, and Stanfield, Oregon.

The president conferred last night on the same subject with Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader; Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Chairman Sterling of the senate postoffice committee.

Rotarians to Hear Talk on Exports

Clifton Hildebrand, associate of an international law firm with representatives in every important shipping center will speak at the luncheon of the Oakland Rotary Club at the Hotel Oakland tomorrow. Hildebrand has just returned to the bay region after making a survey of export conditions in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans. His subject will be "Safer and Greater Exporting."

DOBLE FIRM FIGHT TO AVOID TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—A stubborn fight is being waged in the District Court of Appeals by the officials of the Doble Motor Corporation and their fiscal agents in an endeavor to obtain a writ of prohibition to prevent their trial before Judge Michael Roche for charges of conspiracy to violate the Blue Sky laws. The defendants are Abner Doble, W. A. Doble, Harold Havens, F. G. Cox and W. E. Barnard.

Their attorneys argued at great length before the court, four of them being given time to present their views during the forenoon session.

GOMPERS' DEATH PUTS REAL TEST ON UNION LABOR

Question of Following His Policies May Be Issue on Which Federation Splits.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Will the policies of Samuel Gompers live after him?

American labor's answer to that question does not depend so much on who is chosen as president of the American Federation as on the circumstances, both political and economic, which the last four years weighed so heavily on the veteran leader.

Few people know the inside politics of the American Federation of Labor, its class of viewpoints between moderates and extremists, and few people know that it was by sheer force of personality that Samuel Gompers restrained his own lieutenants. Ever since the war, the Gompers policy has been one of prevention, and when the federation endorsed La Follette, it was Gompers who thought that very act would find its own remedy. For he was against the organization of a labor party in politics though he was being constantly pressed from within to join the railroad brotherhoods in an effort to wield the maximum political influence.

In recent years, Gompers found the brotherhoods a powerful ally, but somewhat vexatious, as the policies of the two groups frequently were opposite. Samuel Gompers, however, felt more the need of presenting a united front for labor than of reconciling fundamental differences between the brotherhoods and the A. F. of L.

The problem that now comes up may affect the entire labor situation for years to come. Will this cohesive power be held together or will the labor groups be divided and even work against each other? Capital profit by the latter situation. The currents of dissension are strong and only a Gompers can keep labor united. Even a Gompers, however, has to have a favorable atmosphere. The last year saw the Gompers' policy of harmony tried to the utmost. For the sake of harmony inside the ranks, he agreed to permit the American Federation of Labor to endorse the La Follette candidacy. He had the cunning of a politician and, even those who bitterly criticized his occasional waverings and reversals, know that, with Gompers, the end justified the means and that he usually was vindicated.

For many years as Gompers has been advancing toward the end of his career, the leaders of the labor movement have been discussing what would happen when he left. It has not been unlike the discussion of 20 years ago as to what would happen to the loosely constructed Austro-Hungarian monarchy. Predictions have been made that the American Federation of Labor would split off into two groups—the constructives and the radicals. There is no doubt that, within the federation, there is already such a sharp division, but it was the Gompers' policy to yield a point here and there to the radicals and thus keep labor's power unimpaired. Will his successor be able to do it even if he follows the same policy?

The test may not come at once, for just now there is no extraordinary period of prosperity or inflation. Unemployment is not altogether removed as a factor and immigration restrictions are not yet accomplishing all that labor set out to accomplish. The real troubles usually occur in a time of inflation and shortage of labor when higher and higher wages are demanded.

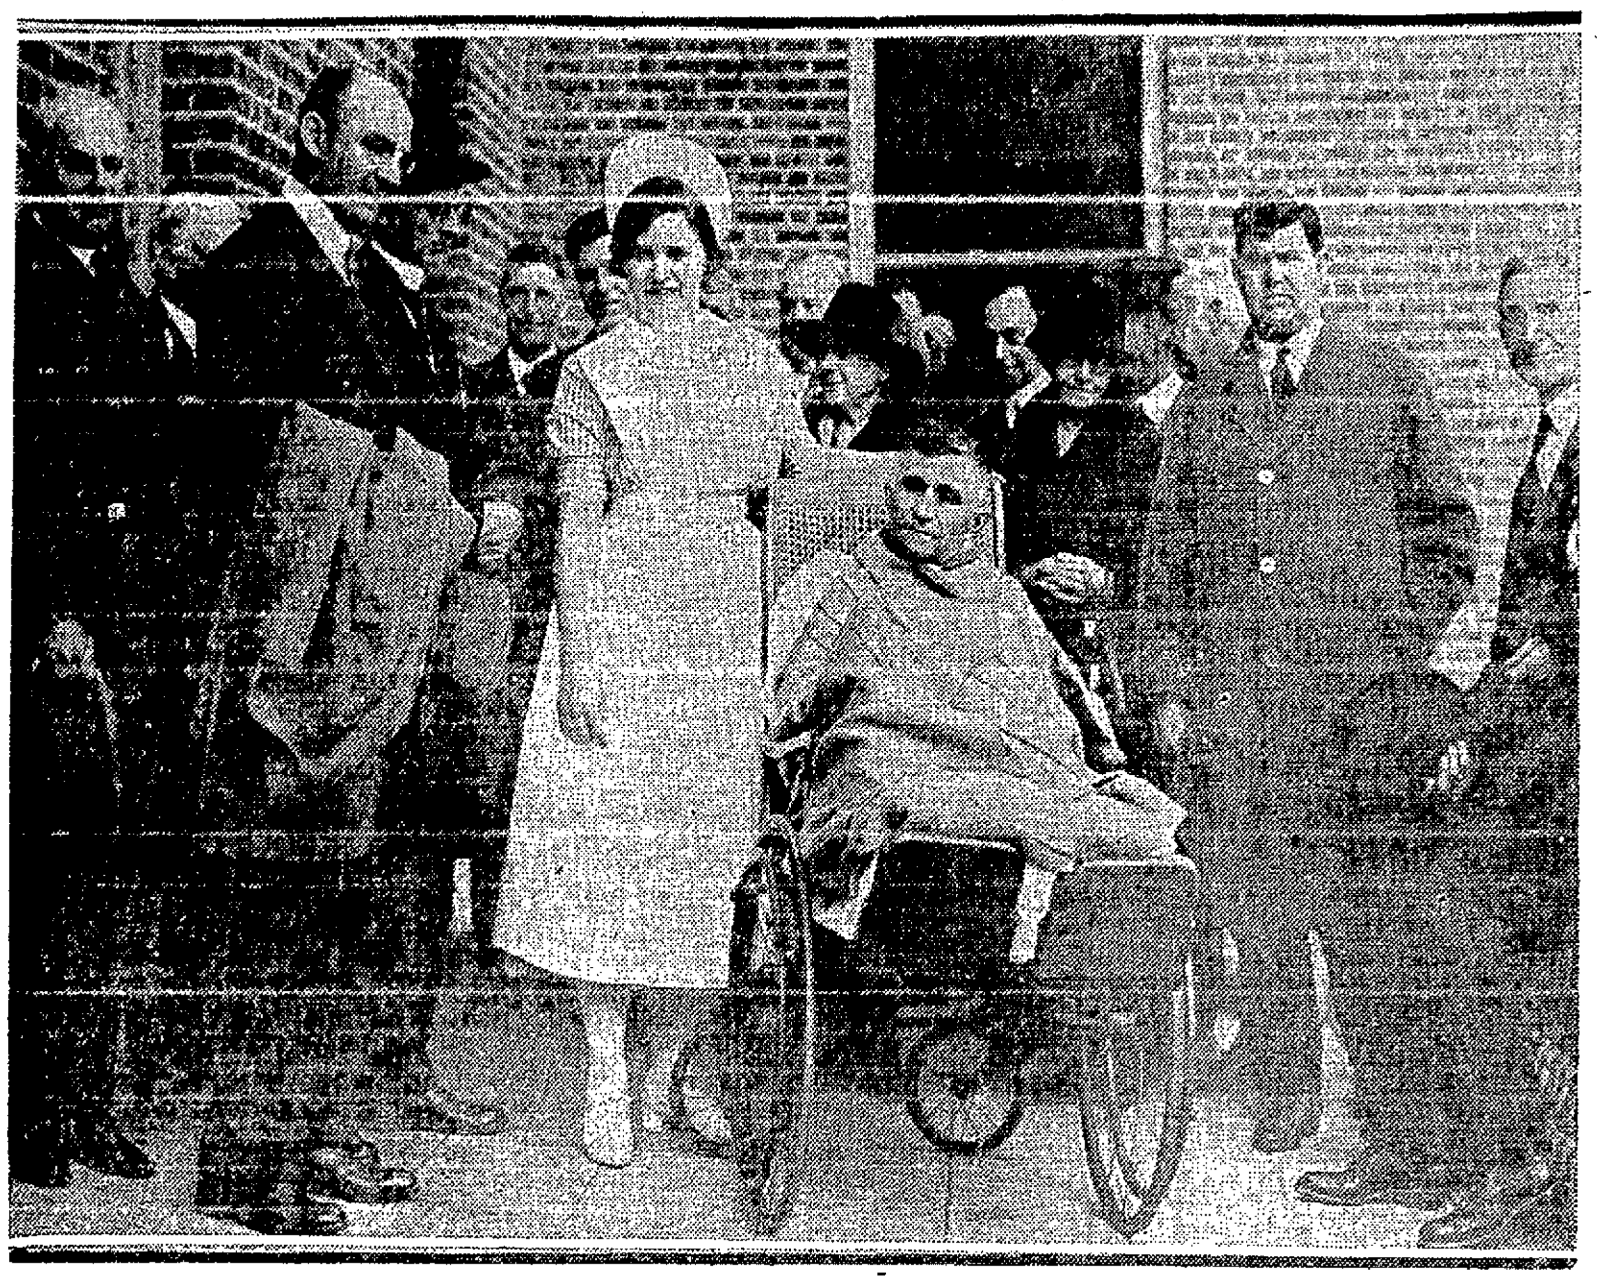
Local Building Unions Will Offer Respects

All work by union men affiliated with the Alameda County Building Trades council will cease for one minute at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, out of respect to the late Samuel Gompers, veteran president of the American Federation of Labor. The minute of silence has been timed to take place as the casket containing the body of Gompers is being lowered into the grave at Terrytown, N. Y. The tribute was decided upon by resolution at a meeting of the council, it was announced today by Charles Gurney, secretary.

Grand Jury Meets in Hospital for Wreck Inquiry

E. C. KNOBLOCK, conductor of the Short Line car that crashed into a Key System train on December 4, killing ten people, was questioned by the grand jury yesterday afternoon at Merritt hospital. Knoblock, just able to sit up and take nourishment, and still under the watchful eye of his nurse, Miss Alma Henningston, is in the wheel chair. Surrounding him are the members of the grand jury and officials of the district attorney's office.



Noted Alienist Is Sued for Damages

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Dr. Sanger Brown, distinguished alienist and head of the Kenilworth sanitarium near here, today was made defendant in a damage suit for $300,000, filed by James B. Sheean, Trenton, N. J., former vice president and general counsel for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Sheean charged he was illegally held at the sanitarium and because of it lost his position and a salary of $30,000 a year.

The suit, filed in federal district court, stated that Sheean was confined to the sanitarium without the regular processes required by law. He was taken there after a sinus operation in an Evanston hospital, the complaint charges.

Happy After Years of Misery

A Woman's Thankful Message
I write in praise of your treatment, for it has done so much for me. I suffered until I would rather have been dead, and feared I never would know the joy of motherhood. I couldn't walk, ride, work or do anything worth while, but thanks to you I am relieved of my trouble.
If I had heard of your treatment 3 or 4 years ago I could have been happy all these years, which have been misery. If any sufferer wishes to write me I will gladly answer.
MISS DORA FOWLER, Greenville, S. C.

Gratitude from Judge's Wife
I was nervous and run down before I began your treatments, but now I am very grateful for the great benefit they have been to me. I could not be without them, and if this letter will help some other sufferer you have my permission to use it.

PAN-AMERICAN SCIENTIFIC MEET OPENS IN PERU

By CLAUDE O. PIKE.
(Special Cable to The Oakland TRIBUNE and The Chicago Daily News.)

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 17.—More than 50 delegates, official and unofficial, to the Pan-American Scientific Congress arrived here on the steamer Ebro from the United States, Cuba, Central America and Equador.

The official delegates from the United States include Leo S. Rown, president of the delegation; Prof. Marshall Saville of the American Indian Museum; Dr. Albert Sauveur, Harvard University; A. W. Whitney, chairman of the American Engineering Standard Commission of New York; Dr. Long, assistant Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service; James B. Scott, president of the American Institute of International Law; Samuel Lindsay, president of Social Legislation of Columbus University; Oliver Lagorio, president of the National Geographic Society, and Wilson Popenoe of the Department of Agriculture. Dr. Rufus von Klein Smidt, president of the University of Southern California, the tenth member of the committee, arrived on a later steamer.

Women will take an important part in the deliberations of the Congress through the medium of the workers' auxiliary, formed in Washington in 1915 on the occasion of the Second Scientific Congress. Ten American women, leaders in education, science, social and child welfare, are here under the leadership of Mrs. Glenn Swiggett of Washington, a delegate of the women's auxiliary committee, who is also representing the National Council of Women and the American Association of University Women.

An official reception planned for Tuesday, was postponed when the delegates discovered they were the victims of profiteering hotels, who have boosted the rates over 300 per cent.

The Peruvian government is setting the pace of profiteering, having taken over the partially completed Hotel Bolivar and fixed a rate equivalent to $30 in American money. It is offering the guests the luxuries of life, but none of the common necessities.

WIPING DISHES NO VIRTUE IN THE EYES OF COURT

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—A man who aids his wife in washing the dinner dishes has no special claim on the title of "Model husband," Judge Calvin Miller ruled.

William Schrader was on trial for non-support of his family. A friend testified Schrader was a model husband, even going so far as to wipe the dishes.

"What was the wife doing when Schrader was drying them?" Judge Miller asked.

"She was washing them," the witness testified.

"Then Schrader has no claim to honors. The court has wiped dishes many times."

Judge Miller sentenced Schrader to two years in prison.

WILDA OSWILL, 13, one of the directors in a dancing revue to be presented tonight by Hayward youngsters to aid the Arroyo Sanitarium Yule fund, and her brother, Billy, who will be one of the performers.

CHILD DANCERS WILL AID SICK AT SANITARIUM

Youthful Undertaking Is Planned to Provide Yuletide Cheer.

HAYWARD, Dec. 17.—Public interest here is centered on the dancing revue to be presented tonight by boys and girls of this city averaging six years of age at the Civic League of Women Voters' rooms tonight. The revue is being directed exclusively by two school girls, Wildia Oswill, freshman at the Hayward Union high school, and Melba Kelly, of the new grammar school. Both are 18 years old and pupils of a local dancing instructor.

Proceeds from the revue will be used to purchase books and other gifts for distribution to the children in the Arroyo sanitarium at Livermore at Christmas, the presentation being sponsored entirely by the youthful participants of the entertainment.

Titled "The Toy Shop," the revue will comprise fancy, eccentric, comedy and ensemble dancing, with several drills, songs and short skits. Special costumes have been prepared by Wildia Oswill and Melba Kelly.

Club Organized by 59 Indian Women

ODANAH, Wis., Dec. 17.—Their own clubhouse and a crusade to clean up the town, are the first two ventures of the first branch of the League of Women Voters ever organized among Indian women here. The senior league, made up of 59 members, has an auxiliary for Indian girls. It meets once each week when the girls are given a physical culture drill after their lessons.

DECADECHANGED WOMEN'S WORLD, SAYS FEMINIST

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Women have made more progress and have written more into history in the past ten years than in all previous history, said Miss Helen M. Bennett, who, with Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, is organizing the Woman's Progressive Exposition. The exposition, first of its kind, will be held here April 18-25.

Once upon a time there were only three occupations that "nice girls" would enter, Miss Bennett said. These were teaching, dressmaking and keeping boarders.

"Today there are only three occupations that I know of which women have not entered," Miss Bennett stated. "These are blacksmithing, working in steel mills and acting as president of the United States."

In time women will hold the last mentioned job, she prophesied.

English Adopted By Manila College

MANILA, Dec. 17.—Santa Tomas University, the oldest college under the American flag, has decided upno the use of the English language in all classes, instead of Spanish, according to an announcement by Father Manuel Arellano, rector of the institution. The change is to be made early in the coming year, when the university will move to larger quarters. The college of engineering is wholly under English instruction at present, and several other departments also are using English.

The university also has decided to admit women to all departments The college of pharmacy was thrown open to women last June.

JAPANESE INCITES HAWAIIAN STRIKES

HONOLULU, Dec. 17.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Toyhiko Kagawa, noted young Japanese author, Socialist and Christian worker, who is visiting here on his way to attend the national Y. M. C. A. convention on the mainland, has been urging Japanese laborers on sugar plantations in the islands to join the Filipino workers in striking for higher wages, according to translations of his speeches published by the Honolulu Nippu Jiji, leading Japanese language newspaper here.

Three Filipinos addressed one of the meetings at which Kagawa spoke. They asked for aid for the few remaining strikers of the several thousand who left the sugar plantations in May. Most of these have returned to work with the exception of approximately one hundred each on the islands of Hawaii and Oahu and between 300 and 400 on the island of Kauai.

Bank Robber, Twice Escaped, Sentenced

WINFIELD, Kan., Dec. 17.—Elmer Deere, charged with participation in the robbery of the Security National Bank of Arkansas City last May, when $18,000 was obtained, was convicted and sentenced to serve from 10 to 50 years in the state penitentiary.

Deere twice escaped from the county jail here while awaiting trial, being recaptured once at Chetopa, Kan., after a gun fight in which he was wounded, and later at Nogales, Ariz.

SLAYER OF 30 MEN AND BOYS DECLARED SANE

By S. D. WEYER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 17.—Fritz Haarmann, slayer of 30 young men and boys, was declared sane today by two alienists who took the stand at Haarmann's trial.

"It is wrong," said the first alienist, Professor Schultze, "to conclude that such a crimnial must be insane. Even the most bestial of deeds can be committed by a sane person."

The second alienist was Dr. Schackwitz. He testified:

"Haarman was not insane when he committed murder and he is not insane now. Haarman, however, is a man of considerable moral inferiority."

SOCIAL AFFAIRS REFLECT COMING OF CHRISTMAS

Holiday Decorations Prevail at Teas, Receptions for Travelers.

Mrs. William Walker Phillips was the hostess this afternoon at a large tea at her home on Melrose avenue, entertaining about 160 maids and matrons from both sides of the bay.

Holiday decorations were used throughout, with Christmas wreaths and persimmon branches making a bower of the rooms.

Receiving with the hostess were Mrs. Lewis Greene, Mrs. Robert Van Bokkelen, Mrs. J. L. Blair, Mrs. B. C. Floyd, Mrs. R. E. Tooney, Mrs. J. Muldoon, Mrs. Carl Rhodin and Mrs. R. B. Carr. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. H. E. Toomey, Miss Agnes Toomey, Miss Marjorie Blair, Miss Beth Cereghino, Miss Ruth Develin and Miss Dorothy Develin.

The affair was in the nature of a farewell party, the Phillips planning to leave for Europe on January 15. They will sail from New York on January 31 and take the Mediterranean cruise. Later they will leave the party and travel on the continent, remaining away for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. Frank Joseph Corde and her daughters, Miss Edith and Miss Leah Corde, of Berkeley will entertain during the holiday season. They will be hostesses to two hundred of their friends at a reception and tea on December 27, when Miss Marion Tout, fiancee of Dr. Clark Moore Johnson of San Francisco and Miss Dorothea Blair, betrothed of Roderick Dhu Johnson will be the honored guests.

Mrs. Corde and her daughters have recently returned from a several months' visit in the eastern cities and the Canadian provinces.

Miss Robbins To Be Hostess

Miss Esther Robbins have sent out cards for a luncheon and bridge which she will give the afternoon of December 30 for a group of friends at the Sequoyah Country Club About a score of the younger contingent will share the hospitality of Miss Robbins upon this date.

☆ ☆ ☆

The young son of Master Robert Kenna, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenna, was the guest of honor at a birthday party at his home in Santa Rosa avenue recently.

The affair preceded the play given by the Boy Pioneers of Piedmont Interdenominational church, after which the boys and their parents were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Phelan at their home in Piedmont.

The guests were Frederick Snowden, Edwin Sharpe, Craig Osmont, Sam Hubbard, Jr., Billy Towne, Sam Hall, Lyle York, Billy Phelan, Harry Leach, A. Clement and Homer Hinckley.

Mrs. Alfred Rich was hostess at a bridge tea at her home this afternoon across the bay, the guest of honor being Miss Allene Edoff of the Hotel Clairmont. A number of close friends of the honoree crossed from this side of the bay.

☆ ☆ ☆

Yesterday afternoon Miss Marjorie Bond was hostess at a bridge afternoon at her home in Berkeley complimentary to Miss Eloise Gibbs whose wedding to Victor Strite will be an event of January 3. A dozen intimate friends were guests.

Saturday afternoon Miss Virginia Wynkoop will entertain for the bride-elect at the G. P. Wynkoop home in the college city.

Wedding To Be At Sorority House

At the Delta Zeta sorority house in Berkeley Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock Miss Elsie Jaeggi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Jaeggi of Columbus, Neb., and Harry Lee Hess are to be married by Rev. Frank M. Silsley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in this city.

Miss Jaeggi has made her home at The Jackson in this city for some time. She will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Hedwig Fontein who has come from her home in Nebraska to be present at the ceremony.

Mr. Hess and his bride will motor through the southern part of the state on their honeymoon and upon their return reside in a new home in Mandana boulevard.

Ralph Beebe will be best man.

Miss Jaeggi is a graduate of the University of California. Mr. Hess is a Stanford graduate. He is a son of Mrs. Florence Hess of Baltimore, Maryland.

NEW RAIL LABOR PLAN PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Formation of a new plan for adjusting disputes between railroad managements and employees will be discussed at a conference here in January, it was learned today.

Representatives of the railroad executives and the unions will be brought together through the efforts of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee. The plans for the conference have the approval of President Coolidge.

Merchant's Death Declared Suicide

Suicide by poison was the cause of the death of Lloyd B. Hotaling, 41, Redwood city merchant, in Oakland Sunday, according to an inquest by Coronor Grant D. Miller.

The only reason for suicide which relatives could suggest, was worry over the long illness of his wife. The latter, hearing of her husband's death, has suffered a relapse, it is said.

Former L. A. Police Head Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Louis D. L. A. NOT TO ANNEX SANTA MONICA

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 17.—Boundaries of Los Angeles will not be extended further in this direction. Voters of the city defeated a proposition to annex Santa Monica to Los Angeles by nearly one thousand majority, a poll of yesterday's balloting revealed today.

Berlin Aims Blow At Wireless Fans

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Aviators flying over Berlin report that the numberless radio antennae over the houses of the city give it the appearance of a huge spider web. In the early morning hours the wires, stretching endlessly from roof to roof, shine brightly with their coverings of frost.

Seemingly harmless, and adding to the pleasure of radio fans, these wires have, however, created a serious problem. The chimney sweeps have protested that they interfere with their business, and in this they are supported by the men who repair roofs. Nor do the landlords like aerials and lead-ins.

As a result of these various objections, a city ordinance has been passed to the effect that all radio equipment over roofs within the city limits must come down.

FEDERATED CLUBS SET RECIPROCITY PROGRAM JAN. 12

Alameda and S. F. Leaders to Hold Joint Conference Luncheon.

By EDNA B. KINARD

A conference luncheon, at which will be discussed the home and its claims, has been arranged to bring together leaders in Alameda and San Francisco districts, California Federation of Women's Clubs, early next year. Monday, January 12, has been named the date for the reciprocity program which will stress those close relations which exist between the organized women in the cities bordering the bay. Several score guests will assemble at Hotel Bellevue, San Francisco, for the joint conference. Mrs. Elon Lafayette Warner of Oakland-Alameda district president, and Mrs E. F. Wale of San Francisco, district president, will be co-chairmen of the day.

☼ ☼ ☼

The morning hours will be given over to brisk reports presented by chairmen of departments within the districts represented. This feature of the day's program has been arranged to offer opportunity to the leaders to become familiar with the work which each section is carrying on. A round of toasts will immediately follow the luncheon.

Mrs. E. B. Woodbridge of Roseville is announced as the principal speaker of the afternoon.

California Federation of Women's Clubs is stressing the home and its importance in national life this year. The outlined program urges clubwomen in their homes to give particular attention to table conversation. It is pointed out that disagreements and nagging during the meal hour directly results in bad digestion and finally in disruption of family life. The state federation has attacked the problem as a serious one and is striving, through its officers and department chairmen, to call sufficient attention to the importance of a serene gathering of the family about the table to put in the discard the practice of discussing the faults of each member while the meal is in progress.

The annual Christmas tea of the San Francisco Bay Branch, American Association of University Women, will feature "Somebody—Nothing," a Japanese farce, in pantomime. Miss Teresa Hess will read the short Oriental play. Appearing in the cast will be Miss Clara Stark, Miss Anne Whitley, Mrs. A. H. Taylor. The production will be directed by Mrs. Joseph Fife. The music has been arranged by Mrs. Frank H. Dunne.

The Post street rooms (San Francisco) of the university women will give setting to the Yuletide party Saturday, December 27.

Mrs. Yona Tsuda Abiko, sister of Miss Tsuda, founder of Tsuda College, Japan, will be a guest of honor. Mrs. Abiko will give a short account of the institution in which her sister has figured so prominently. Miss Tsuda was a former student in Bryn Mawr.

Mrs. Charles Weile will be assisted in receiving at the December meeting by a half-dozen prominent members. Women who have enrolled in the local branch during the year will be extended special compliment.

Reaffirmation of the declaration of support to the federal child labor amendment which has been submitted to the states for approval has been made by officers, department chairmen and members of Alameda District, California Federation of Women's Clubs. With the question of ratification coming before the legislature of California next year, the clubwomen have again pledged their backing to the campaign on behalf of the amendment, which will give power to regulate the labor of children to the federal government.

The resolution was introduced before the December meeting of Alameda District, C. F. W. C., and unanimously adopted.

E. C. Lyon, newly-elected president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker on the Thursday luncheon program of the Oakland Business and Professional Women's Club. Miss Zanette W. Potter, assisted at the piano by Miss Marguerite Blake, will direct a drill in Christmas music.

The clubwomen are still enjoying the novelty of their attractive and spacious banquet hall, which is a feature of the new clubhouse.

All the young people who find in the Alexander Community House the center of their social life will have their faith renewed in old St. [illegible] parties in the Third and Linden streets building. Monday afternoon and evening have been set aside for a series of parties which will claim their guests according to years.

The elders are not to be forgotten, however. An old-fashioned Yuletide party is being planned for them on Tuesday evening.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Tompkins junior high school, assisted by the Business Men's Club, the Thistle Club, the Campfire Girls, the Girls' Hiking Club and the Up-to-the-Minute Club, is making the Christmas festivities possible.

Blue Bird Bureau

HOUSE OF HAPPINESS

The Blue Bird bureau is trying to take Christmas cheer in the form of gifts of playthings for the little fellows, books and games for the older children, into homes otherwise desolate. Goodfellows are helping, both by taking families and by contributing to the general fund, but more help is needed. Have you selected your family yet, Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow? If not, come in or write or phone to the Blue Bird department for the names and addresses of one or more families to whom you can be Santa Claus. Perhaps you can give happiness to two or three children if you cannot take a whole family. Try to help in some way. Your pleasure will repay you.

"Dear Blue Bird:

"I am writing to you because I am in need. My husband hasn't been working only two or three days a week and that isn't hardly enough to keep us going. I am a mother of four little children, three girls and one boy, and they are looking forward to Christmas, and I know there will be none unless you, dear Blue Bird, will make them happy on Christmas morning. They all need shoes the most of all things. The girls are 9, 7 and 2. The boy is 5. I hope you will send them some kind of a present so they won't think Santa Claus has forgotten them. I have been trying not to send to you for help but I am surely glad there is a Blue Bird to make my little ones happy."

Dinner for four. Not much to ask, Goodfellows, but it means joy on Christmas Day for this little girl and family:

"Dear Blue Bird:

"I am a girl of 12 years old and I have no mother and father and am staying with my grandmother and she is a poor widow and I have a sister, 8 years old, and an aunty, 15 years old. Kindly help for a Christmas dinner or in clothing or anything you can. We will be much pleased."

Goodfellows will there be anything to make it feel like Christmas for the little one who wrote the following letter?

"Dear Blue Bird:

"I thought I would drop you a few lines to see if you have anything that you could give me for Christmas. I am 6 years old. I have a little brother 3 years old. I would like to have something in the line of clothes but my daddy is out of work and my mama is sick most of the time. I would be glad if you could remember me with something. I would be pleased with any little thing so that it would feel like Christmas. Please remember my little brother, too. P. S. My mama helped to write this letter."

A direct appeal to Goodfellows is made by the writer of this letter:

"Dear Blue Bird:

"I wonder if any of the Goodfellows can help out in my case. We have five children and as my husband is only a laborer we can scarcely eat and pay bills let alone get other necessary things. We have two full sized beds and one three-quarter size and every one of them the mattresses are falling to pieces. I wonder if any of the Goodfellows have any mattresses or a cookstove stored away that I could have. I surely would appreciate it. The cookstove would save the gas bill and furnish heat besides as my husband can get wood from where he works. Hoping some Goodfellow can help me out. I am, Yours truly."

WIDOW WILLED BELMONT WEALTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The will of the late August Belmont was filed for probate today. The largest bequests are to the widow, Mrs. Eleanor Robson Belmont. No less than $700,000 in securities are to be set aside for her, so as to provide her an annual income of not less than $30,000. In addition she is willed in trust the Belmont country estate and racing stable at Babylon, Long Island.

Personal property acquired prior to the marriage with the former actress is bequeathed to the testator's surviving children and the children of his deceased son, August Belmont Jr.

16 Marines Desert San Diego Hospital

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 17.—Arrangements were being made today for the care of 16 merchant marine veterans, who again late yesterday left the Alpine Tubercular Sanitarium, where they were being cared for under government supervision. Dr. J. R. Perry, United States Surgeon for this district, said that while technically the men were deserters, he would try to arrange for their care. Last night the men were quartered by local army and navy Y. M. C. A.

It was expected that today arrangements would be made for four of the men to go to the marine hospital in San Francisco, two others will be sent to Fort Stanton, N. M., and the others will be urged to return to Alpine until arrangements can be made for them at a Los Angeles hospital.

Germans Aid Lawyer Adjusting Claims

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — Alexander Otis, attorney for American representatives of the mixed claims commission, who has spent the last six months in Germany arranging settlements of more than one thousand claims of American citizens, aggregating over $18,000,000, arrived home on the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin.

"We would not have been able to conduct our investigation in such an expeditious manner if it had not been for the thorough co-operation of the German government," Otis said.

MIDWEST FERTILE FIELD FOR BOGUS STOCK SALESMEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The industrial middlewest, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, is probably the heaviest loser in the country by the operations of the fraudulent stock promoter, according to a nation-wide survey now being undertaken by the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

The survey is based upon the answers to a questionnaire sent out to 40 Better Business Bureaus and nearly 300 Chambers of Commerce in every state in the country. It revealed that the per capita stock loss throughout the country is about $6, and that the group of individuals who pay the highest toll are mine and factory workers, chiefly of foreign birth.

Next to Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, the industrial east—Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, and, to a less extent, New Jersey—is the heaviest loser in the country. The old south and the agricultural middle west of Iowa, the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska are relatively immune from fraudulent stock promotion. And so also, but to a less extent, is the Rocky Mountain region. Along the Pacific coast, particularly, the southern part, and in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, the losses again are heavier.

The highest per capita loss of any town or group of towns, $40, was reported by seven adjoining towns in Pennsylvania. The combined population of all of these towns is about 10,000. Two cities of 40,000 population, one in Michigan and one in Ohio, each reported a loss of $1,000,000, or $25 per capita.

In Detroit the Better Business Bureau in three years had reduced fraudulent stock losses from about $35,000,000 to $15,000,000. In Long Beach, Cal., stock promotion schemes aggregating over $63,000,000 had been checked in seven months and their promoters thrown into bankruptcy.

Although the aggregate stock losses throughout the country are now about $600,000,000 a year, it is estimated that in the next two or three years, with adequate public cooperation in the "Before You Invest — Investigate" movement, this amount will have been cut in half, and $300,000,000 will be turned back into the pockets of the American public.

OLD TALES LURE INDIANS TO HUNT FOR ANDES GOLD

Incas' Decendants Are Lured by Legend to Seek Ransom Treasure.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 17.—Descendants of the Incas along the Andes still search to this day for the hidden gold which legend says their ancestors gathered to ransome their emperor Atahualpa from the hands of the Spanish conqueror Pizarro four centuries ago, and which they never delivered because Pizarro betrayed and murdered him. The gold promised by Atahualpa was enough to fill the room where he was imprisoned as high as his neck, and is supposed to have been buried and sealed with boulders somewhere in the Andes.

Every summer, when the mountain snows have melted, groups of Indians from southern Bolivia and northwestern Argentina pursue their quest, armed with picks and some of them carrying explosives to blow away the boulders which are supposed to cover the treasure. Last summer a number of them who had climbed Cerro Colorado in Argentine territory came across a mound of stones evidently piled by human hands. The stones were solidly fixed in a sort of concrete and resisted their picks. Then with dynamite they blew the mound open. The golden treasure they had hoped to see was not there, but instead the undamaged and well preserved mummy of an Inca chief. A few silver trinkets and a huge strange disc of copper had been entombed with him, but no gold.

The Indians carried their late ancestor to the town of Salta and irreverently sold him a few weeks ago to Justo Ducasse, an archeological collector of Buenos Aires, who has brought him here and tells the story of the discovery. The mummy wears a crown of parrot's feathers as fresh as if they had just been plucked, and a curious blanket of black and white check with an embroidered red fringe. The long hair is plaited. A bone tag attached to the crown denotes he was of high rank.

VIOLATORS OF DRY LAWS ARE DENIED U.S. CITIZENSHIP

Texas Judge Rules Applicants Must Observe Constitution During Probation.

By ROBERT T. SMALL,
Special Correspondent of The Oakland TRIBUNE.

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 17.—"While thousands upon thousands" of the "best people" of the United States are "notoriously indulging themselves in unlawful possession of liquor," is it fair to bar from American citizenship four aliens who during their five years' term of probation in this country have been convicted of violating the Volstead Act by making or possessing liquors for their own use?

Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson of this district has decided that it is, and has filed an opinion which is likely to serve as a guide at other bars of justice where the final papers of a person about to become an American citizen are issued.

Not many citizens know just what the test of good citizenship really is. As imposed on the alien it is a question as to whether or not during five years at least he has "behaved as a man of good moral character attached to the general principles of the United States and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same."

It was argued in favor of the aliens that "thousands upon thousands" of Americans who are daily violating the constitution are not even upon conviction deprived of their citizenship, and that the offenses of would-be citizens were misdemeanors, no worse, in fact, than a violation of the traffic laws or any engagement at fisticuffs. Judge Hutcheson's ruling on these points says in part:

"To minds honorable enough to see ourselves as others see us, there is no doubt that the com-good citizens toward the violation of the eighteenth amendment makes the United States in its prosecution of the ignorant and the poor appear to be engaged to some extent in a piece of colossal humbuggery; nor can I avoid the feeling that it may appear to some to savor of judiciary Pecksniffcanism to refuse an application for citizenship for doing what common repute declares is approved in best society.

"The governing naturalization organizations, however, point the way for me to follow. Neither traffic laws nor laws concerning breaches of the peace, fistic encounters, rest on or are embodied in the constitution. The prohibition amendment is an integral part of the constitution, and if I follow the law both literally and upon its reason, I can but hold that whoever broke it during his probationary period has deliberately broken the law and its principles."

Judge Hutcheson holds in effect that granting American citizenship to foreigners is not a matter of right, but rather one of grace, and it behooves the applicant to be on his good behavior, no matter how much the "best people" may continue to transgress.

The rejected aliens may apply again five years from their last conviction.

Lecture Illustrated With Moving Picture—For Women Only

Halldis Stabell, director of the "Institute for the Renaissance of the Body," of Stockholm and Christiania, gives this lecture in the City of Paris Beauty Salon tomorrow at 2:30 P. M.

Mme. Stabell has lectured before the Medical Associations of Europe, and has come to America to lecture before scientific audiences as well as the medical profession.

We feel fortunate indeed to have secured Mme. Stabell to lecture for our patrons and friends of the Bay Cities, and the short three-quarters of an hour's time taken will be well worth your spending tomorrow—no charge for admission.

Mme. Stabell teaches the mastery of the body through exercise—exercise that does not make one muscular, but helps to regain the beautiful contours of youth. In fact Mme. Stabell has been termed the "body sculptor." Increased vitality and restored beauty by the means of Scandinavian aesthetic and physical culture—the remodeling of the body on classic lines, has been the life study of this famous director, who will give you the benefit of her advice tomorrow in her illustrated lecture at 2:30.

Christmas Glow — Through all the Year!

WHAT more surely carries the glow of Christmas into the after-months than the gift of an electric appliance? So is the spirit of the Holidays translated into many hours of convenience, comfort, and restfulness.

Electric appliances are gifts that are at once useful and in sound taste—gifts that are enduring reminders of thoughtfulness—gifts that last and are sure of welcome.

The display of your electrical dealer will suggest the appliance to solve most any problem of Christmas giving.

NATIONS LEAGUE PLANS TO REDUCE MUNITION PROFIT

Makers of War Material Are Credited With Piling Up Fortunes.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—War or no war, the munitions business in Europe is good. During the years which followed the close of the late International cannon makers picnic until 1923, the exports of material of war from one European country into another, not including warships, airplanes or similar equipment has overstepped the alarming total of $250,000,000. And the world has been almost pacific during this time.

The traffic commission of the League of Nations, which has rummaged out these figures, has set about to cut the dividends of the martial manufacturers by introducing a convention, which has been distributed to all nations, for the establishment of an international control of arms. The British government is understood to be fully in accord with the project, and its delegate to the next meeting of the commission to be held at Geneva next May will be instructed to support the document.

The new convention, drawn up at the meeting of the commission early this year, is a substitute for the one adopted in September 1919, which was not accepted by the United States.

The United States has already indicated its willingness to subscribe to such a convention.

The convention itself is a technical document of great length which experts claim so effectively limits the manufacture and distribution of materials of war as to put a stop to petty warfare among the disturbing elements of the universe, and makes it hard for the greater nations to keep a war chest in the closets along with the skeletons.

CZAR OF SPEED COURT HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Alva H. Floyd, former city recorder at Culver City whose drastic treatment of motorists gained him the title of "speed court czar" was indicted by the county grand jury here today on fourteen separate counts. The indictment contains eight counts of embezzlement, four counts of altering and falsifying court records, and two counts of destruction and mutilation of these records.

STONE TO PROBE PRISON PAROLES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—A general investigation of the entire Federal prison parole system is about to be undertaken by Attorney-General Stone as a result of revelation of conditions at Atlanta prison which led to removal of three officials there.

Stone has no evidence of irregularities or unwise parole practices at other prisons, which include Leavenworth, Kansas and McNeil Island, Washington, but so long as the question has arisen at Atlanta, he intends to go over the entire situation.

Heber H. Votaw, superintendent of prisons and brother-in-law of the late President Harding, will assist Stone in his inquiry.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—J. Lynch Pendergast, 70, president of the United States Safe Deposit company, died today in Lenox Hill hospital, where he had recently undergone an operation.

ORDER RICHMOND HARBOR SURVEY

By LEO A. McCLATCHY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—In the event that a survey to be made next spring of the Richmond, Cal., harbor by war department engineers indicates that increased width and depth of the channel there is warranted, Major-General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers, has advised Representative Charles F. Curry that he would be willing to recommend an allotment of funds for the work, provided it would not hinder work on other projects considered of more importance.

General Taylor says that the department is not prepared to go ahead at this time because of a conflict in opinion among local interests.

"Local interests have been contemplating the construction of a wharf at the end of the municipal wharf," he says in a letter to Curry, "and also a small wharf near the upper end of the project at Ellis Landing.

"If the survey to be made next Spring shows that maintenance work on this section is necessary, I am prepared to recommend to the secretary of war the allotment of a reasonable amount to keep this channel in good condition, provided, of course, there are sufficient funds available."

Governor Defends Parole of Murderer

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 17.—The parole of Edward B. Filion, sentenced in 1921 to serve a life term murder of Karl A. Timbs, Tacoma taxicab driver, was in accordance with the custom of releasing a life termer at Christmas time each year, was the only comment Governor L. F. Hart would make on the matter here today. Filion was convicted with three others, all of whom received life sentences, which the others are still serving.

TEACHER HELD UP AS SCHOOL IS IN SESSION

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—A public school with children still in the building and on the grounds was the place of one of the latest hold-ups here, when Miss Marguerite Colford, a teacher, was robbed yesterday in the principal's office of the Tennyson school.

She saw the robber walk into the principal's office ahead of her but supposing others were there, she followed. The man whirled with a revolver in his hands and threatened to shoot if she screamed. He took $1 and some change from her purse and then attempted to search her. She ran from the building screaming.

$50,000 STOLEN FROM PAWNSHOP

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Four bandits walked into a Loop pawnshop shortly after 10 o'clock today, held up six men, disarmed a policeman who walked in while the robbery was in progress and escaped with $50,000 worth of jewelry, watches and money.

Argonaut Oil Co. Promoters Freed

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 17.—J. Myron Murphy of New York, Ernest L. Cunningham of Newport News and Paul P. Robinson of California were found not guilty of using the mails to defraud by a jury today in federal court. The men were tried in connection with the sale of stock in the Argonaut Oil Company, a Delaware corporation.

HARRY THAW FREE OF OLD CHARGES

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Three indictments against Harry K. Thaw of Pittsburgh, charging conspiracy, assault in the second degree and kidnaping in connection with Thaw's attack several years ago upon Frederick Gump, a former Kansas City boy, were dismissed in General Sessions court today. Acting District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora recommended dismissal of the indictments on the ground that Gump now is married and living in Long Beach, Calif., and does not wish to press the charges.

The attack upon Gump took place in a New York hotel, where Thaw confined the lad after bringing him east from Kansas City. Indictments were returned against the Pittsburgh millionaire, January 7, 1917. Shortly thereafter, Thaw was found with his wrists and throat slashed in an attempted suicide. He was adjudged insane and confined in Kirkbrides, near Philadelphia, for seven years.

When Thaw was found sane by a jury last spring, after a trial in Philadelphia, he came to New York immediately and gave bond in connection with the indictments which were dismissed today.

Berkeleyans Urge Gifts for Grown-ups

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—Who wants to play Santa Claus to a needy Berkeley family this year?

The Christmas committee of the Berkeley Welfare Society wants to know. Not alone are children's gifts sought for Santa's Pack. Many grown-ups in the college city may feel pangs of sorrow during the holiday season unless they are remembered, says the committee, composed of Miss Kitherine Venable, Mrss. C. L .Switzer and Mrs. H. C. Haines.

Concerning the needs of grown-ups, the committee says:

"Warm slippers, gloves, boxes containing small comforts and surprises—these would bring them much happiness and the sense of remembrance."

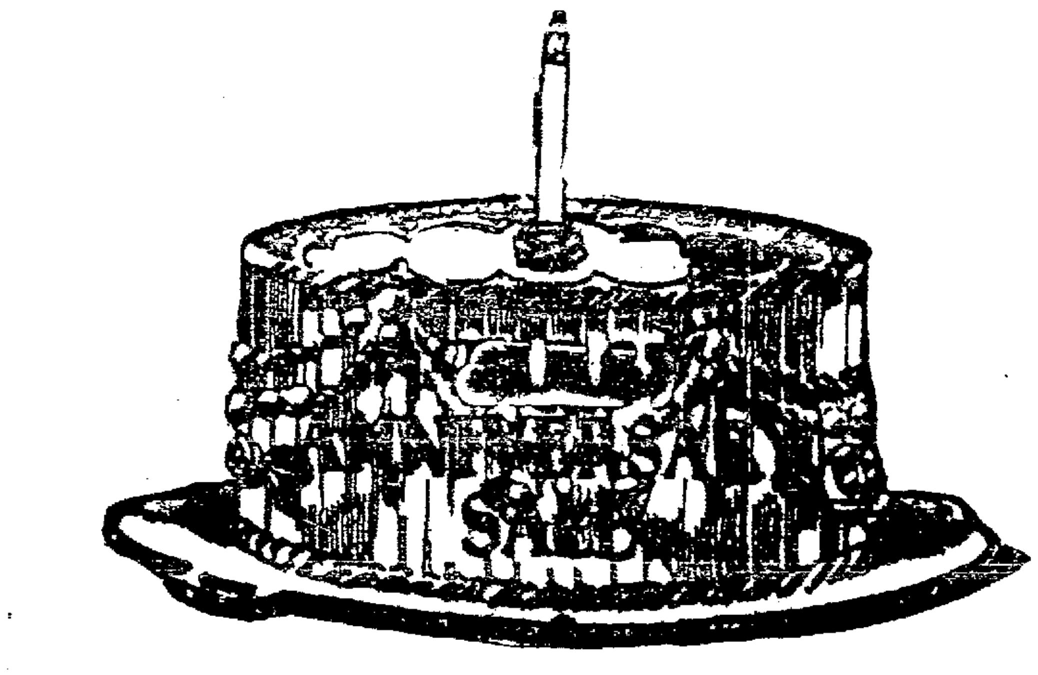
Washington Market The Market of Quality



Washington Market The Market of Quality

FIRST ANNIVERSARY SALE of the NEW WASHINGTON MARKET

December 18, 1924, marks the passing of one year since the opening of our New Washington Market, the greatest year in our nineteen years of business life in Oakland.

Great—not only in dollars and cents, but in the astounding number of new friends we have gained in our new location. Great—in the response of the public to our single aim and policy that has extended through the years:

QUALITY CLEANLINESS SERVICE

The important improvements that have been made in the market world recently are all contained in this market, which if not the finest, is one of the finest markets in the country.

QUALITY, and only the best quality foods compose our large and varied stocks, and prices, consistent with this high quality, are extremely reasonable.

All meats are kept under glass, in automatically refrigerated cases. All other foodstuffs are cared for in a similarly sanitary manner. This is a market of spacious aisles and spotless cleanliness, where you can shop for all your needs under one roof, and get the utmost in satisfaction and service.

We extend our thanks to you all—Friends and Customers—for your hearty response to our efforts, and hope to welcome you in our market on our birthday. In expression of our appreciation we offer the followng Anniversary Specials for tomorrow, Thursday.

ALAMEDA COUNCIL TO ACT ON RIVAL COMPANY CLAIMS

Charges Concerning Street Transportation System to Be Sifted.

ALAMEDA, Dec. 17.—As a result of charges and counter charges that the Key System Transit company and certain bus lines are each attempting to monopolize transportation rights through franchise in Alameda the city council today called a special meeting for January 20 when the rival claims of street car and bus companies will be heard and acted upon.

Alleging that the Key System holds an ironbound monopoly on street car transportation, and is seeking to tighten its hold, Police Judge L. R. Weinmann, attorney for the Peerless Stage company, in a letter read at last night's session of the council, charged that the refusal of the state railroad commission to grant his clients a franchise was the result mainly of the traction company representatives' statements that such added service was unnecessary.

POOR SERVICE ALLEGED.

Weinmann's letter pointed out the need for additional service and intimated that the present traffic congestion in Alameda is caused by poor service of the Key System's lines.

Residents also spoke, urging that the traction company at once install the switches on San Jose avenue ordered by the railroad commission to provide more frequent service.

Miss Mary Dixon, a schoolteacher, living at 2161 San Jose avenue, told the council that it required two hours for her to get from her home to her school in Hayward.

George H. Fox said that the San Jose avenue cars usually switch back at Sherman street because of delays, and that cars can rarely be found in the stretch between Ninth street and Santa Clara avenue.

CHARGES ARE ANSWERED.

In answer to these charges George H. Harris, representing the Key System, declared that the company had begun installation of the San Jose avenue switches, but had stopped when ordered to do so by city officials. He asserted that if congestion exists, it is not the fault of the traction company.

The council will go into both sides of the issue at the January 20 meeting, Mayor Otis announced.

Bank Employees to Hold Dinner Dance

Employees of the Central National Bank and the Central Savings Bank, affiliated institutions, will hold a dinner dance in the bank's new quarters on Franklin street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, Saturday night.

The new quarters have been prepared to house the bank during the construction of its new building at Fourteenth and Broadway. It is expected that the bank will move to its new quarters within ninety days.

A christmas present of one-half of a month's salary will be distributed to employees.

The committee in charge of the entertainment is composed of Vice-President T. A. Crellin, Cashier J. F. Hassler, E. C. Peterson, W. A. Stuart and Fred Blanchard.

Assessment Plan To Be Considered

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—The assessment plan of City Manager John N. Edy will be considered at tonight's meeting of the Channing Way Improvement Association, which will be held at the Washington school. The basis of the discussion will be the depreciation of property values in the Grove and Dwight way district due to industrial invasion. President Alfred Myers will name a committee to confer with city officials for working out a plan for the elimination of industries west of Grove street.

Richmond Landing Field Inspected

RICHMOND, Dec. 17.—Lieutenant C. V. Haynes of Crissy Field arrived here today by plane to inspect the Richmond air landing base. He was met by a Chamber of Commerce committee and newspapermen. Lieut. Haynes will make suggestions as to what must be done to put the field into condition for use by government fliers. The Chamber of Commerce hopes the [illegible] this field the western terminal of the air mail service.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

KLAN DISPUTES, PROTESTS WORRY STATE SECRETARY

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 17.—Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan continues to have his troubles with the various and sundry Ku Klux Klan organizations that have been formed in California in recent weeks.

A new Klan body, The American Krusaders of Stockton, filed articles of incorporation while protests were sent in by three other individuals against Klan organizations that have been incorporated.

Dr. W. H. Innes of Stockton, a director of the American Krusaders, requested Jordan to refuse to accept the papers of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Georgia, the original Klan body.

Another protest came from James F. de Borue of Ocean Park, president of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Nevada, which recently filed articles in California. He claims the Georgia Klan's name infringes on that of the Nevada corporation.

The third protestant is Carolyne L. Brown of Madera, who objects to Jordan accepting the papers of the Women of the Ku Klux Klan of Little Rock, Ark., or any other Klan organization other than the Nevada corporation, which is composed of California residents.

Jordan declared he is powerless to reject the papers of foreign Klan corporations, so long as they conform to the law.

STOCKTON, Dec. 17.—The American Krusaders is a social organization for male and female persons of the Caucasian race, being Protestant Christians born outside the territorial limits of the United States.

The organization declares its purpose is to promote the doctrine of Protestant Christianity, promote the welfare of the Caucasian race, to develop and safeguard the ideals of American citizenship and to foster patriotic ideals. The principal headquarters of the order are in Stockton.

AUTOIST SUED FOR $5500.

Struck by the automobile of Robert L. Phibbs while she was standing in a safety zone waiting for a street car, she claims, Dora J. Mannelin is suing Phibbs for $5500 for injuries received. She claims the accident happened at San Pablo avenue and Gilman street, Berkeley, November 8.

Congressmen to Inspect Harbor Projects on Coast

By LEO A. McCLATCHY
SPECIAL BY WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—An inspection of proposed rivers and harbors projects in California, including those at San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento will be made next summer [illegible] holding membership on the House Rivers and Harbors committee. Included in the party will be Wallace Dempsey, of New York, chairman of the committee, and Walter F. Lineberger of Long Beach. Cleveland A. Newton, of Missouri, also is slated to go along, and there may be one or two others.

After viewing the California projects, the party plans to proceed to Hawaii to gather first hand information on what recommendations should be made to the next congress for development of waterways there.

Explaining the object of the trip, Representative Lineberger said that the proposed developments at the four California cities, together with improvements which are being sought by Hawaii, are regarded as among the most important questions that will come before the committee in the next session of congress.

PROJECTS ARE IMPORTANT

"Those projects at San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento," he said, "are very important, and I want some of the leading members of our committee to see them, and to talk with the local interests so that they will have a thorough understanding of the situation. I plan to give all of my efforts on the committee in the next session to these four projects, and to giving some help to Hawaii, and I believe that we are going to be able to get them through.

"Southern California is taken care of in the last rivers and harbors bill and now I want to see Northern California taken care of. Also, I am very much interested in getting aid for Hawaii."

Surveys of the Oakland and San Francisco projects were authorized in the rivers and harbors bill now on the House calendar. Provision also is made for extending the breakwater and for dredging in Hilo harbor.

CHANNEL APPROVED

The Stockton project, calling for development of a 24-foot channel to San Francisco, has been approved by the Rivers and Harbors [illegible] sent to Congress by Major General Harry Taylor, chief of engineers, through Secretary of War Weeks.

The House committee does not plan to hold hearings on the Stockton project during this session, for an agreement has been reached not to approve any amendments, in the form of additional projects, to the existing bill. The committee has been advised by President Coolidge that the bill already carries too much money, and that some of the development which has been recommended will have to be eliminated before he will approve the measure.

The Sacramento project, also contemplating a deeper channel, to San Francisco, has not as yet come before the Rivers and Harbors Board.

To assure support for the rivers and harbors bill by senators from New England states, a movement now is under way to hold up action on the Cape Cod canal bill, which has passed the House and to tack that measure on as a rider to the rivers and harbors bill in the Senate. For the Senate to pass the Cape Cod canal bill as a separate measure, appropriating in the neighborhood of $7,000,000, fear has been expressed that senators from the New England territory would not have much interest in the general rivers and harbors bill. But if their own measure was tacked on as a rider, they probably would give it their united support.

OAKLAND KNIGHTS TEMPLAR INSTALL NEW CHIEFTAINS

Commandery Prepares to Take Active Part in Triennial Conclave.

Oakland Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, will take an important part in the Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar of the United States to be held in Seattle next spring. This was the announcement by Horace E. Hare, the new commander of Oakland Commandery, at the installation of officers last night at Aahmes Temple. The work of preparing for this greatest of Templar events will begin at once, according to Hare.

The installation was open to Knights and ladies, and dancing followed the ceremonies and musical program. Louis J. Breuner, retiring commander, was installing officer, assisted by Franklin R. Haley as marshal. Oakland Commandery drill corps, the champions of the state, under command of Major Augustus Kempkey, formed the lines and opened the ceremonies. The new commander was first installed, the other officers following in a group. After the installation, Past Commander Augustus Kempkey. There were several musical numbers by Barbara Blanchard and by a quartet composed of Hugh J. Williams, Gwynfi Jones, Alfred C. Read and Henry Lassen.

The new officers are: Commander, Horace E. Hare; Generalissimo, Walter D. Hufschmidt; Captain General, Nels P. Carlsen, Jr.; Senior Warden, Horace K. Cross; Junior Warden, Frederick A. King; Prelate, James H. Todd; Treasurer, Elmer E. Johnson; Recorder, Charles A. Jeffery; Standard Bearer, Frederick H. Tibbetts; Sword Bearer, Gustav A. Reneris; Warder, Paul A. Mariotte; Third Guard, Robert G. Arlett; Second Guard, Herbert A. Steinbach; First Guard, Harry L. Wagener; Sentinel, Peter Horvereld; Organist, Alfred C. Read; Soloist, Hugh J. Williams.

Dr. James H. Todd is serving his twenty-third consecutive year as prelate of Oakland Commandery, having first been appointed to that office when he retired as commander in 1899.

M'ADOO TAKES OUT PATENT ON VACUUM BOTTLE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and director-general of railroads, has obtained a patent on an improved vacuum bottle, it was learned here today.

The idea came to McAdoo while camping in the west. Members of his party constantly burned their fingers when serving coffee in cups usually attached to vacuum bottles.

While confined in Johns Hopkins hospital here following his recent operation, he diverted himself by working out the details of a new combination for detachable handles on vacuum bottle cups, together with receptacles for storing extra cups.

Relief Party for Americans Canceled

PEKING, Dec. 17.—The relief party of American marines that had been ordered to proceed to Kalgan, 125 miles north of here, to protect Americans and American property from looting by mutinous Chinese soldiers was cancelled today when the foreign office advised the American legation that the situation was in hand.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Captain Li Yen Cheng, head of the bodyguard of Tsao Kun, deposed president, was murdered on the steps of the temple of heaven, the president's residence, according to Peking despatches today to the Express.

This murder, as well as the death from exposure of Tsao Jui, brother of the former president, was laid at the doors of agents of Feng Yu Hsiang, Christian general, by adherents of Li and Tsao.

S.F. Chamber Protests Navy Yard Pay Boost

BY LEO S. McCLATCHY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Telegraphic protest of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce against proposed wage increases for civilian employees at the Mare Island Navy Yard, Vallejo, was received here today by the Navy Department.

Reaction on employees of private shipyards and industries occasioned by any wage increase is cited for the opposition.

Appropriation Bills Hold Right of Way

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Holding to its program of conceding appropriation bills right-of-way, the Republican steering committee of the House declined today to give preferential status to the bill to appropriate $53,000,000 for river and harbor improvements.

BABY HOSPITAL FUND INCREASED

Branches of the Baby Hospital Association met yesterday at the Hotel Oakland. Reports of the year's work were read following the luncheon and the total of contributions to the building fund was announced, bringing the sum of [illegible], bringing the amount in the building fund to $48,550.12.

It is the hope of the association to commence their new building within the coming year, so extensive are the demands upon the hospital for service to sick children.

Dr. Clifford Sweet, a member of the Baby Hospital staff, addressed the members, congratulating them upon their work in the past and pointing out the need of a children's hospital.

"There is the great group of children of the middle class where the fathers have sufficient funds to support the family but not to with- [illegible] ness. It is such as these that the Baby Hospital serves."

Dr. Sweet pointed out the fact that there is greater need in the county for more hospital beds.

During the year the Garden branch contributed its share of work to the amount of [illegible].

ENTERTAINMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA TEAM PLANNED

Visitors Will Be Feted by U. of C. and Alumni of Eastern School.

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—The University of California band and officials will greet the Pennsylvania football team on their arrival in Berkeley, December 30, it was announced by Raymond W. Cortelyou, graduate athletic manager of the Berkeley university.

The visitors will then be driven to the Hotel Whitecotton, Pennsylvania headquarters, for lunch. After the lunch, the guests will be taken for a short drive around the Eastbay. In the evening a special banquet will be given in their honor in Stephens' Union.

On December 31, the visiting team will hold a short practice in the stadium, while the supporters of the team will be scattered around the bay at affairs in their honor. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has invited the guests to usher in the New Year with them.

A special section will be reserved for the visitors at the California-Pennsylvania football game at the Memorial Stadium. After the game, they will again be entertained by the alumni of the eastern university in San Francisco. The arrangements are in charge of Frank Lisle and Harry Braddock, both alumni of Pennsylvania residing in San Francisco.

Trade Pact With Germany Opposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—So strong an opposition to the German commercial treaty has developed in the Senate foreign relations committee that a sub-committee was designated today to confer with Secretary Hughes with a view to modifications.

Boxing at Last Becomes Sport Of Old Ladies

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 17.—"Ladies and gentlemen:

"In this corner we have Young Joe Davidson, septuagenarian champion of the whole wide world; in the other corner 'Kid' Peabody, conqueror of Old Age and Sadness."

With such ring parlance, a referee might introduce Miss Joe Davidson, 77, and Mrs. Ann Peabody, 80, inmates of the Old Ladies' home here, who have become so interested in boxing that they have started sparring in order to "keep in good trim."

They became interested in boxing when it was announced a boxing match would be held for the benefit of the home.

CITIES TO SEEK THIRD OF FUNDS FROM GAS TAXES

ALAMEDA, Dec. 17.—A move to include cities among the recipients of state highway funds collected under the state gasoline tax law was started today when a committee was appointed by the California League of Municipalities to draft a proposed amendment to the present law which provides a two cents a gallon tax on gasoline. One-half of this fund now goes to the state and the balance to the counties on the basis of population.

The aim of the proposed amendment which is likely to be introduced at the next session of the legislature, will seek an equal division of the gas tax revenue between incorporated cities, counties and the state, according to City Attorney W. J. Locke, executive secretary of the league.

The committee appointed by the league to draft the proposed changes consists of Archer Boden, city attorney of San Jose and F. C. Wheeler, city councilman of Los Angeles.

Berkeley Zoning Ordinance Rapped

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—Berkeley's zoning law was attacked as "the greatest detriment to the community's progress and development" by the Berkeley Realty board at a meeting held last night.

OAKLAND SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT WINS U. C. DEGREE

'Teacher Tenure Legislation' Is Subject of Thesis by Fred M. Hunter.

"Teacher Tenure Legislation in the United States" was the subject of the thesis upon which Superintendent of Schools Frederick M. Hunter won his degree of Doctor of Education last week at the University of California.

In Hunter's thesis, an outline of which was today made public by the university, he argued that — (a). A great turnover of teachers has existed and still exists; (b). There is danger of political assault upon teaching bodies if no special legislation exists; (c). Unless special legislation exists, teaching positions everywhere are upon a yearly contract basis; (d). Indefinite teacher tenure with dismissal for cause only is the rule in foreign countries; (e). Tenure legislation is justifiable and needed to assist in stabilizing the profession, to protect teachers from political assault, and to retain the efficient and meritorious and eliminate the inefficient; (f). Tenure legislation should provide a period of probation from one to three years, tenure during efficiency and good behavior, dismissal upon proof of cause and after trial in at least two schools, and the right of hearing.

"It is further argued," Hunter wrote, "that teachers' organizations tend to set up standards of professional study and growth when protected by tenure. The evidence submitted shows that there is on foot a movement for higher professional standards and professional growth, and that the movement for tenure legislation is accompanied by a tendency to protect the efficient teacher."

Hunter's final public examination was held in Haviland hall, on the university campus, before a sub-committee of faculty members headed by Associate Professor Frank W. Hart.

Convict Scales Jute Mill Wall, Escapes

SAN QUENTIN, Dec. 17.—An all-night search of the surrounding hills today had failed to reveal a trace of Harry Eyer, who escaped from the state prison here last night by scaling the jute mill wall with a rope.

Eyer is serving a term of from one to ten years for assault with a deadly weapon. He was committed from Los Angeles county.

Stray Bullet Strikes Resident of Clyde in Yard Near Home.

CLYDE, Dec. 17.—While visiting in her daughter's yard across the street from her home at 111 Wellington avenue, Mrs. W. O. Taylor was hit by a stray shot fired by some hunter on the highway a few hundred yards distant. As the shot was nearly spent, Mrs. Taylor suffered only a slight bruise.

According to a witness, two hunters with an evident appetite for meadowlark and blackbird pot pie, have been driving along the highway in the vicinity of Clyde and shooting all birds perched on the telephone lines that parallel the road.

Complaints have also been made by the farmers nearby the same highway of some of their neighbors who are slaughtering the birds in order to keep their holly berries for the holiday sale.

Pleasanton Firemen Plan Masque Dance

PLEASANTON, Dec. 17.—The Pleasanton fire department has started preparations for its annual masquerade ball which will be given in the Foresters' Hall on New Year's Eve. At a recent meeting President Charles S. Graham appointed committees to plan the affair and during this week the ticket selling committee will circulate tickets and make a thorough canvas of the community.

The department will offer cash prizes aggregating $75 for the various groups of maskers.

The proceeds of the affair will assist the department in keeping up its equipment in the acquisition of new fire-fighting apparatus.

Prune Association Sues on Contracts

HEALDSBURG, Dec. 17.—Suits against three farmers in the Healdsburg section have been filed in the Sonoma county Superior Court by the California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc., charging failure to deliver prunes, in violation of contracts with the association.

Thomas Jones is charged with failure to deliver 50,000 pounds of the 1923 crop and 100,000 pounds of the 1924 crop. The association asks $3000 liquidation damages and interest and $600 attorney fees.

L. S. Jones is charged with failure to deliver 30,000 pounds of 1924 prunes, and $1500 damages is asked, as well as interest and $400 attorney fees.

Joseph Cunco is defendant in the third suit, charging him with failure to deliver 30,000 pounds of 1923 prunes and 30,000 pounds of 1924 crop. Damages to the extent of $1,500 are asked, together with interest and $300 attorney fees.

Manteca Plans For Own Water Plant

MANTECA, Dec. 17.—This city may build its own water system. The city trustees, after discussing the matter, appointed Councilman F. E. Staller to ascertain the cost of a system large enough for years to come. Dissatisfaction over the rates of the Manteca Water Works has manifested itself for a long time. It was related at the trustees' meeting that many city residents were putting in their own pumping plants, rather than pay the rates demanded by the operating company.

St. Helena Starts Good Roads Move

ST. HELENA, Dec. 17.—A get-together meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the county with the press and representatives from Vallejo, Lakeport and Middletown will be held this evening at Myrtledale, near Calistoga.

The purpose of the meeting is to form an organization to name the highways from Calistoga to Calpella and Vallejo to Geyserville.

Electro-Homogen The Enemy of Disease

In many parts of America today people are asking: "What is Electro-Homogen and where does it get its seemingly miraculous power over disease?"

If you had a neighbor who was afflicted with a so-called incurable kidney disorder, and the best doctors said there was no hope for his recovery; and then if you saw this man restored to perfect health as the result of drinking Electro-Homogen wouldn't you, too, ask that same question?

The record achieved by Electro-Homogen during the short time that it has been available to suffering humanity sounds like a fairy tale. Hardly anyone, without having actually observed the benefits in the case of some friend or relative, could believe possible the amazing results which so many people have derived from the use of this electrically treated water.

Electro-Homogen helps Nature rid the system of toxins or poisons that cause disease. It does this by producing certain chemical reactions which set to work the natural health-giving forces within your body. For complete information and free trial of the water, call on the Electro-Homogen Company, 176 Grand Avenue, or 3418 East 11th St., Oakland. Literature mailed upon request.—Advertisement.

GOLD DAYS BAR SUCCUMBS AFTER ERA OF SOFT DRINKS

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 17.—"The Elite," the last of the famous old saloons which flourished in Marysville from the days of the gold rush until enactment of the prohibition amendment, will go out of existence on January 1, it was announced today. Since liquor was banned the placed has been operated as a soft drink parlor. The massive mahogany bar is all that remains of the grandeur which once marked The Elite as one of the most famous saloons of Northern California.

LODI LAUNCHES SPECIAL SCHOOL FOR 40 GYPSIES

LODI, Dec. 17.—Miss Madeline Simpson has, perhaps, the most unique school in California—40 little gypsies in a camp at Woodbridge, two miles west of Lodi. She has been in charge only a few days, but already finds her young charges enthused over the opportunity to study. It was deemed unwise to send the children to the Woodbridge school, as they will be in camp but a short time. King George Lee, leader of the gypsy host, is giving the movement every support. There are 25 families in the camp.

SANTA ROSA GIRL'S LIFE IS SAVED BY PHONE CALL

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 17. — Miss Jeanette Blind, pretty stenographer for Lee Brothers, storage and drayage firm, with offices in lower Fourth street, probably owes her life today to Gus Lee, senior member of the firm.

She left her desk for a moment in answer to a call from Lee and a moment later a bullet of large caliber crashed through the window of her office and imbedded itself in the wall behind her chair.

An investigation showed that had she been seated in her accustomed place she would not have escaped. Miss Blind and members of the firm are at a loss to explain the shooting, but are inclined to the theory of a stray bullet. The police are conducting an investigation.

HAYWARD

Singers to Aid in Christmas Services

HAYWARD, Dec. 17.—Preparations for a special Christmas service are being made at the Hayward Episcopal church, under the supervision of Rev. W. A. MacClean, pastor.

The choir will be augmented by local high school girls Miss Anna Meyer, soprano, Miss Thadea Harder, second soprano, and Miss Lola Kavanagh, alto. Miss Blanche Rocheau, also a high school student, will accompany on the violin.

The service will begin at 10:30 a. m. Rev. MacClean will preach on an appropriate Christmas theme.

County Will Aid Rancher Pest War

HAYWARD, Dec. 17.—If ranchers of the Hayward district are troubled with ground squirrels they will receive relief from the pests shortly by notifying the farm adviser's office here, giving the location of the property and the extent of the squirrel depredations.

This is the announcement of A. Mauchle, county rodent inspector, who works under Fred Seulberger, county horticultural commissioner. Mauchle is conducting an active extermination campaign against the squirrels in southern Alameda county and is now operating in the Hayward vicinity.

Hayward to Urge County Road Work

HAYWARD, Dec. 17.—Members of the Hayward chamber of commerce good roads committee, headed by I. B. Parsons, local banker, will appear before the Alameda county board of supervisors tomorrow morning, with similar committees from the San Leandro and Oakland chambers, to urge highway improvements for southern Alameda county, particularly the widening of East Fourteenth street.

At a recent joint conference between the roads committee of the Oakland, Hayward and San Leandro chambers, at San Leandro, a resolution urging the supervisors to proceed at once with the widening of the entire roadway between Hayward and San Leandro, with subsequent paving, was adopted.

Widening of a mile of the high-under way and will be completed in a few weeks, but the remaining four miles need similar treatment, to reduce the traffic congestion and to provide for the future of southern Alameda county towns, local chamber officials and members say.

CONTRA COSTA TO BUILD SHORT-CUT ROAD TO OAKLAND

San Ramon-Crow Canyon Route Favored by Board; Report Ordered.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 17.—Definite steps toward providing a connecting link from Danville with Alameda county's Crow Canyon road were taken yesterday by the board of supervisors with appointment of a viewers' committee composed of Surveyor R. R. Arnold, E. Ransome and Frank Rutherford.

Their report will be submitted to the supervisors on January 5. Cost of the new road will be provided from the road funds of Supervisor Oscar Olsson of Danville.

Construction of a link from Danville to the Crow Canyon road will provide a short cut for San Ramon Valley residents to Oakland.

The supervisors fixed January 5 as the time for hearing protests against assessments levied in Districts 2024, 2025 and 2026 of the Delta Farms Reclamation District.

Contract of Bergsen and Swenson for construction of the Pittsburg memorial hall was accepted as complete and an extension of 60 days for completion of the Danville memorial hall was granted the Dinnie Construction company. The extension was necessitated by destruction by fire of the plant from which the construction firm has been securing its material.

FLEEING AUTOIST INJURED IN CRASH

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 17.—Pursued by James Burbeck, road construction foreman, into whose automobile they are alleged to have crashed, M. L. Wilcox, automobile salesman, and Frank Hert, mechanic, of Marysville, figured in an accident which may cost them their lives.

M. F. Gomes, Marysville dairyman, had left his automobile in a garage for repair. Hart is said to have taken the car and Wilcox as a passenger. After striking Burbeck's machine, Hart accelerated the speed, swerving dangerously about the streets of the city. At eighth and E streets the chase came to an end when Hart drove Gomes' machine into a tree. Both men are in a local hospital and their recovery is doubtful.

Church Members Aid 1925 Budget

LODI, Dec 17. — Pointing to the significant fact that only one out of more than 400 members of his flock had failed to subscribe to the budget for 1925, Rev. Benjamin Smith says that is irrefutable evidence that his congregation is with him in his campaign to drive bootleggers and gamblers out of the city. His activities as a reformer have placed him in the limelight for months, and rumors were abroad that his congregation had split over his stand. The congregation is loyal and happy, and is supporting the enlarged campaign for the year, he announces. Rev. Smith is pastor of the First Christian church.

CHURCH BENEFITS OMITTED FROM BAN ON GAMBLING

San Jose Has Substitute Law to Close Up Chinese Lotteries.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 17.—A new anti-lottery ordinance, taking the place of the one recently declared void by Superior Judge Welch in deciding the appeal of the case of Sam Shew, local Chinese, will go into effect here on January 15.

The new ordinance, the same as the one voided by Judge Welch, except that it does not make possession of tickets for church or charitable raffles illegal in San Jose, has been passed to print by the city council and is expected to go into effect without a referendum being launched against it as was the case of the ordinance passed a year ago.

According to city councilmen, the ordinance is aimed at the Chinese lottery evil and other gambling and is not intended to put church benefits and charitable bazaars out of business.

Sharpshooter

8-YEAR-OLD IS TARGET 'CHAMP'

HOLLISTER, Dec. 17.—Young John P. Renshaw, 8, son of Mrs. R. P. Renshaw, of the Southside district, is laying claim to being the youngest expert range target on the coast. At the recent American Legion turkey shoot held here, the youngster hit the "bird" on a 265 yard range.

He was too small to carry away the big turkey his shooting prowess won him. He rung the target on the first shot, then meekly apologized "the gun was too heavy to hold steady for the other two shots, or I'd won some more birds."

Young John isn't the typical "backwoods raised kid" one would expect to be an expert shot. Of delicate build, his mother encouraged him in outdoor sports, until he can out shoot any boy in the county with a .22.

Jury Selected in Peach Sale Suit

MODESTO, Dec. 17.—Exercising the utmost care, attorneys in the $630,000 damage suit brought by the Pratt-Lowe Preserving Co. against Dr. O. W. Evans are examing jurors. They expect to complete the jury by noon today.

Yesterday's session was brought to a close at 4 o'clock when J. M. Peck, one of the attorneys for Dr. Evans, explained to the court that his condition is weakened by illness and that he needed a rest.

This ih tse second of three suits filed against Dr. Evans. The trial of the first suit resulted in a hung jury.

The complaint of the canning company is that in 1916 it entered into a contract with Evans for all the peaches over two inches in diameter produced on his 140-acre ranch in the years 1919 to 1928 inclusive. He refused in 1919 to deliver the peaches, the complaint declares.

The defense of Dr. Evans is that he sold the ranch and that the covenant went with the land.

BRITON PREDICTS NEGRO REPUBLIC IN SOUTH AFRICA

By JOHN GUNTHER.

ARUNDEL, England, Dec. 17.—Looking into the future with prophetic eyes, Sir Harry H. Johnston, the empire builder who carved out Rhodesia, Uganda and Nyasaland for Great Britain during his forty years in Africa, foresees a vast republic of the colored races playing its part in the balance of world power. In the coming clash of color which he envisions European hegemony in Africa will be imperiled and the heart of the dark continent again will belong to its own.

"I don't expect to see a black Africa in my time," said Sir Harry, who is 66, and living in retirement in his Sussex home after his years of service throughout Africa. "However, it is entirely possible that within half a century all of Africa from the Zambesi to the Sahara may be a great black republic.

EUROPEAN DISTRICT.

"The northern fringe of Africa, from Morocco and Algeria to Egypt, is pretty definitely and thoroughly European. Likewise, it will be many years before the British holdings below the Zambezi—the Cape of Good Hope and Rhodesia—can be lost to the British flag.

"But many other considerations go to indicate the eventual success of a black republic throughout Africa. The deadly climate in the central portions—the Congo and the Cameroons—a climate absolutely fatal to Europeans, is one factor. The encouraging success of the negro republic Liberia is another. The rising desire for independence—the flowing tide of color—is yet another.

"Many of the negro and negroid tribes in Africa are fully capable of independence and unless their political instincts are depraved by the ingress of Europeans they should be able to take care of themselves. The African negro at his best is a high type of manhood.

MISTAKES PROBABLE.

"The present administration, with L. C. M. S. Amery in the colonial office, is likely to make serious mistakes in the administration of British Africa. One is the possibility of restoring the old 'freehold rights' in the Cameroons. This will mean that an English provincial baron may have indirectly in his control vast stretches of Africa—deriving income from it and in abysmal ignorance of the obligations of his trusteeship.

"Africa today does not present an altogether happy picture. The recurring crises in Egypt, the Moroccan crisis, the vast sub-soil turmoil in South Africa which in some respects will be forever alien to British rule, are serious.

"A prince of the royal blood is on his way to East Africa for a hunting expedition. That young man had far better be occupied with the people of the dark continent than with its quadrupeds. The quadrupeds are worthy of far more intelligent and scientific examination than he can give them."

TAXI DRIVER THINKS FASTER THAN OTHERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—A college woman thinks faster than a college man while driving an automobile, but a taxicab chauffeur thinks fastest of all.

This was indicated from a series of tests described here today by Prof E. A. Moss before the annual convention of the National Civil Service Reform League. He told of a civil service examination for chauffeurs. College students and professional taxicab operators were used.

Two revolvers were mounted on the under-side of the running board of an automobile. One was fired by an examiner pulling a wire, and the other was fired automatically by the application of the brakes by the driver. The test was to determine how quickly the driver's brains got into motion to stop the car after hearing the first shot.

The average time of all was around a half second. It took .590 of a second for a college [illegible] foot, resting on the brake pedal, but it only took .559 of a second for a college woman's. It only took .413 of a second for the taxi driver's.

Britain Seeks to Cut U. S. Debt Payments

By HAL O'FLAHERTY.
(Special Cable Despatch to The TRIBUNE.)

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The recent discussion of war debts has hardened the opinion in Great Britain that little progress toward industrial expansion and lower taxation is possible until this country reduces its enormous payments to America, such as Monday's deposit of $91,500,000.

From every quarter appeals are being made to Winston Churchill to prepare a determined campaign to bring some sort of relief when conference next month. His response to these appeals undoubtedly will take concrete form in making proposals regarding the funding of French debts to Great Britain. One settlement that finds favor suggests an invitation to France to take over that portion of Great Britain's debt to America which is represented by money specifically borrowed in her behalf and to negotiate the settlement of this sum as well as the sum for which she is directly responsible to the United States.

CURTAIN CALLS
By Wood Soanes

HERE'S a coincidence!

Hardly is the story of Pat Kelly, the master mariner-juvenile tenor written and printed, than in comes another story of the same sort.

Playing the tramp in a show called "The Haunted House" is John Irwin, a native of Melbourne, born while his father, Captain John Irwin, an old salt, was sailing the seven seas in a square rigger.

At sixteen Master Irwin shipped his own anchor and engaged as a cabin boy out of San Francisco. He deserted the ship at Acapulco, Mexico, some sixteen degrees north of the Equator and no place for a young man who is broke and has to work on the docks in order to eat.

Irwin found it not to his liking, at all events and became a seaman again returning to San Francisco on a tramp schooner. While he was roaming about the old Coast, he and a comrade got into an altercation over the pulchritude of one of the Barbary princesses.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is coming to Ye Liberty next week

The battle that ensued from which Irwin emerged an easy victor turned his attention for the moment from square riggers to squared rings and his career from that time on is rather difficult to follow for he is to be found at one moment swabbing the decks and at the next prancing over the padded floor of the prize ring.

Irwin did a lot of burlesque fighting with his act "The Kid's Last Fight" presented twenty-five years ago at Tony Pastor's and he did some noteworthy boxing as the records of New Hampshire attest when he secured the title of heavyweight champion of New England by knocking out Dick O'Brien.

Now in the autumn of his youth he has elected to stay by the stage and see it through. His recent New York appearances have been in "The Cup" and "The Dust Heap" which shows that he cannot pick his theatrical successes as he could his pugilistic, both having flopped.

Maxim Gorky Tells How to Do It

In a preface to his new play "The Judge" Maxim Gorky advances some interesting ideas about the theater in general and the drama in particular, the keynote being the sentence: "I must say that, as I watch the development of the modern drama in general, I am inspired with the highest hopes. I have no sympathy with those who weep over the decline of dramatic art."

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

James M. Ward is at the Bush Street in "Arrah-na-Pogue."

Gorky goes on to say that he believes "The Judge" to be his best dramatic work but "I am rather doubtful whether this play will be thought sufficiently interesting for any American manager to produce. I am inclined to think that in America the theory of spiritual salvation through suffering is not as popular as it used to be in Russia.

"I say 'used to be' because I trust that Russia has borne enough suffering to have acquired an undying hatred for it. About the American stage I may, however, be mistaken. I admit I have no very definite notion to the tastes of audiences or the likes or dislikes of theatergoers. On the rare occasions when I enter a theater I make sure, beforehand, that the play will offer me a relief from the tragic realities with which our daily existence is filled.

"The best play, in my opinion, is that at which we are permitted to laugh, gaily and without malice, at the fatuity of our fellow-creatures. . . . to forget, for an hour or two the harsh realities we have so heedlessly and recklessly ourselves created, against which it is so easy to break our hearts as well as our skulls. Men labor so hard they deserve happy and healthy recreation."

And then Gorky proceeds to write "The Judge" a dismal account of the terrifying adventures of a run-away convict who is driven to suicide by a foul comrade who visits him in his opulence to wreak a delayed vengeance by threatening to give him up to the law, a sombre play of the type of "The Lower Depths" and "A Night's Lodging" but an excellent one withal.

U. S. to Join Chico in Irrigation Survey

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—Secretary of the Interior Work has signed the cooperative agreement between his department and the Chico, Cal., Chamber of Commerce for a preliminary survey of the proposed irrigation project covering 35,000 acres in Tehama and Butte counties.

Under the contract the government will make available $5000 immediately upon deposit of a like amount by the Chamber, and an additional $5000 will be advanced by each if necessary.

The contract was the result of a petition by Senator Shortridge and other Californians. The federal bureau of reclamation will conduct the survey.

Portuguese Airmen Plan World Flight

LISBON, Dec. 17.—Considerable progress is being made with plans for an air fight across Europe, northern Africa, Asia and America, which Commander Sacadura Cabral and Admiral Coutinho are proposing to start in March. The two aviators have bought five airplanes in Holland for the flight. The proposed route is through Algiers, Malta, Crete, Aleppo and Basrah; thereafter it follows the course mapped out for MacLaren, the English flyer, ending at St. John's, Newfoundland. This represents a total distance of 17,650 miles. It is not proposed to cross the Atlantic.

CARQUINEZ DAM TO WAIT HOUSE COMMITTEE VISIT

Solons Will Inspect Federal Projects in Nevada and California in 1925.

By LEO A. McCLATCHY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—An inspection tour of projects in California, Nevada, and possibly Hawaii, which are under jurisdiction of the interior department is being planned for next summer by the subcommittee of the House appropriation committee, which looks after matters relating to the interior department.

The idea is to visit national parks, forests, reclamation projects, mining districts and Indian schools and reservations, with the view to securing first hand knowledge of existing conditions, so that when appropriations are sought the committee members will be familiar with the needs of the different places.

A special inquiry would be made into districts where there are government land offices to determine whether an effort should be made in the next congress to abolish some of these offices and consolidate others. The committee had recommended such action when it reported at the opening of the present session the interior department appropriation bill, but the House declined to accept the suggestion.

HOUSE-SENATE SPLIT.

An investigation also would be made of the proposed Spanish Springs reclamation project in Nevada, the dispute over which threatens to kill the entire interior department bill. The House sustained the recommendation of its committee in striking from the budget the $500,000 appropriation which had been recommended for this project, but the Senate appropriations committee promptly restored it. Western Senators anticipate that the Senate will sustain its committee, and have agreed that, if necessary, they will kill the entire bill unless the House recedes.

The proposed Deer Creek reclamation project near Chico also would be inspected. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge has asked Secretary Work and Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation commissioner, to set aside from the reclamation fund a sufficient sum to make a survey of this project to determine whether the government would be warranted in undertaking its development.

CARQUINEZ DAM.

Another issue that would be looked into would be the proposed construction of a dam across Carquinez Straits, to keep salt water out of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers. A survey of this project now is being made by the reclamation bureau, which put $25,000 for the work to meet an equal sum provided by the State of California and the Sacramento Valley Development Association. Preliminary borings which have been made are reported to have shown that such a dam could be built.

The committee would visit the Lassen Volcanic National Park for which the national park service has been seeking appropriations with which to start development work. So far, all that Congress has allowed for this park has been for maintenance.

Committee members have expressed a desire to visit the Hawaii National Park, so as to get an idea of what is needed for development there.

Representative Louis C. Crampton of Michigan is chairman of the sub-committee having jurisdiction over the interior department. Other members are Representatives Frank Murphy of Ohio, Edward T. Taylor of Colorado, Burton L. French of Idaho, and Charles D. Carter of Oklahoma.

CENTURY OFFERS TRIPLE FEATURE MOVIE PROGRAM

Special Bill Opens Today for Showing of Two Days Only.

Richard Talmadge in "American Manners," Norman Kerry and Mabel Forrest in "The Satin Girl" and Charles Chaplin in "Caught in a Cabaret" are the features of the triple bill which will close a two-day engagement at the Oakland Century Theater tonight.

Coming to the theater tomorrow and Friday will be Reginald Denny and Wyndham Standing in the screen version of Rex Beach's story of railroading in Alaska, "The Iron Trail," and a special feature, "A Pauper Millionaire," with an all-star cast.

"The Iron Trail" tells the story of Murray O'Neil, called affectionately "The Irish Prince," in fighting an unscrupulous promoter, for the right to run a railroad into the precious gold country of Alaska. The promoter's men arrive on the scene first and try to hold the line against O'Neil's men. One of the most thrilling fights ever screened then takes place.

The photoplay features at the theater on Saturday will be Wesley Barry in "Heroes of the Street" and Viola Dana in "The Social Code." The management will offer Maurice Tourneur's adaptation of Sir Hall Caine's "The Christian" on Sunday and Monday, with Richard Dix, Phyllis Haver, Mae Busch, Aileen Pringle and Gareth Hughes in the cast. On the same bill with "The Christian" will be another of H. C. Witwer's telephone girl series with Alberta Vaughan as Gladys Murgatroyd, the operator of the switchboard at the Hotel St. Moe.

:-: A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE :-:

Richard J. Davis, C. S., Lectures on Christian Science

Richard J. Davis, C. S., of Chicago, Illinois, a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture on Christian Science entitled: "CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: ITS AVAILABILITY IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE," under the auspices of Second Church of Christ, Scientist, Oakland, in the Church Edifice, 34th and Elm Sts., Monday Evening, December 15th, at eight o'clock.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Elmo Baker Whitmore, member of the Church, who said:

Friends:

On behalf of Second Church of Christ, Scientist, Oakland, it is a pleasure to welcome you here this evening to listen to an authorized lecture on Christian Science. Your presence indicates that you are seeking to know something more of this Science—to know what it is as well as what it is not. We are obedient to Scriptural command in seeking and we also may be assured that we shall be rewarded, for with this command is given the promise that "ye shall find."

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, continually sought divine guidance and in doing so had clearly revealed to her the Truth about God, man and the universe. In the preface of the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mrs. Eddy states: "When God called the author to proclaim His Gospel to this age, there came also the charge to plant and water His vineyard."

In obedience to this divine command and with an unselfishness which characterized Mrs. Eddy's whole life, she established certain channels through which this revealed Truth could flow to all mankind in unadulterated streams. Among these channels is the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. A member of this board is here to address you this evening and it affords me much pleasure to present to you Mr. Richard J. Davis, C. S., of Chicago, Illinois.

The lecturer spoke as follows:

A Christian Science lecture is a striking evidence that there is deep-rooted in the heart of man a real hunger to know God—a natural desire or impulse for spiritual enlightenment. It has been aptly said that no two men come to God by the same mental journey, but clear it is that they come, some it would seem by rough and rocky paths, with many seeming obstacles and obstructions in the way, nevertheless they come, drawn by that irresistible attraction to gain what no man can do without—an understanding of God.

The perplexing problems of human life today, its physical suffering, its poverty, its discordant relations in business and the home, its bondage to sin, all these are leading men to see that life without God presents a hopeless outlook. Men have come to realize that to depend upon matter in any form for salvation from these conditions is to lean indeed upon a broken reed. Under such circumstances, then, it is not surprising to find thousands of people questioning, "Is there really a God? and if so, what is His nature? Where is He and is He available? Is there a God who can help me solve the problems with which I am confronted?" In the words of that beautiful solo from Mendelssohn's oratorio of "Elijah" Christian Science declares that God is saying to us today, "If with all your hearts ye truly seek me, ye shall ever surely find me." It declares that God is available here and now, right in our very midst. Therefore I shall speak this evening, during the time allotted to this lecture, of Christian Science and its teaching of God's availability in human experience.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY.

In 1866 a gentle New England woman lay upon her bed, suffering with a severe ailment which was the result of an accident. A devout Christian, educated and reared by her parents according to the best traditions of that day, this woman, Mary Baker Eddy, had through her whole life been seeking a more satisfactory understanding of God, a God available to her own human needs and those of her fellow-men. Experiment in medicine and other healing methods had led her step by step away from matter to a consecrated study of the Bible and the spiritual healings of Jesus and his disciples. At this point in her experience, alone and helpless, and hearing what her physician, what friends and relatives thought to be her death, she turned unreservedly from medicine to God, from matter to Mind. She sent from the room the [illegible] and opened her Bible to the account in Matthew of the healing of the palsied man by Jesus. In that hour of extremity she experienced a spiritual revelation which raised her up a well woman. She dressed herself and walked into the next room, to the consternation and amazement of her friends. Face to face with God, the sense of pain and suffering faded away. She recognized her true heritage as a child of God and was free.

Fortunately for the world this was the beginning, not the end of a great experience, for she immediately commenced to study and ponder the spiritual law underlying her recovery. By this act this loving woman has made God available to all mankind through Christian Science. Thousands are today grateful for her life of service and in the future, millions will rise up and call her blessed. Turning after her own healing to the Bible in her search for the law which made that healing possible, Mrs. Eddy saw that there must be an absolute Principle back of the life and works of Christ Jesus. She felt that there was a spiritual connection between her own recovery and the healings wrought by the Master, and her conclusions were arrived at and based solely on the Scriptures. Her study resulted in the discovery of what she termed "the Christ Science or the divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love" (Science and Health, p. 107). She declared that these laws, the law of Life, the law of Truth, the law of Love, could be clearly understood by men and that when understood they could be applied specifically to the myriad problems of the race.

SCRIPTURAL BASIS

At this point there may be those here who will say, "You ask me to accept Christian Science on the basis of the Bible. How can I do that? The discussions and debates of today and the radical differences in opinion even in churches of older faith than yours have unsettled my thought. How do you or I know that the Bible can be accepted as true? Christian Science does not ask you to accept a single statement about the Bible or anything else which does not coincide with correct reason or that you cannot fully test by demonstration. Realizing this, Mrs. Eddy, herself, tested her discovery for years before she gave it to the world.

Not many months ago a young man came to me, a Japanese. He was born in the Orient and educated there. His parents and all his family are Buddhists and he had been reared in that belief. Naturally he knew little or nothing of the Bible or of Christianity, and the occidental ideas of God and of Christ Jesus were unknown to him. Like millions of other people the problems of life were forcing him to seek a solution and in his extremity Christian Science was presented. This man, a thinker, commenced the study of Christian Science solely from the standpoint of reason. There could be no other approach because of his utter unfamiliarity with and lack of faith in the Bible. Little by little he found that reason and revelation were being reconciled and followed by test or demonstration. In the line of reason a flood of light was thrown on the Bible and the life, works, and words of Jesus. This man, all his life a Buddhist, trained in modes of thinking entirely remote from our own, has accepted Christian Science and realizes that Mrs. Eddy has correctly and scientifically based her discovery on the Bible. The teachings of that book have been shown to him to be absolutely reasonable, logical, and demonstrable.

It is to be here noted that Mary Baker Eddy says she discovered Christian Science. She did not invent or originate it. In the same way that Lief Ericsson may be said to have discovered America, so she discovered or brought to light a Principle that has existed through all ages, an ever-operative divine law, indicating the harmony, Science, and continuity of being. It was the promised Comforter or Christ, the spiritual idea of God, and this Comforter or truth of being so illumined her consciousness with light that the divine facts of being came as a complete revelation, which she transcribed in the book known as "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," the textbook of Christian Science. Study of this book is revealing to all mankind "the Comforter which leadeth into all truth" (Science and Health, p. 127).

Down through the ages the law of God has always been available but there have been few who discerned enough of the truth to demonstrate it in human experience. Occasionally at various periods in history there have appeared great prophets and seers—Abraham, Moses, Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah, and others. These men approximated Truth sufficiently to uplift the thought of their people, and by practical proof demonstrate to an almost always doubting thought, an available God. Confucius, Socrates, and Plato also represent periods when men were reaching out for a clearer concept of God through philosophy, but the actual Science or law of being, the relation of God to man, they but dimly discerned.

JESUS OF NAZARETH.

This remained to be exemplified in the life of Jesus of Nazareth. The son of a virgin, he came in fulfillment of the age-old promise to save his people from their sins. He therefore was known as the Saviour or Way-shower. This way was a scientific one, being based on exact understanding of God and His law. He defined for all time the true or right way of thinking and living, the way of Life, Truth, and Love. Mrs. Eddy and all Christian Scientists regard Christ Jesus as the highest example of spiritual living the world has ever known. They revere and honor him as the Way-shower, and are unspeakably grateful for his life of self-abnegation and righteousness.

Obviously the healings of the great Teacher indicated the existence and operation of some divine power. They indicated not ignorance but intelligence—that Jesus possessed accurate and scientific knowledge of God. If the position be taken that Christ Jesus was a wonder-worker who by some supernatural power and for some mysterious purpose set aside the rule or law of being, the whole mission of the Savior falls to the ground—indeed he could no longer be called a Savior. If his acts are to be viewed as a sporadic contravention of law his value as a redeemer is forever lost. His life and works would hold no meaning or promise for us. We would be without hope to-day. But Jesus was no violator of law. He was truly the Saviour, his whole life being devoted to carrying out the purpose and plan of man's salvation. This purpose of Christ Jesus was the fulfillment of God's will. Indeed he came as he, himself, declared, not to do "mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me." He came, as the Bible says, the Messiah, to seek and save that which was lost.

In fulfilling his mission as a savior and redeemer, Jesus recognized that the only way to save those who were lost would be a practical one which he demonstrated in healing the sick and the suffering, raising the dead, and delivering men from sin. He said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Truth is the same in every age, through all eternity, and we declare that the same truth which Jesus knew and which enabled him to heal the sick and cast out devils, is the understanding of God and man which to-day is made available in Christian Science, and which Mrs. Eddy discovered in her study of the Bible and the life of Jesus.

GOD

This brings us to a discussion of God as understood in Christian Science. In fact all consideration of Christian Science must necessarily be predicated on a correct concept of Deity. But perhaps at this point someone may say, "But I do not believe in God. What Christian Science teaches regarding God does not interest me. I am an agnostic or an atheist." I know you will pardon me if I venture to suggest that what you no doubt mean is that you do not believe in the thousand or more differing beliefs and confusing statements regarding God in which mankind has for centuries involved itself. All these you may reasonably question, and in presenting the concept of God as understood in Christian Science, I do so with the knowledge that you will accept it only so far as it accords with clear and logical reasoning. Christian Science does not ask you to believe in God. It asks you to know or understand Him. Christian Science asks you to accept nothing on the basis of belief or faith. We only ask that you will think.

You do not deny that you are conscious; that you are conscious that you exist; that for the present you exist in this church and that something in the nature of intelligence brought you here. You are living, a living entity, and something makes you live and makes you think. You know that you think, that you have the power to think. Here we are, a great group of living, thinking, moving beings, and as our thought reaches out we realize that outside this church, in this city, in this country, yes, in all parts of the earth, there are billions more like ourselves, all living, thinking, moving, intelligent entities. What does it proclaim? What does it indicate? We exist, we are conscious of existence and conscious also that some force has brought us into being. Did we create or evolve ourselves? Can any one or all of us claim the distinction of being the origin or creator of all, or even a part, of conscious being? Reason enables us to recognize that all that we behold, even in a human way, certainly an immeasurable effect, can only proceed from a self-existent, self-perpetuating, and immeasurable cause, and leads us then logically to admit conscious existence, conscious intelligence and life infinitely manifested, and back of it all one infinite, intelligent cause which we in Christian Science reverently call God.

In line with such thinking, Mrs. Eddy states in Science and Health, on page 267, "God is one. The allness of Deity is His oneness." Christian Science is monotheistic in the very highest sense. It declares that God is not only one but All and all-inclusive, a conclusion which follows logically if the one sublime cause is infinite.

Christian Science demands a correct and thoughtful appraisal of words in their proper metaphysical sense. We all realize the possibility of their careless or shallow use when applied to Deity, but Mrs. Eddy gave them their full value. When she declared in her definition of God that He is All, she meant exactly that. "God. The great I AM, the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal, Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence" (Science and Health, p. 587). In the same manner she employs the word "infinite" exactly and entirely in accord with the best standard dictionaries.

Christian Science affirms logically that there cannot be more than one All, one all-inclusive, self-existent, and immeasurable God. It also follows that since the cause of all conscious being is self-existent it must also be eternal, and wholly good. Christian Science reveals, too, that since God is the one I AM, the infinite cause of the universe, including man, He is in nature not only Father, but also Mother, embodying all the attributes of love, gentleness, mercy, and goodness, "our Father-Mother God" (Science and Health, p. 16).

EVIL UNREAL.

Mrs. Eddy through spiritual logic perceived that God was infinite and wholly good and stuck to it in the face of everything that the material senses declare to the contrary. And now someone is thinking, "But evil, what do you say about evil? Isn't it real?" If evil is real, actual, it must be true; if true, it is a part of Truth, God-created and God-ordained. If God is to be regarded as the cause and creator of evil, where does it lead us? To the inevitable and unthinkable conclusion that the intelligent creator of the universe is the originator of all sin, disease, disaster, and accident; that God deliberately makes men sinful, criminal, and sick, and then punishes them for impulses and instinct for which they are wholly irresponsible. Is that an intelligent concept of God? Does that satisfy you and make you happy? Does it inspire your respect, your veneration, your love, your devotion? Does it satisfy your reason to ascribe to God all the pain, sin, and suffering of the human family? And again, if God has made us ill, unhappy, or sinful, if He is the origin of all our trouble, how dare we attempt, through the aid of physicians or Christian Science, to escape the eternal incubus of evil that this God has put upon us.

Thinking based on the false concept of the existence of both good and evil is wholly futile. And if we say there are two causes, one good and another evil, what is it but idolatry? One can see that the pagans rather naturally, but without reason, followed the testimony of their senses, which told them that there was much that was not good. But to-day shall we follow those same unreliable senses, senses which are being proved more and more untrustworthy and untrue? Can we accept the conclusion of a good God, and a devil or evil god; or shall we follow the Mosaic command, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me"? Christ Jesus speaking of evil said, "He is a liar, and the father of it,"—the lie that evil is real, God-bestowed and God-created. A lie—that was the only name he had for devil or Satan.

CREATION.

The all-wise, the all-seeing, the all-acting, and all-loving cause could originate and conceive of creation only as like itself, perfect, eternal, and good. Creation, then, the universe including man, is the intelligent, orderly effect of a supreme mental cause, and this infinite cause is self-existent Mind, spiritual and eternal. The activity of Mind is thinking, and the product of thinking is thoughts, and Christian Science declares that the divine Mind or God is revealed in thoughts or ideas, that these thoughts are eternal in the Mind conceiving them, and therefore that they are ideas of Truth, indestructible and immutable. What is the nature of a true thought, or to put it another way, an idea of Truth? Is it not to enlighten, to free from ignorance or error? Jesus said that we should know the truth (true ideas) and that these true or right ideas would make us free. In other words the true idea is the savior from error or ignorance. Truth is the redeemer of consciousness, redeeming, saving us from ignorant, dark and erroneous thinking.

Can we conceive of a universe without order, precision, or law, a universe devoid of thought or ideas? When thinking ceases does not consciousness also cease? What becomes of a man without Mind and ideas? A nonentity or nonexistence. As a man thinketh, so is he, and Mrs. Eddy says in Science and Health, on page 109, "Christian Science reveals incontrovertibly that Mind is All-in-all, that the only realities are the divine Mind and idea."

Modern psychology, of course, will tell you that the brain is the seat of our intelligence, that thoughts or ideas have their origin inside our heads. How inspiring! How reasonable! Consider for a moment our thinking even on a human plane since we rose this morning. What has been going on? Thoughts, thoughts, thoughts in rapid succession, so fast, so many, and so varied that we cannot begin to calculate or number them. Where do they come from? Where is their origin? A piece of gray pulpy matter inside a skull? Does spiritual Truth and inspiration find its beginning in a cerebrum or cerebellum? And again, if truth or ideas originate in one man's skull or brain what shall the remainder of us do? Shall we be deprived of those ideas? How shall we get them? Shall we not have truth, too?

Christian Science teaches that Truth or true ideas are in their very nature omnipresent and ever available, and denominates as superstition the notion that the majesty of Mind and its infinite manifestation should find its beginning in a piece of gray matter. Who ever saw a thought in a brain? No one, and no one ever will, for it isn't there. Mrs. Eddy in what she has exactly termed "the scientific statement of being" says in Science and Health (p. 468), "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all. Spirit is immortal Truth; matter is mortal error. Spirit is the real and eternal; matter is the unreal and temporal. Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material; he is spiritual."

MAN

Man spiritual—the exact and complete image of God in accordance with the first chapter of Genesis. "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them;" so is man declared to be in Christian Science. Let us consider this man for a moment. If God is infinite Mind, then man, His likeness, is the spiritual reflection or image of infinite Mind. God becomes immediately available to us as intelligence, wisdom, and perception, infinitely manifested. If God is cause or the Life of all being, and man is the exact image or likeness of Life, God becomes available to us as our very life and being, the energy and intelligence back of all our movements and action. Again, since God is good or Love, then man is the complete image or reflection of infinite good or Love. God becomes available to us as substance, supply, purity, and righteousness, infinitely manifested.

What does it mean to be a son of God, a real man? Does it not mean the perception and establishment of our unity with God, a realization that we are the exact and perfect image and likeness of Life, Truth, and Love, the Father-Mother God? Christ Jesus claimed his divine sonship and the priests and Pharisees called him a blasphemer, but he was only asserting his natural and divine heritage as a child of God. Shall we do less? As John says, "Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God." The New Testament is filled with statements indicating man's spiritual and divine sonship.

NATURE OF THE CHRIST

In claiming his spiritual heritage as the reflection of infinite Mind, Jesus thereby established his identity as the Christ. This is the spiritual idea of sonship to which Jesus referred when he said, "Before Abraham was, I am," and, "I and my Father are one."

Christian Science distinguishes between the corporeal man Jesus and the Christ or Truth which he exemplified and lived. If Jesus had not appeared as a human being practically explaining and demonstrating in the flesh this Christ-sonship, mortals would not have appreciated or understood him. His healings were the proofs of his divine sonship, and the Bible says that he did many wonderful works in the name of God. What was it then, that enabled him to do these works? They were concrete exhibitions of spiritual force, of intelligence. What was the power back of these healings, and how is it that people are healed in Christian Science to-day? This, my friends, is the same question that was put to Jesus centuries ago, and the answer is still the same. It was the Christ or spiritual and exact understanding of God, of Truth, Life, and Love, reflected by the Master, which did the work, and it is that same spiritual scientific knowledge of God and man reflected, in measure, by students of Christian Science to-day which is manifested in multitudes of healed and regenerated men and women. This spiritual understanding, then, was the Mind that was in Christ Jesus, revealing itself in ideas or thoughts so great and potent that they enabled him to heal all manner of disease and raise the dead. Explaining his works he said: "The words [the ideas or thoughts] that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." It was the potency, then, of the divine Mind which was in Christ Jesus which healed the sick and sinning and it is that same spiritual thinking of Christian Scientists today that is doing the work which he said would be done by those who believed, understood, his word or thought.

ALL MAY HEAL

One of the distinctive features of Christian Science is the fact that the power to heal and regenerate mankind is open to all. It is yours to-night. It belongs to no privileged class or group of people. It is true that there are thousands of consecrated men and women who are devoting their lives to the ministry or practice of healing as taught in Christian Science, but to-night any one of you, earnestly seeking Truth, may commence the study of Christian Science and its actual practice, up to your highest light. To-night you may begin to approximate the understanding of Christian Science and apply it in your life and the problems of your daily living. Do you believe it blasphemous to assume the right and power to heal as Jesus did? Do you believe that Christian Scientists are assuming too much in their loving endeavor to lift the heavy burdens of their brothers and let the oppressed go free? Shall Christian Scientists be criticized for their effort to completely fulfill the injunction of the Master to heal the sick? Are we so remote from God, so separated in belief? Have they taken away our Lord that we know not where they have laid him? People strangely marvel at what they call miraculous manifestations of divine power. But why should they marvel? Should it surprise us to see concrete evidence of that one omnipotent God who governs the universe and man in perfect harmony and order? The works of healing and regeneration seem incredible only because humanity has continued on its sorrowing, suffering way in ignorance of its Redeemer. "God is not in all [their] thoughts." The operation of God's law should seem the most natural thing on earth to us. If God is All and ever-present should we not have that attitude which naturally expects to see the power and glory of God manifest at every hand? There is a little boy of four in our neighborhood. Through his grandmother he has been taught something of the truths of Christian Science. Recently he wandered away from home and was gone for over an hour. His family was greatly worried, and his mother, who was not a Christian Scientist, was full of fear. When he finally arrived home quite serene and whole, she said, "Oh, Sonny, Mother was so worried about you. Just suppose an automobile had run over you and you had been killed!" The child looked up at her in surprise and said, "Why, Mother, I would have arosen." How we all need that sweet simple trust in God. This little fellow had glimpsed something of the immortality and continuity of being and confidently expected to see it manifested. The knowledge of God and His ever-available law in Christian Science establishes a natural expectancy of good.

If the Bible statement, "In him we live, and move, and have our being," be true, and logic and reason coincide with revelation in declaring that it is, how, it may well be asked, can humanity expect to go through life, day after day and year after year, with hardly a thought as to that divine, all-inclusive presence in whom we actually exist? Is God to be left out of His own creation? Is man a separate and separated entity revolving in an orbit of his own? The Psalmist said, "Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? . . . If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me." As has been said before, Jesus declared, "I and my Father are one." This is no separation but a distinct and eternal unity and he demonstrated its value to the race by his works. Christian Science teaches that all men will sooner or later be awakened out of this false sense of separation and realize that to know and love God, Mind, and demonstrate our unity with that Mind must be the dominating motive of our lives. Godless living with its inevitable results, sin, sickness, and death, forces men eventually to turn to Spirit for a solution of their problems, but why wait to be forced? Thousands of people to-day are turning from the fleshpots of materialism and are coming to God through the understanding of Christian Science, instead of the way of suffering.

As a first step in this direction let us assure ourselves of our love for God, good. Do we really love the Lord our God with all our heart, with all our might, and with all our mind? With the materiality of modern life so beclouding spiritual sense, how often through the day do most people think of God, even for a moment? Without question almost all will say that they very much need and desire the love of God, but to what extent are they loving him? At this first step in growth a young student may frequently remind himself, "I do love Thee, God, with all my heart and what I most desire is a knowledge of Thee and of Thy law." This child-like turning to the Father-Mother God, this sincere desire for righteousness, is the beginning of true prayer in Christian Science.

PRAYER

Many people have abandoned the [illegible] glorified kind of man, but there are still those who think of Him as a great distance away and address their prayers to a place called heaven, somewhere—as an old religious song puts it, "beautiful isle of somewhere." But God, the all-inclusive Mind, is not somewhere but everywhere, right here. "For what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the Lord our God is in all things that we call upon him for?" Unfolding as it does the fact that God is omnipresent, Christian Science changes our mental attitude in prayer. Petitions to a far-away God may naturally cause doubt as to their being heard, but there is nothing standing between man and God, not even a sense of distance. In Christian Science all things are become new and this is true of prayer both in form and expression.

Those attending our services for the first time may have remarked that the only public prayer we have is a few moments of silent communion with God followed by the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer alone, or of that prayer with its spiritual interpretation as given in the Christian Science textbook, and perhaps you may have wondered why these prayers are silent. Christian Scientists pray silently both publicly and in private. In James we read, "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." For centuries people have repeated audibly, day after day and year after year, the same prayers, many of them written ages ago, until they have begun to realize that fervency is no longer there, that often they are not said in a true spirit of righteousness, and most of all, that they are neither effectual nor available. Silent prayer leads us away from formula and ritual and the danger of vain repetition. True communion with God obviously cannot be a set form of speech but the inspired thought of the moment as it comes to each one of us, the very realization of God's ever-presence and operative Love. Inasmuch as human consciousness is constantly changing from day to day so must the thought that governs prayer also change. The need of to-day will not necessarily be the need of tomorrow. The spiritual demand of one man may not be the demand of his brother. To have the true unction of inspiration, prayer must be spontaneous, fulfilling the spiritual requirement of the moment for each son of God. Jesus recognized this when he said, "Thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet [the secret sanctuary of your own thinking], and when thou hast shut thy door [denied and barred out the beliefs of materialism], pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

"No accents flow, no words ascend;
All utterance faileth there;
But God Himself doth comprehend
And answer silent prayer."
(Christian Science Hymnal, No. 43.)

Who can penetrate or know that inmost longing deep in the heart of our brother, that silent reaching out for God, sometimes even when the outward manifestation gives no such evidence? Silent prayer unifies God and man. There is no intercession here. Straight to the throne of grace we may humbly and silently take our desires to be molded and transformed according to the pattern of the Christ.

PROGRESS AND STUDY

Christian Science commences where it finds us, it may be in sin, disease, or poverty, and begins right there the process of redemption and salvation. This redemption of the individual is not accomplished in a moment, by a kind of supernatural transformation of human beings into angels of light, rather is it the gradual and daily putting off of evil and erroneous ways of thinking, replacing them with thoughts that have their being in the one God, divine Mind. There is no record in the Bible that Jesus instantaneously turned people into saints. He met the immediate need, destroyed the specific disease or sin, and then said, "Go, and sin no more,"—clear evidence that the process of salvation was to be continued by the individual, in better ways of thinking and living until all evil disappeared. The life of Christ Jesus revealed the way of salvation but it remains for each one of us to study that Christ-way in the Bible and Science and Health and then, up to our highest light, endeavor to walk in it.

You will note that I speak of the study of Christian Science, of study as contrasted with reading. My acquaintance with Christian Science goes back many years, to early boyhood, in fact. During these years I have discussed the subject with many people. Every now and then I meet an individual who, when Christian Science is mentioned, will say, "Christian Science—oh, yes, I've looked into Christian Science, but there's nothing in it." Looked in? Looked into Christian Science, the Science of all Truth or true being! What estimate do you suppose people would place upon me as a thinker if I were to so casually remark, "Mathematics—oh, yes, I've looked into the science of mathematics, but there's nothing in it."

My friends, Christian Science is a science, the demonstrable Science of being, and it has to be studied. There is no other way to get it. As in our academic work we study the science of mathematics, and step by step, master certain of the basic rules and then proceed to apply them to the common mathematical problems that come into our experience, so is it with Christian Science. Here a little, there a little, through study of the textbook, together with the Bible, we acquire a growing knowledge of the divine Principle which we may apply and find available in the minutest details of human living. Let us take for instance the all too prevalent tendency to lose one's temper. Few of those afflicted with this unpleasant habit wish to keep it. Many struggle to overcome it and suffer great remorse whenever it seems to manifest itself. King Solomon never spoke a truer word than when he said in Proverbs, "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." Quick temper, as we all know, is often the cause of broken friendships, unhappiness in families, and discordant relations in church and business. Just as soon as one commences the study of Christian Science, however, he begins to see the true meaning of self-control, real self-government; that divine Mind [illegible] the only intelligence of man can and will govern and control every thought and motive aright. He discovers how to check this disposition, as people often say, "to fly off the handle" and to maintain the poise and peace of spiritual dominion. In Christian Science we perceive that hasty temper sometimes arises from a too ready impulse to misunderstand our brother's motives or jump to a conclusion without having thoughtfully considered all the elements concerned. Even a slight perception that divine Love alone governs man shows us how to restrain our impatience. It shows us, too, how to stop and say to ourselves, "Now, see here, this man even though he entertains a point of view different from my own is entitled to his opinion. If he is wrong certainly no exercise of anger, force, or human will is going to convert him to my way of thinking. Besides, my own thought in this matter may be wrong, and if it is, I want to give it up, because I would not willingly hold to any erroneous or unintelligent way of looking at things." Checking ourselves in this way, we naturally learn to respect another's opinion. Resentment, intolerance, and self-will are cast out and replaced by the mental qualities of brotherliness, poise and forbearance. The way opens up for a mutual understanding of the point under consideration. With anger out of the way, all parties concerned see and think clearly, and unanimity of thought is finally manifested. Complete dominion over temper and irritability may not be attained at once, but it is a blessed thing to start this overcoming process. Thousands of people can testify that gradually through the earnest application and study of Christian Science real success in this direction has been achieved.

Interesting Lecture Delivered to a Crowded House

I realize that study necessarily makes a demand upon us for thinking, and that when it comes to questions of spiritual reason and logic, which naturally bring us into the realm of God, the human mind is inclined to be astonishingly lazy and apathetic. But one of the greatest blessings which comes through the study of Christian Science is the increased ability to think. Indeed, it shows us how to think, to think accurately, clearly, and with power. It teaches us that since God is Mind, that God is the Mind of all His children—of man—that we can in this hour, as sons of God, call upon this Mind for infinite intelligence, wisdom, perspicacity, and vision. It is the divine right of man to think, to think rightly and with power, to think with that Mind which was in Christ Jesus.

This question of thinking reminds me of a boyhood experience which was so helpful that I have never forgotten it. One September at the opening of the school year, I discovered that by some new rule I could elect without consultation my own course of study. I thought that was fine, so I quickly arranged a program with all the subjects I liked—English, history, French, German, and art—carefully omitting those I did not like—mathematics, physics, and the other sciences—and I felt quite proud of myself. A day or so later I was in the studio of a gentleman who has since become a Christian Science practitioner. At that time he was teaching music and I had come for a lesson. Suddenly he said, "By the way, what are you taking at school this year?" and with a great deal of complacency I told him the program I had selected. To my great surprise he said, "But you are not taking any mathematics!" "Oh, no," I said, "I don't like mathematics." "Well," he replied, "that is not a good reason. You should learn to think. You go home and change your course; take some geometry and learn to demonstrate the truth." It was a hard blow but I took it. I went home, changed my program and took geometry and I tell you it is one of the best things that ever happened to me, because it forced me to demonstrate the truth. I was compelled to reason, to think; I was obliged to turn unreservedly to divine Mind for intelligence and it destroyed that lazy mental state which just wanted an easy time, and was unwilling to do any really constructive thinking.

HUMANITY OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

One of the most wonderful and blessed features of Christian Science is the fact that although a purely mental or spiritual Science it never loses sight of the personal element and human need. Mrs. Eddy speaking of this in Science and Health (p. 127) says that "the term Christian Science relates especially to Science as applied to humanity." As stated in Science and Health (p. 25), "The divinity of the Christ was made manifest in the humanity of Jesus." A true metaphysician, he had tender regard for the suffering of an afflicted people. When they were hungry he fed them spiritually, but he also met the human need with bread. There is nothing, if I may be permitted to use the expression, "up in the air" about Christian Science. It does not consist of a lot of beautiful nebulous thoughts and theories giving people a momentary uplift but utterly ignoring the actual human need. Real Christian Scientists are practical, common-sense people. They do not go about with their heads in the clouds and their feet in the mire. They are not cold or heartless. The scientific understanding of God as Love inevitably makes men kind and charitable, inspiring a spirit of true benevolence. There is nothing in the teaching of Christian Science that warrants a heartless disregard or ignoring of the suffering and misfortunes of our fellow-men. It is true that Christian Scientists do not enlarge upon, discuss, or accept as real or God-given the evil in human experience, but they are quick to respond to every honest or worthy appeal for help in meeting the immediate needs of their fellow-men everywhere. The charitable healing and regenerating work carried on by Christian Scientists in penitentiaries, jails, and prisons is the natural effect of our teaching that God is Love, and man therefore loving.

No better illustration of the humanitarian motive pervading Christian Science can be found than the establishment by Mrs. Eddy of the great international daily newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor, designed, as she said, "to injure no man, but to bless all mankind" (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 353). A newspaper writer from girlhood, Mrs. Eddy keenly appreciated the potency of journalism and its effect upon the thinking of the world. We often hear the term "power of the press" but to what extent have we analyzed it to see just what it means—power of the press? To what extent have we seen that what is known as human consciousness is largely constructed, framed, or built up through what we read in the newspaper? We think, whether we realize it or not, largely in terms of the printed page. Indeed it is said that we are a newspaper-governed people. Much that we think or talk about through the day finds its origin or first expression in the newspaper. Consider for a moment! Every morning here in this city thousands of you get up and stream out into the streets and buy a newspaper. And then what? Each one commences to fill his consciousness with thoughts of crime, disaster, scandal, accident, disease, and death—not very good mental food with which to begin the work of a day. Recently a professor in Bradford College, England, made the statement that five-sixths of the thinking done by the civilized world was furnished it by the newspapers.

Now Mrs. Eddy, great woman that she was, looking below the surface of things, saw the tremendous power of the printed page, the communication of ideas to human consciousness through that medium. She recognized, too, the part that the press plays in all this, and conceived the idea of a newspaper reflecting the spirit of truth, of honesty, integrity, and righteousness in business affairs, in government, in the home, in education, in art, in every department of life, in fact. The Monitor today is acknowledged by many of the great men of the time to be the criterion for all newspapers. It is a way-shower in journalism. Its practical influence upon human affairs cannot be estimated, and only love for mankind inspired its inception and is its governing purpose.

The Monitor, presenting, as it does, world affairs from the standpoint of universal love and the brotherhood of man, is uncovering to human consciousness the basic cause of war—war between individuals as well as nations. And what is the root cause, the basis of world strife and contention, emulation, mad ambition, and "man's inhumanity to man"? Is it not envy—the serpent of hate and jealousy? The gospel of Christian Science to-day is available to destroy this lie that has eaten its bitter way into the heart of mankind. Christian Science shows us that envy has its foundation in the belief or fear their fellow-man possesses some good, some blessing which we are denied and which we greatly desire. Christian Science declares that envy is a baseless fear. Are we really denied? Do we lack any good thing? In the light of Truth we see that man, God's image and likeness, to-day has all good, if he will only claim it, the infinity of supply, substance, opportunity, talent, happiness! What does it mean? Infinitely manifested there is enough of good, of God, for all, for every man. Each may legitimately claim all that he needs and rightly desires, and yet his brothers, too, may partake of Love's immeasurable bounty. Each one finds his proper place and proper relationship to all of God's little ones. Who ever conceived of the great oak vying with the stately pine, or the rose with the lily? Side by side, each fills its purpose in God's divine plan. There is no envy there, and in our daily life every fine achievement, every success of our brother's, can make us rejoice, because more of God's glory has been revealed, and we know that same possibility exists for us. There is enough for all.

FEAR DESTROYED

No Pharaoh of Egypt held the children of Israel in greater bondage than to-day is exacted of humanity by the taskmaster, fear. Men are afraid to eat, and afraid not to eat. If business is good they are afraid it will be bad, and if it is bad they are afraid it will be worse, afraid if the weather is hot, afraid if it is cold. Indeed, fear is usually present in some form at all occasions. What is this tyrant fear? Is it real and God-provided? Has the all-loving creator of the universe put into the heart of man these thoughts of timidity, apprehension, and misgiving? No, not one of them. "God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." The world is coming to see how available are the teachings of Christian Science that God is Love and the only Mind governing man. Now this understanding enables us to recognize and cast out fear. It shows us that fear comes into thought primarily as a temptation to acknowledge and bow down before a power other than the one God. We are asked to admit the existence of an evil entity which has the ability to incapacitate terrify, and destroy the children of God. Spiritual reason tells us that all this is not the product of an infinitely good God, and indeed God would not be infinite if evil and its offspring, fear, are self-constituted and eternal realities.

Discouraged and disheartened in the struggle with life's problems, it would seem as though man's ability to cope with difficulties and to resist them had so weakened that at the very first onslaught of the enemy he gave up without an effort. We are told in the Scriptures that if we resist the devil, evil, he will flee from us, and Mrs. Eddy in Christian Science has shown the world how to stand courageously and resist evil and fear. On page 393 of Science and Health she says, "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man." Christian Science in its teaching that all is Mind and its infinite manifestation shows us that fear always makes its appearance as our thinking, as some kind of a thought. It claims to be part of our own thinking, our consciousness. The realization that all true thoughts have [illegible] separate these fear thoughts from ourselves and from the divine Mind, to see them only as illusions, as false beliefs without basis of cause in Truth. This perception that fear and erroneous beliefs are not real nor of God gives man courage and power to meet and resist all difficulties. We learn how to study and scrutinize the guests seeking admission to our mental homes and to bar the door when fear and its companion beliefs, timidity, anxiety, and worry, present themselves. Fear is no part of the divine Mind or Mind's creation. It has no cause in God and God never made it. It is therefore without law or Principle. "There is no fear in love," says John, "but perfect love casteth out fear."

AVAILABILITY OF LOVE.

The right understanding and reflection of Love not only destroys fear but develops in man the true spirit of the Christ. In Science and Health (p. 113), we read, "The vital part, the heart and soul of Christian Science, is Love. Without this, the letter is but the dead body of Science,—pulseless, cold, inanimate." How the world is reaching out for an available understanding of God as Love, love that is not of the earth or sentimental but that spirit of divinity, of ten[illegible] which will touch the sorrowing heart of humanity and heal its wounds. The world is full of unloved and unloving people, men and women upon whom the blight of false belief has fallen. Environment, fear, a childhood devoid of love and joy, perhaps the afflicting beliefs of ancestry,—all untrue and not ordained of God,—these conditions have hardened and [illegible] their hearts, so that Love may not come in. To such as these comes the joyous truth that God is the only Father-Mother of man, a God who loves His own, cherishing, protecting, and sustaining them. Christian Science shows us that as we learn to reflect the Father-Mother Love, infinite gentleness, goodness, and tenderness, these qualities of thought become active in our lives. Resentment, self-pity, and cruelty fade away, the scars disappear and the real man appears, happy, joyous, and free as God made him.

Some years ago, a friend of mine, a professor in a middle western college, was visiting a state agricultural school. In showing him around the institution the superintendent led him up to the stall of an enormous black bull. The bull looked dangerous and the professor drew back, but the superintendent said, "Don't be afraid, go right up and put your hand on him. He won't hurt you, he is perfectly gentle." Reassured, my friend placed his hand on the animal. As he did so, the superintendent said, "Do you notice anything unusual about that bull?" My friend, not being very well informed about the subject, said he did not. "Well," said the superintendent, "that animal's hide is as soft and silky as sealskin. When he came to us he was a wild, untamed thing, ugly and ferocious, with hair hard and bristling. Love changed all that, for I want to tell you that I have found in my experience with animals that with kind and loving treatment their hide and fur soften and respond at once to the mental condition of those who care for them." What a lesson for us—the operation of practical available Love! By constant reflection and manifestation of love in daily contact with our fellow-men, the hard and bristly exterior of many an unhappy man or woman may be softened, his whole disposition altered, and in its place will appear the real man, God's loving child.

Have you ever seen a group of children playing with what are known as false faces? They come running towards you with these distorted masks, some of them animal in aspect and all very ugly, and try to frighten you. What do you do? You smile and go on undisturbed, because you know that behind the mask is the sweet, happy face of a child. The world is full of children wearing false faces, evil masks of hate, envy, and revenge. They would frighten us, make us angry or disturbed, but the understanding of man in Christian Science shows us how to look behind the mask, this false face, and see God's perfect child—the son of God. It was Jesus' perception of the real man as the image of Love that enabled him to see through the mask of hate, revenge, and bigotry and say, even of those who were crucifying him, "Father, forgive them: for they know not what they do."

The understanding that God is infinite, omnipresent Love is an ever-available help. It is the "peace, be still" to error of every kind. In the Bible we read how the men of God, those who were turning to God, were guided and protected by the angels. What were these angels? Christian Science shows us that the angels of His presence are not spiritualized human beings with wings, but pure holy thoughts coming from God to man. It is related that in the book of Kings that Elijah, the prophet of the Lord, pursued by Jezebel and the worshipers of Baal, fled into the wilderness. Tired and discouraged, he sat down under a juniper tree, and as he lay and slept, behold an angel touched him and told him to arise and eat. And when he looked there was food and water at hand. Lying down again to sleep, the angel touched him a second time, and he again was fed and sustained, so that he traveled many days in strength, coming at last to a cave. And there, the Scriptures say, "the Lord passed by, and a great strong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before the Lord; but the Lord was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but the Lord was not in the earthquake; and after the earthquake a fire; but the Lord was not in the fire: and after the fire a still small voice"—the voice of God, of Love, which speaks to every man in pure divine ideas, thoughts, which deliver us from fear and the belief that evil is real or has power. These are the angels of our deliverance, the angelic host, ever present and available, if we will but heed. Perhaps there is no more beautiful angel reminder of God's ever-present and available love than the words of the following hymn, with which I will close:

"In Thee, O Spirit, true and tender,
I find my Life, as God's own child;
Within Thy Light of glorious splendor,
I lose the earth-clouds, drear and wild.

"Within Thy Love is safe abiding,
From every thought that giveth fear;
Within Thy Truth a perfect chiding,
Should I forget that Thou art near.

"In Thee, I have no pain or sorrow,
No anxious thought, no load of care.
Thou art the same to-day, to-morrow;

(Christian Science Hymnal, No. 187.)

San Pablo Man Fined Second Time in Month

MARTINEZ, Dec. 17.—Andrew Branco, proprietor of a San Pablo soft drink establishment, today fell into the net of prohibition operatives for the second time within a month. Haled before Justice Frank Glass, he entered a plea of guilty and was assessed $500 with the alternative of a 500 days' term in jail.

NEWS and GOSSIP FROM STAFF WRITERS AT HOME AND ABROAD

By LUTHER A. HUSTON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

TOKYO, Dec. 17.—Musubu-nokami may have brought happiness to the hearts of Miss Sugako Tsuchimikado and Eikichi Kimura, but he is in wrong with Papa and Mamma Tsuchimikado, and has started a first-class furore in Japanese high society.

In the United States and other English-speaking domains Musubunokami would be known as Mr. Daniel Cupid. The reader should now be able to get the general drift of this story. By way of further explanation, however, it may be stated that Miss Sugako Tsuchimikado is a daughter of Viscount Haruyuki Tsuchimikado and was formerly a lady-in-waiting to the Empress of Japan. Eikichi Kimura is a cook, who also was once employed in the royal household.

The furore is the result of the announcement that Musubunokami has planted his deadly darts in the hearts of Miss Tsuchimikado and Kimura and they have declared their intention to wed. The idea of the daughter of a nobleman and a former lady of the imperial court allying herself with an humble cook does not evoke any cheering among the "upper crust" of Japanese society.

Particularly repugnant to Viscount and Viscountess Tsuchimikado is the idea of the proposed union between their daughter and the biscuit architect.

"It is deplorable," the Viscountess moaned when the news was broken to her. "I may strike her name from the family register."

And when a Japanese maiden's name is eradicated from the family register she is out of the picture just as effectively as a ball player who is disbarred by Judge Landis.

Dan Cupid got in his work while Miss Tsuchimikado and Kimura were both attached to the imperial household, although in widely separated capacities. Kimura was in the bureau of imperial cuisine as a waiter and part of his duties was to carry meals to the court ladies. It was in performance of this task that he met Miss Tsuchimikado.

Miss Tsuchimikado was known in court circles as Yayegiku, which means "Double-Petaled Chrysanthemum." She had been in the service of the empress since 1918, but resigned her post a few months ago on the pretext of ill health. Kimura resigned about the same time, but later took a post as cook and steward in the house of Baron Matsui, former minister of foreign affairs, where he is now employed. Miss Tsuchimikado's family runs back in unbroken line to Haruaki Abe, the ancient Japanese astronomer and prophet. Kimura's antecedents are by no means so distinguished.

Kimura has taken a small house in a Tokyo suburb and his mother is making preparations for the wedding. His friends, as is the custom in Japan, are negotiating with Viscount Tsuchimikado in an effort to gain his consent to the marriage.

There are no indications that Viscount Tsuchimikado intends to yield, but in modern Japan Musubunokami often is more potent than a mere parent. Friends of both young people confidently expect that ere long Hibiya Shrine, where most Japanese nuptials are celebrated, will be the scene of a very pretty wedding between a bride of high degree and a bridegroom of humble origin.

CREDITORS SUE PROMOTER OF ATASCADERO

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—E. G. Lewis, Atascadero and Los Angeles publisher and promoter, is indebted on outstanding production contracts, notes and loans to the extent of $9,314,240, according to an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed in federal court here by five creditors who place their claims at $9236 and estimate Lewis' assets at approximately $1,000,000.

Lewis, who publishes an illustrated weekly, promoted the University city project in St. Louis, the Palos Verdes estates subdivision south of here, and the town of Atascadero in San Luis Obispo county and assisted in the promotion of a daily illustrated newspaper here. He said last night the bankruptcy suit was filed by persons opposing a new enterprise he has undertaken.

The enterprise he explained, would involve the merging of a number of his previous projects into one holding company.

Tax Appeal Work Subject of Speech

By LEO A. McCARTHY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—An explanation of the work that is being done by the United States Board of Tax Appeals, of which he is a member, was given last night before the California State Society by A. E. Graupner, former San Francisco judge.

A talk on the forests of California, illustrated with motion pictures of the recent forest fires in that state, was given by Representative John E. Raker of Alturas.

The California State Society, of which Representative Arthur M. Free of San Jose is president, is composed of Californians temporarily residing in Washington. The membership includes Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the state's representatives and senators in Congress.

Rutter Opens War on Phone Rum Orders

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—A telephonic arrangement or any other agreement between two or more persons whereby liquor is transferred from one to another, is hereafter to be treated as a conspiracy to violate the Volstead act, calling for a maximum fine of 10,000 or two years in prison, or both, upon conviction, it is announced by Samuel S. Rutter, federal prohibition enforcement officer.

This means that the person who receives the liquor as well as the one who sells it will be equally guilty as conspirators.

Historical Society Elects Officers

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—The Rev. Peter G. Guilday, professor of history at the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., was elected president of the American History Society at its annual meeting today. Monsignor F. X. Wastl was chosen vice-president; P. A. Kinsley, recording secretary; Miss Jane Campbell, corresponding secretary, and Thomas H. Cullinan, treasurer.

Wife Wins Divorce On Kidnap Charge

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Will Goettling, wife of a former University of Oregon professor, who kidnaped his small daughter at Boston last year, was granted a divorce and $7500 alimony here today.

Professor Goettling returned to Eugene after the kidnaping; but left here some time ago.

EDITOR GABBERT ACCEPTS STATE PRINTER'S POST

Riverside Man Expected to Restore Position of Cost Expert.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 17.—J. R. Gabbert, Riverside editor and a staunch supporter of the Richardson administration, has accepted the position of state printer, according to word received at the Capitol today.

The Riverside publisher will take over the office January 1, when Frank J. Smith, the outgoing printer, quits to assume the wardenship of San Quentin prison.

Gabbert, who is in Los Angeles conferring with Governor Richardson, is expected to arrive here early next week to go over the plant with Smith.

It was reported in the Capitol today that Robert Walker, Vallejo editor and former cost expert in the printing office, will be reinstated soon after Gabbert assumes control.

The position of cost expert, which carries a salary of $3600 per year, was abolished following the row between the outgoing printer and Walker, which terminated in the erection of a "spite door" between their offices, it was revealed at the offices of the state civil service commission today. It is understood that Gabbert has been urged by friends of Walker to reestablish the position and again place the Vallejo editor on the payroll.

Political intimates of Gabbert here said today that he planned to retain Robert Alexander, veteran employee of the department, in his present position as chief clerk.

Radio Cure for Insomnia, "Nerves"

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Radio is recognized by British hospital authorities as a treatment for nerve cases and insomnia, and a number of [illegible] are installing wireless equipment. Doctors declare the radio programs are important to nerve patients not only in their direct effects, but as antidotes for the unpleasant everyday street noises.

Sir Henry Hadow is convinced of the healing influence of radio music, and Sir Bruce Bruce-Porter attributes to it the high turnover of 100 patients a month at the Third London general hospital.

Tribune Envoy Spends Night in Sheik's Tent

(The following article is the sixth of a series in which Mowrer describes his extraordinary adventures in Morocco on his trip to visit and interview Abd-el-Krim, leader of the victorious Riff tribesmen who have driven back the military forces of Spain in a long series of engagements and who are seeking to create an independent nation. Mowrer's experiences with Moroccan nomads, with whom he dwelt in tents and caverns are set forth vividly and constitute a wholly unique picture of life among the fierce semi-barbarous peoples of Northern Africa).

By PAUL SCOTT MOWRER

Special Correspondence of The TRIBUNE and the Chicago Daily News.

Beyond the Moulouya lie the desert wastes of the sons of Bou Yahi. We rode due west and the westering sun blazed in our faces with African brutality. In observing the natives during the last few days I had been struck by a common contortion of the countenance which seemed to me to express narrow ignorance and ferocity—a screwing up of the eyes, a contraction of the brows, a slight baring of the teeth like an ugly dog.

I now became conscious that I was myself practicing this same contortion. The sun-glare caused me to wrinkle my eyes very nearly shut and to hold them so. The fatigue of the saddle, the throbbing of my sprained foot, the heat, my thirst—for I had had nothing to drink since early that morning—all these, combined with my determination to overcome or to disregard the mall were translated in my appearance by the same scowl, the same disagreeable drawing back of the lips, which had so unfavorably depressed me in certain natives.

The two men with four camels whom we had joined at the Moulouya ford left us presently. They were not going our way. The tall, shaggy, soft-footed animals ambled over a low hill and disappeared. But my sociable guide, Si Mohammed, the clerk of Fez, was not long without company, for we overtook two other men, and these were to be our companions for the next twelve hours. They were Bou Yahi tribesmen returning from market at Camp Berteaux, where they had bought wheat and sugar and candles.

WEARY, LAGGING MILES.

They wore the brown and white vertical-striped jellaba, or hooded cloak, they had rifles hung at the shoulders, and they were driving two heavily laden burros, which they pounded and prodded and kicked and shouted at mercilessly.

I dismounted occasionally and limped along on foot a while, thereby incidentally easing my cramped knees and my chafed thighs. But there came a time toward evening when I was too tired even to climb off the saddle.

"Where are we going to sleep?" I asked Si Mohammed, in our conventional language of signs and monosyllables.

He explained that he had made friends with the two sons of Bou Yahi, and that they had offered to escort us to their own douar, or encampment.

Ten miles! Two or three hours! It was an eternity, and my heart sank.

Camp Berteaux had long ago shimmered out of sight behind us. The twilight overtook us winding up the trail into a range of low hills and we followed the trail by starlight.

Suddenly, away to the left, a man on a horse appeared. He seemed to study us a moment, then wheeled and galloped off into the darkness as if he had been on watch there and had gone to inform some one of our approach.

I did not like the look of that horseman. Neither did Si Mohammed and the two sons of Bou Yahi. They stopped for consultation.

"We will not go any farther tonight," Si Mohammed made sign to me. "These men know where there is a Bou Yahi tenting-place not far distant. We will ask hospitality there."

We had proceeded, I suppose, about two miles across country in the dark. The Bou Yahi encampment was at hand.

GUESTS OF SHEIK

An eddy of barking, snarling wolfish dogs surged around us. The two sons of Bou Yahi kept them at bay with stones while Si Mohammed gave hail toward a tent. At first there was no reply. But Si Mohammed persisted, and at last the shrill cracked voice of an old woman answered, as unfriendly as possible.

After ten minutes more, a bent old witch of a woman came hobbling out to us and thrust her hostile eyes close up to each of our faces in turn. She was followed by a youth who was interested and friendlier, then by a sturdy old man, the sheik himself.

Si Mohammed set his diplomacy once more to work and our cause was soon won. The youth took our horses, the old man went to order the preparation of the tent, the old woman drove off the dogs, and a moment later we were led around the side of the camp among donkeys and recumbent camels, under a tent-flap and into the tent itself.

MOROCCAN TEA

We took off our shoes and sat down. A boy brought a piece of candle, which we stuck with tallow to the sole of my canvas shoe and set in the middle of our circle. Behind me a donkey was lying and beside me rose a large handloom with a half-made striped jellaba upon the strings.

"Wait," said Si Mohammed, "we shall have tea."

We sat around the tray, the two sons of Bou Yahi, the sheik and the two youths, Si Mohammed, and myself, while one of the sons of Bou Yahi solemnly, with ceremony, [illegible] from the mattress and with it hinged the teapot lid. Somebody brought hot water. He took a handful of tea, washed it in the pot with a little hot water and ran the water off behind him on the ground. He then filled the pot with hot water.

He unrolled a great bombshell loaf of sugar from a blue paper and broke off chunks with a hammer. He poured one glass of tea, and, having thus made room in the pot, dumped in five or six great pieces of sugar, and, as these dissolved, more sugar. He poured a second glass and a fraction of another. He turned the first unsugared glassful back into the pot.

He tasted the fraction of a glassful, and, as it was still not sirupy enough broke more sugar. Again he tasted. This time it was right. He poured still another glass, turned back the previously standing glassful into the pot, then filled all the glasses, lifting the pot high as he poured and making this each time a graceful aromatic stream. Such, with pouring and counter-pouring, sugaring and tasting, is the invariable tea process in Morocco.

After a while the brass tea tray was removed. In its place a broad dish-like tray of basket work was set. From the women's side a great bowl of steaming kous-kous was passed in and set in the middle of the basketwork. Kous Kous is flour kneaded into little pellets and cooked with rice, with meat juice and sometimes pieces of meat, but this time there was merely the juice.

I rested that night, but whether I slept or not I scarcely know, for there were fleas in the rugs; and over in the next tent, until far into the night, the women were pounding wheat into flour. Thud! thud! thud! would go the pestle in the mortar, then would follow a thin, brief quaver of song, then more pounding and more monotonous, melancholy quavering.

When this finally ceased some slight noise in the night would suddenly arouse the dogs. They would all howl together like a pack of furies. Their clamor would set the donkeys to braying, the roosters to crowing, the camels to crying and moaning. This bedlam would last perhaps ten minutes. It was repeated with some regularity as nearly as I could judge about every half-hour throughout the rest of the night.

Life in a nomad's tent may be romantic viewed in the abstract, but in practice, it has also certain drawbacks, concerning which our popular novelists have been, I fear, rather niggardly of information.

Enginemen and Officials of Company Go 50-50 on Pay Demands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17—The threatened railroad strike is averted, and the engineers, firemen and hostlers of the Southern Pacific company's Pacific system will receive approximately half the wage increase which they demanded, as a result of a compromise between their leaders, and officials of the company.

The eight-day conference between the heads of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Southern Pacific company, was ended here yesterday when each side agreed to "split the difference."

INCREASE DIVIDED.

Instead of receiving the 8 per cent wage boost that they had asked, the enginemen will get a little more than 4 per cent. The company will permit the present working rules to stand, instead of making the changes in them that were authorized by the railroad labor board, and which, the brotherhood men contended, would practically have nullified the wage increase in many instances.

The actual increases will amount to 24 cents a day for passenger engineers and firemen, instead of the 48 they originally asked; 36 cents a day for freight engineers and firemen, instead of 64 and 32 cents a day for engine men in yard and hostler service, instead of 64.

Since approximately 6500 men are affected, this will add in the neighborhood of $500 000 annually to the company's payroll.

The pay increase is retroactive to September 1 of this year, when the previous agreement between the company and the brotherhoods expired. This will mean that an immediate cash payment of $125,000 will be made to the men.

The new agreement is to operate for a minimum period of a year and after that until revoked by either side after 30 days notice.

The final conference yesterday at which the compromise agreement was reached, was attended by William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific; J. H. Dyer, general manager; L. G. Griffing, grand chief engineer of the engineers' brotherhood, and D. B. Robertson, president of the firemen's organization.

CHINESE HATCHET WOUNDS OFFICER IN STREET FIGHT

Last night Look tried to chop Patrolman D. C. Whipple as Whipple stood in a dark hallway in Look's home at 311 Fifth street, preparing to arrest him as a narcotic peddler.

When Whipple knocked at the door Look appeared with a meat cleaver in his hand and before the patrolman had time to move hurled it at him. The cleaver scitruck Whipple in the cheek, laying his face open to the bone and for an instant stunning him.

Look ran back into his room and secured a hammer, but Whipple recovered before the Chinaman returned and, drawing his nightstick, became the aggressor instead of the defender. Before Look could strike a blow Whipple had him handcuffed.

Whipple and Look were both treated at the Emergency hospital, Whipple for a deep cheek gash, the Chinaman for "numerous cuts and bruises."

Look will be charged with assault with a deadly weapon in addition to being a peddler of narcotics.

MUSCLE SHOALS AGAIN.

Study of the inventory at Muscle Shoals is necessary for an understanding of this old problem which now is occupying a part of congressional attention.

Muscle Shoals came into prominence because of the need of nitrates and the possibilities it was said to possess for their manufacture. In the World War this country depended upon Chile, importing more than 1,600,000 tons to be used for war purposes. In peace time the American farmer uses 200,000 tons of nitrogen a year, which is equivalent to many times as many tons of the Chilean nitrates.

The war demands made Congress wonder what would happen if, in another war, Chile should be cut off or should declare an embargo on nitrates. One-third of the marine was used to carry the nitrates from Chile in 1918. There should be a place in this country where nitrogen could be taken from the air, a place supplied with water and electric power, and Muscle Shoals was put forward as answering the demands.

Does it answer those demands? Senator Norris says: "If you had 40,000,000 horsepower at Muscle Shoals you could not produce with it—through our present existing cyanimide process—any fertilizer that would be cheaper than our present commercial product."

One of the reasons is that the United States has erected two nitrogen plants beside the huge dam at Muscle Shoals. One of them, built hastily in war time and to imitate the German process, is declared to be worthless. The other uses the cyanimide process of grabbing nitrogen out of the air. It can operate, but the process is expensive and already out of date, and its maximum production is 40,000 tons of nitrogen a year, about a fifth of the agricultural demand and but a small fraction of the war time needs.

The most ardent advocates of government production of nitrogen at Muscle Shoals agree that with all of the power there, and with the existing plants, no more than a small part of the nitrogen needed can be rescued and that it cannot be sold for the price of the present commercial product.

Muscle Shoals, as it exists, is a great power plant and an inadequate and out-of-date nitrogen station. The controversy in congress is whether the power shall be sold for other uses or whether new nitrogen plants shall be constructed and put into operation.

RADIO ORATORY.

The next "newest thing" on the tapis will probably be schools "for the cultivation of radio voice and personality." That such culture [illegible] politicians and others running for office, our late election showed, and showed conclusively. Critics agree that John W. Davis, thoroughbred that he is, lacked this new resource indispensible to present-day candidates. "His voice sounded gray and colorless and lacked conviction; his personality was not the kind that got through the microphone and the air and gripped the people." Coolidge, on the other hand, the critics go on to comment, had that magic quality of voice and personality that got him across over the radio from the very outset. "His clear, natural, well modulated voice was easily heard and every word understood. It carried a suggestion of restraint and rang with conviction and common sense; to the average citizen listening to him it mirrored accurately the man behind the voice."

In the recent election in England, too, the mastery of radio technique demonstrated its power. Ramsay MacDonald is by far the abler orator, but Stanley Baldwin, over the radio, immeasurably excelled him. MacDonald's magnificent platform voice, in broadcast, became merely a jumble of almost intelligible sounds. Millions heard Baldwin in his calm, cool, dispassionate delivery, and millions understood. Though MacDonald, it has been pointed out, is the greater orator, Baldwin showed himself to be the greater radio orator.

Who will be the first to establish a school for the cultivation of radio voice and personality?"

DAIRY SHOW SUCCESS.

The men who are responsible for the success of the Dairy Show in Oakland are to be congratulated. They built upon the conviction that this was the logical place for such a show and that with each exhibition a larger measure of support would be accorded.

For a number of years before the first of the dairy shows was held in Oakland the plan was in consideration and the California Dairy Council was sounding opinion. It was realized that it was not enough that the dairy industry attend but the metropolitan area hereabouts could be expected to develop an increasing interest in the exhibits discussions, and meetings of the men who represent one of the most important industries in the state.

Establishment of the Pacific Slope Dairy Show at Oakland was called an experiment. In its acceptance by the dairy industry, in the value of the deliberations and exhibits toward improvement of methods and stimulation of advanced practice, the show was a success from the first. In addition it has educated Oakland, the Eastbay, and San Francisco to an understanding of the leading position taken by dairying in the state's onward march, and to the aims and motives of the thousands of men engaged in supplying this state and others with milk, butter, cheese and all the dairy products.

While it is good news for the dairymen that the show this year has demonstrated its ability to support itself, it is better news for Oakland. The experiment has proved successful and there is a possibility that every year hereafter the cow path will lead to the auditorium in this city and the proud privilege will be ours to welcome the farmer, producer, distributor, and manufacturer engaged in the various branches of the industry. Hereafter the show will be run by an organization created specifically for the purpose instead of by the Dairy Council which took over the pioneering work. The experience of the men who made the first shows will not be lost as most of them are identified with the new association. Oakland and Alameda county rejoice in the success of the show just closed and thank the men whose efforts brought to this community one of the outstanding annual exhibitions of the Pacific Coast.

The proposal to utilize municipal garbage receptacles for advertising purposes here recalls the experience of the Dutch government in a somewhat similar enterprise two months ago. The Hague finance department being in need of funds, a contract was concluded with a margarine firm for advertising on all letters and printed matter. Not only were the citizenry enraged in receiving their billet doux and other innocuous correspondence marked with the special advertising stamp, but creamery men also flew into a passion and brought suit against the government. The contract was rescinded, the powers at last being convinced that there is an eternal fitness in all things.

TO THE LAST THROATY GOBBLE!

Up, America, and do battle!

That bird, which on one day of the year is permitted to bat for the eagle, is threatened—gravely threatened by a foreign invader.

[illegible] ated Honduran turkey is to be imported to the United States, to be propagated, perhaps to supplant the barnyard gobbler which is part of our national history.

Another American institution is threatened by a beautiful thing out of the jungles that cover the lost Mayan cities. From a thousand American barnyards rises a red-wattled gobble of protest. The turkey of New England, and all America, the turkey of the Pilgrims, aye, the sheen-bronzed lord of the fanning tail, who aforetime came in from the woods to make friends with the annual axe by the woodpile in the farm yard, is threatened by a rank outsider. Submit to it? Forbid it, American tradition. Caesar had his Brutus, King Charles his Cromwell, is the American turkey to be "snuck up on," as they say in the Carolinas, by a gorgeous whatnot, be he ever so gorgeous, whose ancestors never tickled a Pilgrim palate? Not so long as we remember the white collars and the bell-muzzled blunderbusses of Plymouth where a man was a man and a wishbone was a wishbone.

We care not what other nations may do. Let them eat what they list and how they list, but when we list, let it be with the bird of our forefathers and no occulistic feather-fluff from tropic clime. Every pound of sausage meat barks protest; every chestnut burrs dissent; [illegible] at the intruder. The cranberry blushes with shame; the pumpkin pie is squashed by the ignominy of the prospect. Even the corn looks on in amaze, wondering if this thing could possibly happen to its ancient gastronomic contemporary of the first American fireside.

Birds' nests to the Chinese, if they will, pheasants to the English, quail to France and gillaldo birds to the Eskimos, but as for us (and in this season make the most of it), give us our own gorgeous gobblers, or give us—porkchops!—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

THE CONNING TOWER

THE BAND LEADER'S BACK.

A study for the thoughtful mind,
A picture one should ponder well:
No deeper subject could one find,
Than the band leader, viewed behind,
As forth the wondrous concords swell.

What feeling finds expression there!
The soulful thrill, the deep heart-throb;
We see sweet hope and grim despair,
Then "stormy," then a "bright and fair,"

Writhing and rippling up his spine
The music mounts—a fountain-flow,
And all his sentiments combine
As the end nears, when, surest sign,

CLEMENTINA.

Another myth, having traveled a million miles without a puncture, has had a blowout. It seems that Franklin couldn't have used a kite and a key, because if he had it would have killed him. Perhaps before long it will transpire that electricity never was discovered at all, and that the telephone is nothing but a Giant Hoax.

Considerable newspaper dust has been raised because Mr. George Eastman, who gave $3,000,000 for the cause of music, can't carry a tune. Well, probably John D. Rockefeller couldn't pass the entrance examinations to the University of Chicago.

Mr. Eastman should cease to worry over his inability to whistle a tune. It is the observation of one who puts in many minutes a day waiting for trains that one of the troubles with this country is that there are so many persons who do whistle tunes.

At one art center they are going to have an exhibit of sculpture, all the statuary to have been fashioned of soap. Another triumph for the Clean Books league.

Consider the Clinker Brick, how from a mean estate
It has come into favor, has risen to decorate

It exalted, due only to change of Man's Mind.

If we have half the luck of the Clinker Brick.

THE NATIONAL PRESS

Philadelphia Public Ledger: "The ZR-3 poised in flight above the Delaware bridge is a contemporary wonder such as stirs the blood of the man in the street, causing him to pause in his stride and look aloft and comment on the marvel to his neighbor, as men exchanged exclamations when Fitch's steam packet ruffled the Delaware or Baldwin's "Old Ironsides" chugged to Germantown. In the placid, dreaming silhouettes of the waterfront of long ago, as seen in archaic wood engravings, there is no hint of the modern miracle that finds the river spanned by the world's longest suspension bridge, while the airship hovers aloft on her speedy way to the christening at Washington."

Christian Science Monitor: "The toy markets not only of the United States but of India, Japan, China, Palestine, Cuba, Canada and virtually all European countries are at the beck of the American child for his Christmas presents. About $5,000,000 worth, according to the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, will have been imported this year."

Kansas City Times: "'As we write these paragraphs,' says the Horse Editor in the Monroe County Appeal, 'a small boy drives by in a goat wagon. He does not envy the owner of the fine new car he passed on the corner, but we will bet a bushel of buckeyes that owner of the car envied him.'"

Detroit Free Press: "The Red bosses in control at Moscow have now discovered 'that Leon Trotzky is a political heretic and isn't a good bolshevist at all.' In America that was stale news years ago. Long before Trotzky left the east side of New York to try his fortunes with Lenine, everybody in this country who knew anything about him, knew that he was an adventurer pure and simple, without principle, and without any object in life except to get his share of whatever plunder there might be in sight. His subsequent career has justified the early estimates."

Detroit Free Press: "An article on the increase in the number of automobile accidents in England says driving is hazardous there because the roads are narrow and winding. Then, too, there is always the danger of running off the island."

Kansas City Star: "Bank robbers deployed an airplane over a small town, attracting the attention of the natives while the bandits robbed the bank. Hereafter, a good place to watch an airplane from will be the front steps of the town bank."

Chicago Tribune: "We see nothing to be gained by the American people through intercourse with Moscow, up to this time at any rate, which could compensate us morally or materially for giving aid to the communist regime."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

"Do it now" is the idea the government is trying to impress upon ex-service men regarding action on their adjusted compensation applications. Less than one-entitled to the bonus have applied for it, the War Department announces. The department is anxious that all veterans who are entitled to the bonus apply at once, and that those veterans who do not desire the bonus notify the department at once. In either case prompt action will be of benefit to the government. The government's request is a reasonable one and deserves compliance on the part of those to whom it is addressed.—Palo Alto Times.

In these busy days of progress, it will be well to pause long enough to more completely write the story of California's discovery and conquest. True, the United States was founded there; but its greatest expansion has been toward the sunset sea.—Long Beach Press-Telegram.

A New York state dentist says, "If you like candy, eat it." Dentists no longer consider the eating of candy the cause of tooth-decay. It would if they had ever paid any attention to the advice.—Stockton Record.

"You think you're busy! And you are, but when the game is played
You'll wish you'd spent a little time to smooth another's way

SOCIETY ON THE SLIDE.

Words cannot describe the country's agony at learning from one who signs herself or himself "Polly" that the second class, round, flight, covey, or whatever it is called, of New York society, is going to the jingbats.

This crowd, it seems, has waited patiently about, like Mary's little lamb, on the doorsteps of the Renselaer Stuyvesants, hoping for an invite; and getting it not, they have established salons of their own, and have not been so particular as to whom they invited to these parties. Instead of asking only the best artists, authors and musicians, they have gone into the purlieus, even into Bohemia, Greenwich Village, Flushing and Staten Island, and brought into their homes people who don't amount to anything, who aren't in the Blue Book, or even in Who's Who, whose ancestors didn't come over in the Mayflower, some of whom are suspected of having voted for La Follette. And these people, thus noticed, are so ignorant of good breeding that they eat and drink at these parties, and talk about [illegible]. Thus they are corrupting New York society's second ring, and undermining the foundations of civilization in the United States.

"People are invited about in New York society far too promiscuously" says Polly. Perhaps the same thing is true in other cities. It is to be hoped that the publication of the income tax lists will correct this tendency.—Detroit News.

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

EXERCISE AND ENLARGED VEINS.

From what I have said in recent talks about the relation of slouchy posture and the lack of physical training to varicose veins in general and piles in particular, it must be evident that exercise may be of some value in the prevention and cure of a varicose condition of the veins in any situation. Although proper exercise has such value, individuals affected with any such varicosity should remember that rest is often the more important need for the time being. There are several acute contingencies or "complications" of this state of enlargement of the veins either in the legs or in the pelvis which imperatively demand absolute rest. On the other hand, in the majority of cases in the intervals of "attacks" a proper regimen of general exercise is the better policy.

Persons subject to varicose veins in the legs are usually afflicted with a complication of Billings complaint. They know that an important cause is "being on the feet so much." Here I pause and briefly run over all I have said in the preceding talks about piles, especially the allusions to the valveless condition of the veins affected, the sedentary habit of the race, the evolutionary congestion incident to man's upright posture, and all that sort of thing, and I wonder whether I may have contributed thereby to the misapprehension about "being too much on the feet." But if you remember, I held up a tame rabbit, which succumbed in 12 hours, and then a wild one which endured the vertical posture for three days. The wild rabbit is ordinarily as much on his feet as the tame one. Now what is wrong here? Why, I have already given the answer—Billings complaint. You see, so few of us study physiology.

Here is a switch wide open, and we've got to take it. Why shouldn't every child be taught the rudiments of [illegible] and human physiology along with reading, geography and [illegible]. How [illegible] people to remain in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] resistance to the establishment of physical education in the schools? I don't know the answers to these questions.

The whole problem is a dark mystery to me. I can't conceive why man is not the proper study of mankind. There is no subject [illegible] [illegible] If the school requirement in the [illegible] as they are in the subject of "physiology and hygiene," pupils could have daily cross-word puzzle contests and a good time generally, instead of bothering their heads with abstruse algebra examples. The so-called "physiology and hygiene" which is now taught in the [illegible] [illegible] are incredibly [illegible] quite in keeping with the standard of intelligence which inspires the mockery of anatomy and physiology in the present curriculum.

DAIRY SHOW CLOSES; BIG FUTURE SEEN

Organizers to Form Corporation for Coming Exhibits; Superior Mother Contest Winners Are Announced

What began as a cow path ended up as a highway, and the fourth annual Pacific Slope Dairy Show closed last night in a blaze of glory.

MRS. G. W. BRISON.

MRS. C. S. MONDELL

"Follow the cowpath," was the modest slogan of of the show association, and it seemed appropriate for the first day or so of the exhibition week. But gradually those visiting the exhibits in the auditorium grew in number until last night the cow trail was trampled into a genuine throughfare.

Gratified at the success of the exhibition, the organizers determined to form a corporation which will have charge of the shows in the future. In the past the work has been done by the staff of the California Dairy Council. The show has now reached the point where it needs its own organization, according to Sam H. Greene, secretary, and articles of incorporation of the show association will be filed in the near future.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

Dr. C. L. Roadhouse, University of California, College of Agriculture, was re-elected president of the association at the annual meeting of the directors. Other officers elected are: M. H. Adamson, Los Angeles, vice-president; Geo. W. Prising and W. E. Haley of San Francisco, vice-presidents; R. A. Condee, Chico, vice-president; J. N. Gilman, Oakland vice-president; Sam H. Turkey Prices Will Be Higher At Christmas

Predictions of 45 cent turkey to the consumer and possibly 50 cents in some cases were being made by some wholesale men today. This is slightly above the Thanksgiving price, the average then being between 42 and 45 cents retail. Some of the larger chain markets quoted 40 cents at that time.

The wholesale price today was between 38 and 40 cents for fancy birds in case lots and the retail figure 45 cents in most of the butcher shops.

"The Christmas price will be slightly above the Thanksgiving with birds in better condition and consequently of better value to the consumer," said A. N. Knight, of the Oakland Poultry and Egg Company.

"The weather, of course, is a factor that must be reckoned with. From present indications there is scant prospect of an over-supply. Early shopping by the consumer will do much to steady prices and prohibit any last minute efforts at a squeeze."

WOOD SEES HUGE POPULATION GAIN

RICHMOND, Dec. 17.—California will have a population of twenty millions within twenty years, Will C. Wood, superintendent of public instruction of the state of California, declared in an address here yesterday at a Richmond Lions' Club luncheon, at which he was the guest of honor.

Wood based his forecast upon a recent check conducted by himself, which shows that the enrollment in the public schools of the state have developed from 480,000 students in 1914 to 1,055,848 in 19294.

J. A. Kangsley, a visiting member from the Tacoma, Wash., Lions' Club, was a guest and told of the progress being made by Lions' clubs in the northwest.

Estates Appraised At $889,338 Probated

Inventories filed today in probate court value the estate of Peter A. Jordan at $768,667, and the estate of Mrs. Vesta M. Colby at $120,671.

The estate of Jordan, who died June 17, 1923, comprises as its largest items, stock in the Dupont Powder Company, $127,671; Hercules Powder Company, $32,800; Atlas Powder Company, $25,281; Dodge, Sweeney & Co., $140,000, and real estate in Stockton, $100,000. The estate was left entirely to the widow, Mrs. Blanch Hartwell Jordan, 1100 Grand avenue, Alameda. There are three children, Mrs. Lorraine Clough, 1720 Palmera court, Alameda; Albion Jordan and Hartwell Jordan, age 16.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT FOES RAPPED

Interest Financing Campaign Against Ratification Called 'Selfish and Reactionary' by Bay Section Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—The interests financing the campaign against the ratification of the child labor amendment were characterized as "selfish and reactionary" and their purpose branded as a desire to "reap from from the exploitation of child labor in many of our states" in resolutions unanimously adopted at the general session of the California Teachers' Association, Bay section, today. The policy of exploiting child labor was referred to as "wholly un-American in depriving millions of our youth of their inalienable rights, and wholly subversive of the welfare of our country and the general public good in that it tends to hold the standards of living of an American citizenship at a low level."

It was further stated in the resolution that "this campaign against the child labor amendment is being carried on to a vicious and deceptive propaganda that falsely asserts that the rights of states, of th family and of individual liberty require the defeat of this vital measure."

Officers elected at a meeting of the teachers' council last night, were presented to the delegates at today's general session. The officers elected are: President, Roy W. Cloud of Redwood City; vice-president, Miss May Wade of Berkeley; secretary-treasurer, E. G. Gridley, of Roosevelt high school, Oakland, and the following members of the executive committee: Miss Elizabeth Sherman of Oakland and E. F. Brady of San Francisco.

Several resolutions drawn up at the council meeting were adopted at today's general session. One of these resolutions offered unqualified endorsement of the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution of the United States, and pledged the members of the association to support it in every possible way.

Re-affirmation of the association's support of the education bill now before congress was embodied in another resolution, which also

Fastest Woman Mail Clerk

Oakland Girl Wins Prize For Sorting Mail Quickly

In a contest sponsored by the local department Miss Burbank made on average distributing speed of 65.9 letters to the minute. The prize was a blue ribbon containing a $50 bill, awarded in recognition of her valued services. As a further compliment to her efficiency, Miss Burbank has been transferred to Station D, at Tenth and Clay Streets, where she continues to distribute Uncle Sam's mail in her prize winning manner.

The arrival of 400 sacks of eastern mail on the Overland yesterday, at the Terminal Station, is indicative of a heavy Christmas mail, according to officials in charge of that office.

Women clerks to man the mail trucks is an idea now being contemplated by the postmaster. He belives the women clerks would attract considerable attention to the mail trucks, which bear a sign reading, "Mail today and avoid the Rush."

University of Pennsylvania Team Coming to the Pacific Coast With a Clean Record for the Football Season

Penn Rated Among Best Grid Elevens

Dartmouth and Yale Only Other Eastern Teams in Class of Quakers.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Dec. 17.—The football team of the University of Pennsylvania, along with the elevens of two other eastern colleges, went through an undefeated season. As a consequence discussion is rife as to which of the three—Penn, Yale or Dartmouth—has the most tenable claim to the eastern championship. As is always true when several teams are undefeated, followers of each team are vociferously claiming the title for their team, advancing a formidable list of arguments to support their contentions.

However, in the absence of other data, the figures of each team can be compared and some sort of an idea of which is the strongest may be obtained in that way.

The figures then are these: Pennsylvania in its successful campaign this fall scored 202 points as against 17 by their opponents. Yale scored 144 points compared with 36 by the Blue's opponents, and Dartmouth succeeded in putting over 225 points to 31 by their opponents.

On the basis of these figures then, Pennsylvania could lay claim to the best defensive record of the year, Dartmouth to the best offensive record, while Yale would seem to run second to both the Hanover and the Philadelphia elevens.

Figures such as these are, of course, not conclusive. The fact that few if any mutual opponents were met is perhaps the biggest objections to a comparison on this basis, and yet it is the best available.

Pennsylvania and Dartmouth met only one common foe—Cornell. Dartmouth downed the Ithacans by a count of 27-14, while the Red and Blue crushed Gil Dobie's boys by a score of 20-0. This one game, then, seems to bear out the above statement that offensively Dartmouth has the edge, while the defensive laurels must be given to the Quakers.

California on the same basis can compare neither offensively or defensively with Pennsylvania, having scored only 149 points as against 51 by opponents. And yet no one is willing to concede the Quakers any edge in the coming intersectional classic on New Year's day. Which probably indicates just how much figures of the above type may be relied upon.

Nevertheless they furnish some indication of relative power, and are indicative of at least one thing—that the Golden Bears are meeting a truly capable and representative opponent on New Year's day.

Willie Hoppe Wins Match in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—Willie Hoppe, 18.2 balkline billiard champion, took four straight from Harry Wakefield, local player here last night in their three-cushion match. The total score was 200 to 146.

Ascot Speedway Permit Suspended

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—The Ascot Speedway association's stock selling permit was suspended yesterday by Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty on the ground that the terms of the permit were violated in the sale of stock in the race track enterprise for other than a cash consideration.

George Bentel, president of the association, is awaiting trial on a charge of obtaining labor under false pretenses as a result of his alleged failure to pay winners in the Thanksgiving day automobile race the prize money he promised them.

Horemans Seeking New Referee System

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Eduardo Horemans, Belgigium's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, is among the leaders in an effort to have the double referee system, now used in Europe, established in this country. Several billiard officials here have given their approval.

Missouri Rooting Section Doubled

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Response to a call for graduates of the University of Missouri and other Missouri valley conference institutions has been so great that the size of the rooting section for the Christmas day game here between the Missouri Tigers and the University of Southern California has been increased from 400 to 800.

The Missouri Alumni association here will meet tonight to make further plans for the reception and entertainment of the Tiger squad, which is expected to arrive here December 23.

Garvey Said To Have Boxed His Hired Man

By FAIR PLAY.

SPECIAL BY WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Eddie Garvey, the heavyweight pugilist, former Notre Dame football star, is what might be termed a glutton for punishment. It develops that this fall, under another name, he did a lot of playing for one of the smaller football elevens of the Atlantic seaboard—one of the lesser known teams, whom rivals perhaps are quite willing to spot the services of a star such as Garvey.

Garvey, by the way, may find his earning capacity reduced outside of New York, if he permits those who are handling his affairs to put over what Nick Kline, one of the promoters of the Newark armory shows, says some one attempted to put over on him in Jersey.

It will be recalled that Garvey was slated to meet a fighter named Lazuka the night Weinert fought Jack Sharkey. Now Lazuka had previously appeared in Newark and had made a fine impression.

MEETS A "PALOOKA"

But when the time came for the fighters to weigh in on Monday afternoon, the Jersey promoters say that the "Lazuka" who appeared as opponent for Garvey was not the Lazuka who made such a good showing in Newark. On the contrary they alleged that "Lazuka" who was to box Eddie was the "Palooka" who had been training with Garvey for a week. So "Lazuka" was canned and the promoters named as alternate opponent the big Atlanta negro, Jordan. Garvey declined forthwith, saying he would not indulge in a mixed bout.

Billy McCarney, who is now managing Weinert with great skill points out the fact that the two sparring partners who worked with the Adonis when he was training for the bout in which beat Firpo were Joe McCann and Sauer Maxted.

CAUSE OF CHUCKLE

Maxted was the first man to meet Firpo in this country. Luis stowed him away in seven rounds and received $125. The second man he met was McCann who was put away in the fifth round. Firpo received $1000 for this bout. This started Luis on his blazing career. Then McCann and Maxted worked with might and main to fit Weinert for his Firpo battle and are thus chucking over being in part responsible at least for starting Luis on his way back to the sticks. George Ruttenberg trained McCann and Maxted for Luis and also trained Weinert. And in the Weinert bout, it was the first time he did not have to drag his man back to his corner. That is why Rut is smiling these days.

Occidental Eleven Is Due Home Today

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—The Occidental college football team, which met the University of Hawaii at Honolulu early this month, was scheduled to arrive home here this morning.

New Ice Rink Will Be Built in South

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Ice skating for southern Californians will be made possible when a rink is opened here early next month. The ice surface of the new rink will measure 130 by 240 feet.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL

The Northern California Dental Golfers Association will hold their next monthly tournament over the Berkeley course on Friday. Dr. C. Earl Clement, who will be host to the visitors, expects an attendance of over 50 dentists.

The morning contest will be a flag event at handicap over 18 holes, while the after lunch contest will be a team match in which the dentists of Alameda county will be matched against the San Francisco repersenatives in a best ball contest for points scored on the Nassau system.

Dr. J. H. Stineman and Dr. C. F. Jarvis will lead off for the Eastbay golfers against Dr. J. E. Wieder and Dr. L. D. Heacock of San Francisco. Dr. H. A. Curtis and Dr. H. G. Meek of Alameda county, will oppose Dr. C. H. Whitley and Dr. E. T. Mervy of San Francisco.

Dr. R. R. Alen, another of the Sequoyah representatives, will be on the third team partnered with Dr. T. L. Rogers of Berkeley, and will probably give a good account of themselves.

The Claremont course was well patronized last Sunday, sheltered conditions making play enjoyable. The new fairways on the out holes are improving rapidly and will soon equal the playing quality of the in holes, which are now in perfect condition.

The Claremont course has fewer bunkers than most courses around the bay district, but despite this apparent lack of hazard difficulty, more expert golfers have been developed at Claremont than at any other course in Northern California.

The club management has in view some minor changes, particularly at the seventeenth hole, which will eliminate a danger zone at the eighth and eighteenth holes.

John Carse, caddymaster at Sequoyah, announces that the annual caddies' Christmas tournament and dinner will be held next Tuesday, December 23, when over one hundred boys will engage in an 18-hole medal play contest at handicap for prizes donated by members of the club. Carse has a well organized and efficient force of caddies who know how to conduct themselves on the links, and will also probably surprise the members and guests invited to attend the Christmas dinner, with their conduct in the club house.

The directors of the Lake Chabot club, with W. L. Johnstone, president, presiding, will meet tonight at 8 p. m. The tournament committee will also be present to make final arrangements regarding the concluding stages of the handicap tournament now in progress.

Creighton Worried Over Gopher Five

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 17.—Minnesota's smashing victory over Notre Dame Monday night started considerable speculation in the camp of Creighton University's basketball team last night as to the outcome of the contest here next Monday night, when the untried Blue five, 1924-25 clash with the Gopher machine in the opening battle of the season at Creighton.

With the intention of moulding a barrier that will stop the Gophers, Coach Schabiner and his varsity continue to build for the event, priming every part of their machine for the first test. The Blue coach expressed confidence of victory.

Vancouver Walker Will Enter Games

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 17.—George Goulding of Vancouver, claimant to several world's walking records, announced today he would enter the International Melrose games scheduled to be held in January in Madison Square Garden, New York City.

He said among his opponents were to be Willie Plant, American champion, and Frigerio, winner of the 10,000-meter walk at the 1924 Olympic games.

Question Box.

If you have some question to ask about baseball, football, boxing or any other amateur or professional sports—

If you want a rule interpreted—

If you want to know anything about a play or player—

Write to John B. Foster, on Baseball; Lawrence Perry, on Amateur Sports, and Fair Play, on Boxing or other professional sports. All are Special Correspondents of the Oakland TRIBUNE. [illegible]

If you want a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Otherwise, your question will be answered in this column.

QUESTION—How has the world's heavyweight title come down to Dempsey from Corbett's time?

ANSWER—Bob Fitzsimmons defeated Corbett. Jim Jeffries defeated Fitzsimmons. Jeff retired in 1905 and is supposed to have turned over his title to Marvin Hart after Hart beat Jack Root, although when Jeff emerged from retirement to meet Jack Johnson he claimed he never had done this. Anyway, Tommy Burns beat Marvin Hart. Jack Johnson defeated Tommy Burns. Jess Willard defeated Jack Johnson and Dempsey defeated Willard.

QUESTION—Did the Wright brothers introduce baseball into the United States as modified rounders?

ANSWER—The Wright brothers did not introduce baseball in any way. They were not natives of England and baseball was played before they ever took it up and had been played for a long time. Nor is rounders anything like baseball except that there are bases to be touched.

QUESTION—Is that batter out if he bunts the ball foul on the third strike? If there is a tie at the base and the runner and ball come together, what is the rule?

ANSWER—The batter is always out if he fouls the ball on the third strike. In case ball and runner arrive at a base together the runner gets the benefit of the doubt.

Abe Mitchell, Geo. Duncan Due on Coast

Celebrated British Golfers Will Hop West From Dallas This Week-End.

By LAWRENCE PERRY.

SPECIAL BY WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell will be on the Pacific coast Saturday, hopping there from Dallas, Texas, where they are staging a mid-week display of their wares.

It required but a victory over Hagen and Sarazen, following their triumph over Bobby Jones and Ouimet at Ashville, to set the British golfing enthusiasts to chuckling.

No doubt theer will be other occasions calling for congratulations as the two British pro's wander in California's sunny clime. For not one who follows golf at all closely will debate the assertion that Mitchell and Duncan are the greatest golf team in the world.

Hagan and Sarazen are of course brilliant individually but they play as individuals not as a team. Sarazen especially lacks what may be termed team keeness.

An example of this is contained among expert advices concerning the St. Augustine match which the writer has just received. It seems that Sarazen had a putt on the same line as Hagen. Walter putted first but before addressing his ball he turned to Sarazen:

"Better stand behind me, Gene," he said, "so you can get the line for your putt."

Duncan and Mitchell do this sort of thing constantly. No detail escapes their notice, no point their deep attention. Duncan usually plays first and no man is more steady than he. Mitchell gets his information as to the proper shot in watching his partner.

Dummy Scrimmage Dish for Trojans

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—A dummy scrimmage drill marked the second day practice of the University of Southern California football team here yesterday in preparation for the intersectional contest here Christmas day with the University of Missouri. The workout was held on a soggy, rain-soaked field.

A light practice daily is the program for the remainder of the week, Coach Elmer C. Henderson said today.

Henry Lefebvre, halfback, the only member of the Trojan team on the disability list, is suffering from a bad knee which he injured in the Syracuse-U. S. C. game December 6, but will be in the line-up Christmas day, Henderson declared.

Washington Stadium Rented for Production

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—Darwin Meisnest, graduate manager of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, today announced that the university students have been authorized to rent the stadium to the producers of "The Wayfarer" here July 27 to August 1 and that local businessmen have given a guarantee of $60,000 to cover expenses of the civic drama.

The production is to be a feature of the Knight Templar convention. The play was produced two successive years in the stadium and then abandoned for "Americanus," a drama similar in scope.

Referee's Verdict Will Not Halt Pay

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 17.—Announcement was made by the boxing club that promoted last night's boxing card that Pete Sarmiento, who lost on a foul to Eddie Shea, would be paid, in spite of the decision of the referee.

NAMED PRESIDENT.

Officials for Berkeley Game Are Selected

OFFICIALS for the Berkeley-Bakersfield game, to be played at Bakersfield next Saturday, have been agreed upon according to word from Coach Jimmy Hole of Berkeley this morning.

From lists submitted by the football officials' association, the following were named: Pete Lenz, referee; Boles Rosenthal, umpire; "Crip" Toomey, head linesman; C. B. Savage, field judge.

Lenz and Rosenthal acted in their same positions in the Lodi-Berkeley game and their work was highly satisfactory. Toomey and Savage were named as the southern officials.

Thorpe to Referee Game at Pasadena

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Ed Thorp, noted gridiron official of New York, will referee the Notre Dame-Stanford game at the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's day, according to an announcement here today.

Last Night's fight results

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—After trailing in the opening rounds, "Spug" Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, lightweight, staged a flashy comeback and won a decision over Pat Mills of England in the four-round main event last night at Vernon arena. Mills tired rapidly after having a margin in the first two rounds.

In the semi-windup Ernie Owens and Kid Mexico, middleweights, fought a draw.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 17.—Johnny Adams, former Pacific coast lightweight champion, knocked out Ad Reuz of San Diego in the second round of a main event here last night. Cy Murphy had been scheduled to appear against the former lightweight champion and when Ruez was announced as Murphy prior to the opening of the first round, the fans jeered and hooted the announcer.

The work of Adams was not impressive despite the fact that he dropped his opponent four times before being knocked out in the final minutes of the second round.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 17.—Dixie La Hood, Butte, bantamweight, knocked out Phil O'Doud of Columbus, Ohio, in the sixth round of a scheduled 12-round bout here last night.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17.—Dode Bercot, Seattle welterweight, and Johnny O'Donnell, St. Paul, fought an unpopular six-round main event draw here last night. Newspapermen gave O'Donnell one round, called another one even and decided the remainder in favor of Bercot.

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 17.—Sailor Jimmy Hackley, United States battle fleet featherweight champion, easily defeated Sailor Ritchie King, claimant to the all-navy featherweight title, in the four-round main even here last night at the Chief Petty Officers' club. Hackley took every round. Last night's program was the last before the new state boxing law becomes effective.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Lucien Vinez, who two months ago won the European lightweight championship from Fred Bretonnel, late last night decisively outpointed Paul Fritsch in a twenty-round bout in which the title was at stake. Vinez had all the better throughout. He inflicted severe punishment on Fritsch, who belongs to the "stable" of Francois Descamps, the mentor of Georges Carpentier.

Hole to Take No Chances on Coming Game

Light Workouts Have Been in Order; Overconfidence Is Greatest Danger.

None the worse for their conflict with the Lodi Flames last Saturday, the Berkeley Yellowjackets resumed training for their game with Bakersfield for the high school championship of California at Bakersfield next Saturday afternoon. Coaches Hole and Lamar have had their athletes cavorting on California field for the past three mornings in light workouts.

Berkeley is favored to beat Bakersfield next Saturday, but Coach Hole has two evils which he must combat before the victory will be certain. First, his athletes may become stale from the long grind of the season; and, second, overconfidence may give the Drillers an opportunity to get in some deadly work.

Jimmy Hole, therefore, is preparing to combat both of these ailments. Berkeley started play a few weeks later than the other bay region high schools, but already their season is fully a month longer than any of the other local schools.

The last Alameda county league game was on November 15, when Alameda ended its season, while Piedmont hung up its uniforms a week before that. The Berkeley mentor will take no chances in entering a stale team in the championship tilt, so he will not hold any scrimmages during the daily sessions.

The larger part of Monday's practice period was devoted to a lecture on the faults of the team in the Lodi game and a warning against overconfidence. Yesterday a signal practice and tackling the dummy were the order of the day. It was the plan of the Berkeley leader to let his boys rest up today also.

The Berkeley team will leave tomorrow evening and arrive in Bakersfield for a light signal drill on Friday morning to wind up the training period for the season.

Despite the fact that reports from the south indicate that the Drillers will enter the game with a light team, Hole is pessimistic over the chances of his eleven. "The team that gets the breaks will win," is Hole's contention.

Coach Griffin of Bakersfield witnessed the Lodi-Berkeley game and was much impressed with the strength of the Yellowjackets. He declared that they were much heavier than his gridders, but that he was in no way discouraged.

'Strangler' Lewis Wins From Romero

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, retained his title last night by taking two of three falls from Mike Romano, Italian heavyweight champion. Romano took the first fall in three minutes, 32 seconds after two successive headlocks. Lewis took the second in 1:04:55 with a toe lock and head scissors and the third in 6 minutes, 2 seconds with a reverse body hold.

Ad Santel Takes Salt Lake Match

SALT LAKE, Dec. 17.—Ad Santel of Wichita, Kansas, defeated Ira Dern, Salt Lake, in a finish wrestling match here last night, winning two out of three falls.

Santel won the first in 53 minutes with a jacknife, Dern the second in 15 minutes with a leg strangle and Santel the last in 18 minutes with frontal headlock and arm lock. The weights were: Dern 170¼, Santel 182½.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY

by Ad Schuster

BARNEY'S GARDEN

BARNEY WINSLOW, gardener, hung up the telephone receiver a frightened look on his face. Through the rear door of his office he could look down the aisle of his greenhouse crowded with cool and peaceful plants.

"I'll have to go," he said. "I told him I'd go, but it will seem funny fixing her garden after all these years—working for him."

He thought of the days when young Bernard Winslow paid court to Mira Hurd, of high school sleigh rides, picnics, and moonlit journeys behind a livery nag. They had been engaged and had planned for the future. The world was waiting to be conquered.

Then Peter Roscoe came to town and married Mira. Bernard turned to his flowers and gave them his love. After a while he became Barney the gardener and men said he had little ambition outside of his little greenhouse and he did not care. Nor did he mind going about the town in his old clothes.

"When I get through working, things look better than they did before," he reasoned. "I turn the ground and plant the seeds and bulbs and I don't know anyone who does a better work."

And now Peter Roscoe had telephoned, asking him to do some garden work. Barney smiled at the changes which come with time. He was no longer Bernard Winslow, rival for the hand of Mira, but an impersonal figure, a gardener.

"I doubt if he remembers me, or connects me with the past. Anyhow I've got to go."

As Barney worked in the Roscoe yard he planned to make this job his masterpiece. In some way he would show to Mira that he had held to the old dream and his heart was still constant.

"He can bring her flowers from town," he said of Roscoe, "but I can make them grow for her. My gift will be the better and she will understand."

There was pleasure in working for Mira and he had full sway. At first he wondered what he would say and how she would act when they met, but not once did he even see her. Then he took to imagining that this yard was his, his and Mira's. He would set it out as he would have planned their yard had they married.

He had not realized how hard it had been to lose Mira. This brought it all back, for the saw what he had missed. Barney felt suddenly the difference between himself and the spruce and portly Peter Roscoe. The one a figure of importance in the world drove up to this front door in a car while the other, in soil-flecked clothes, worked unnoticed in the garden.

When the job was all but through, he told himself he was glad—glad because it represented his best work, and because the strain was over. He had lingered over memories long buried — the old heartache had returned. For the first time in years he felt old and the work that had been his pride seemed pitiful and small.

"Well," he said looking over the yard, "It's finished. This is my message, my way of telling her. I've done my best and I guess I won't care to do this kind of work any more. But she, Mira, will understand."

Trundling his wheelbarrow before him he started down the drive and to the world and the lady of the house he was no more than a little old man in a dirt-colored suit. She came from the front door and stopped him.

"Well," said Mrs. Peter Roscoe, "if you call this a good job of gardening you're mistaken. I told Peter to get an expert—a man in whom he could have confidence—and I wanted a garden just like they have in the big cities. If Peter pays you it will be against my advice and he generally does what I say."

As the shrill voice and its content reached the ears of Barney Winslow, he stood as if petrified holding the barrow. He let her talk on and it seemed to him the words were removing the pain and bitterness of years. Before she was through he was even sorry for Peter Roscoe. He touched his hat and moved on. The wheelbarrow squeaked dismally as he went his way but his heart was light. This hard-voiced Mira was not of his world. [illegible] of what he had escaped.

"I'll stick to the flowers," he said and he added his whistle to the squeak of the wheel.

THE DESPERATE FLIRT

"Oh, I am a desperate flirt. I am afraid I always have been. I just can't help it. I like the men. I always did. Father used to tell me I would get a bullet through my brain or die an old maid."

I gazed upon this interesting bit of femininity with amazement. She was petite, with lots of very black hair, streaked with gray. She wore glasses over very short-sighted eyes. Her clothes had no relation whatever to the word "chic." But her hands were white and pretty and she wore three rather good rings. Her feet, however, though small, were by no means well shod.

And her hat was preposterous—one of those ugly black blobs that made her look much more like an "old maid" than was at all necessary.

She certainly would have been dubbed an old maid in the past decade, although she held a good position in the government and was earning her $200 a month.

Yet here she was giggling naughtily and telling me she was a "desperate flirt." She must be a bright woman to hold the job she does. But somehow her statements did not tally with the apparent evidence.

I wanted more information, so I drew her out. She was quite willing. She had, she said, been engaged three times—those were the rings, the dear boys would not take them back. She always offered to give the rings back.

She was, she said, one of four Irish sisters. The other three had married—old beaus of her own.

Sometimes she thought she ought to have married—at least once. But she did enjoy flirting around so, and she hoped I would believe there was no real harm to her!

Thus she continued to astonish me—and frankly I did not believe a word of it. Shrewdly she sensed this. "Oh, I can see you think I am fibbing," she said delightedly, "but you can't judge by my looks. I know I'm not pretty—and what's more I never was. But I do know the tricks," she gurgled.

Whether she planned the demonstration I don't know. But it so happened that, at a reception, a lovely Spanish girl and this desperate flirt and myself were talking together, when two men joined our group. Well, there was no doubt of the beauty and charm of the Spanish girl, and I don't consider I am uninteresting myself.

But sure enough that "desperate flirt" started flattering and ogling those men—with very positive success. She knew all about their professions and their special interests, and she had them going in no time at all. The Spanish girl and myself were the merest props, foils for her bubbling interest.

Later I asked her to dine with me that evening and she blushed and said she was sorry but she had a date. She always had a date on Tuesdays, Fridays and Sundays. So when the bachelor judge in the town came to claim her—well, I jolly well had to believe in her charms. I certainly never would have believed it without the obvious demonstrations.

"Father used to be so worried about my flirtations," beamed she, "and he was afraid some jilted beau would kill me some day. But I always knew just how far to go," she bragged slyly.

So there's another type of us, you see. There is a lot we don't know about "old maids" — and, ahem, about men, too.

Inquisitive Wolves

Walt Dangers, Neillsville, Wis., awoke at midnight in his cabin to hear a terrific scratching mingled with howls of pain from a window he had left open. Striking a match he saw a large wolf's head caught by the window which was hinged at the top and swung inward. A blow with a hatchet killed the animal. This gave Walt an idea. The next night he hung part of the dead wolf's carcass inside, propped up the window as before, and tied a rope to the stick reaching to his bed. Wolves are still numerous in the wilds of Northern Wisconsin and before midnight another stuck his head into the cabin, sniffing. The hunter yanked out the stick and caught the second wolf, a third within a hour, three the next night, and in ten days sixteen. Now he plans to make this his winter's job for the money to be made from pelts and bounties.—Capper's Weekly.

Can Hear Atoms Roar.

Recent experiments by the General Electric company, Schnectady, N. Y., give some indication of the power locked up in an atom about which scientists have been telling us. A magnet brought near iron so stirs up the atoms and their electrons that sound is produced. This sound amplified by use of a radio loud speaker can be heard plainly. As the magnet is brought near the iron there is a rustling sound and then a dull roar as the two come close together. Hard and unyielding as iron is, scientists say electrons move about in it at high speed. A magnet draws these atoms all one way and this movement produces the sound.

Five-Wheeled Auto

A big touring car showed up to a crawl as it passed a primitive oxcart driven by an ancient graybeard.

"Look at Rip Van Winkle," exclaimed the smart aleck of the party. "Say, grandfather, did you ever have a joyride in an automobile?"

"Yep, oncet," replied the patriarch, "it wuz a dandy automobile, too—had five wheels.

"Good for you, but what was the fifth wheel for?"

Not Accidental

An army surgeon was examining a cowpuncher recruit, whose hand was bandaged. Asked if he ever had an accident, the recruit said he had not, and explained that a rattlesnake bite was the cause of his bandaged hand.

"But don't you call that an accident?" asked the surgeon.

CRY o' Geraldine's SHOULDER

Trademark Registered

On this page we've recently had a controversy between parents and the teachers over pupils. One woman complained that her child, as well as others, had been slapped. Another defended such punishment, but no one as yet has suggested such common-sense cures as appear in the following letter. The mother says:

"IN ORDER TO MAKE FOR PLEASANTNESS BETWEEN MY CHILDREN AND THEIR TEACHERS I TRY TO DO MY PART.

"I SEE THAT THE GIRLS HAVE NINE OR TEN HOURS' SLEEP EACH NIGHT.

"THEY ARE ALLOWED TO BE OUT ONLY ON FRIDAY OR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"THEY ARE FED PROPERLY."

I wonder how many mothers see that their children have a wholesome breakfast before they leave for school in the morning? Is it dished up in an attractive manner to tempt early-morning light appetites? Are the children gotten out of bed in time so that there is no gulping of eggs or mush?

HOW DO YOU START YOUR CHILD TO SCHOOL?

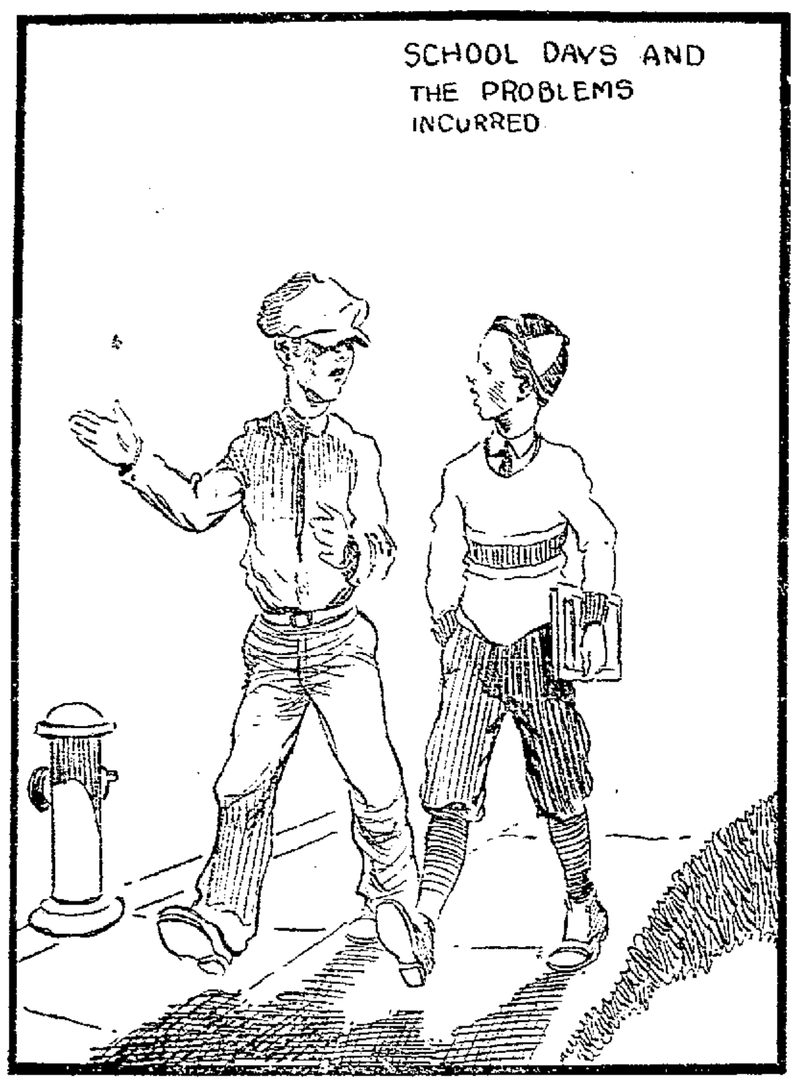
Dear Geraldine:

Alabama's contribution of November 5 is conspicuous for its cheerful, sane, thought-provoking sentiments in regard to children and their teachers.

Anything that concerns the training of children is of paramount interest in my life. As an ex-teacher and as a mother, I have read with varying emotions all the recent criticisms printed on this page. Some of the letters have aroused my ire and I had to put my typewriter under lock and key until I cooled off, else I might have written a scorching, scathing communication which would have helped no one, least of all myself. We have to remember that criticism, to be worth anything, must be constructive. "Knocking" teachers and schools and methods is of no avail unless we can suggest improvement.

My own experience and observation may help some mother. Children reflect, or echo faithfully, the mental attitude of their parents. A critical, fault-finding parent doesn't need to expect cheerful, contented children. Children who are neglected at home are the troublesome pupils in school.

My children's report cards have two pages. One page is given over to marking the child's intellectual attainments. The other is for character. My children understand perfectly that their marks on the first page are a matter that rests with child and teacher. BUT the other page is the result of the parents' interest and training. If a child should fail in mathematics or Latin it may be caused from one of several reasons. If there is a check for conduct, self-reliance, courtesy, etc., the blame must rest at home. In all their years in school my girls have never had a mark on the character page!



SCHOOL DAYS AND THE PROBLEMS INCURRED

Incidentally, my two girls in the same class were two of the three highest last month, and they are two of the four highest this month! So it would seem that if the child is not neglected at home he will hold his own anywhere.

Some of my plans to help my children include:

No unkind comments about any teacher! The teachers are there to stay and the girls have to go to school. Criticism has a habit of growing into disagreeable proportions. What is the use of saying anything? Children are too immature to be just judges of a teacher's actions or motives. The girls are not allowed to hear any unkind remarks at home about those in authority.

We know a little girl who gets a very low mark in a certain subject. Her mother explains the low grade by saying "her teacher doesn't like her!" I asked, "WHY doesn't the teacher like her?" The mother grew angry. Certainly it isn't her child's fault! Of course not! All the procession is out of step but my son John! I know it to be true that if a teacher dislikes a child it is with cause. It is not the child's fault, either, but of careless training on the parents' part. In any case a child who is obedient, courteous, attentive, etc., will, even if he doesn't become teacher's adored pet, receive justice.

Parents need some training themselves. Last year I knew a boy in one of the schools here in Oakland. He was in the same class with my daughters. But he was constantly being disciplined and he did very, very poor work. The teacher, an unusually conscientious woman, did her utmost to help the child. She had several talks with his parents, but no good resulted. I volunteered to coach the boy in his weak subjects. His mother vetoed the suggestion with indignant vim. "I should say not! Let the teacher do it. That's what she's hired for!" The boy went on his careless way, out to the movies almost every night, sleepy and inattentive in school next day, until when the teacher warned that his promotion was in danger the family decided to move where the boy could enter another school! What a pity such parents exist. What chance has that boy? He heard his mother explaining that "his teacher doesn't like him; she doesn't explain things, and how can he understand?" So, when a difficulty loomed up, instead of insisting that the boy brace himself and meet it, the family turned and fled!

Some mothers make a great ado if their darlings are slapped or receive corporal punishment. I do not find it necessary, ever, to use physical force, but if my child should be punished thus at school I would suffer acutely because my training of my child is a failure! Those mothers who are so harsh about the teachers should stop and ask themselves "WHY?" Why should a teacher need or desire to strike a child? I have yet to know of an innocent victim!

My girls have not yet sprouted wings. Ruth was sent in to her room from the playground some years ago. She gave as the reason that the physical director had overheard her saying "Gee!" I thought the punishment rather severe (but I did not tell the child so) and knowing that the average child exaggerates and prevaricates, I proceeded to investigate. I imagined my child had been impudent. She had told the truth. But she had been warned to avoid slang and had been told that for the next offense there would be a punishment. I had nothing to say. The teacher was doing her best for my child.

In order to make for pleasantness between my children and their teachers I try to do my part.

I see that the girls have nine or ten hours of sleep each night. They are allowed to be out only on Friday or Saturday night.

They are fed properly. I consider this very important. Well-balanced meals, wholesome food and regular hours are of vast importance in their mental as well as physical growth.

They are sent to school comfortable and happy. Their clothing must be such that they will be at ease. It must be comfortable in fit, becoming and inconspicuous.

They have a regular study hour during which no one is allowed to disturb them. We have an unabridged dictionary, maps, etc., for their convenience.

The girls are required to be regular and prompt in attendance. There is no excuse for tardiness.

We are interested in everything that interests the children. We are enveloped in the school spirit. Student body activities are as important as the doings of the G. O. P.

We listen a great deal. Try it. You learn an awful lot. I overheard two boys talking. One does two Latin lessons! The other does two in mathematics. We discuss it and decide it's very dishonorable—and anyhow when there's a test it shows up!

Don't be too harsh against the elderly teacher! The very finest training my girls have ever received came from a teacher who is also a grandmother! Some of these younger teachers may divide their interest between pupils and hope chests! By their fruits we know them.

I'm for the teacher in every argument! The children may be mistaken, may either wilfully or unintentionally misrepresent or exaggerate. Whether the child is right or wrong, the teacher is in authority and unless authority is respected we're paving a certain path to future trouble for ourselves as well as the children.

Don't blame the teacher for the child's shortcomings. The teacher has charge of my child—and about forty others—for about 20 per cent of the time, something like 35 hours weekly. It stands to reason that the controlling factor in the child's life is how the 80 per cent of time is used! I send my children to school to acquire knowledge. If the girls are sleepy, inattentive, unreliant, etc., in such measure as will tax the teacher's patience, all the children and all the subjects must suffer.

Parents should be very slow to take up the children's quarrels. We can only teach them right and wrong and expect of our youngsters the honorable course. Leave them to tackle their own problems. It is only thus we make them strong and able to carry on when we shall no longer be here. But in all things we are to be sympathetic.

Here's to our teachers! Next to the parents they are childhood's best friend. Let's cut out "knocking for a bit and give them a little of the praise they so richly deserve.

Yours for the children,
E. F. B.

More power to YOU, my friend. The folks who have love to spare are the ones who accomplish wonders. I enjoyed your P. S., both for the good things you are doing and for the message to me.

What a tragedy that there are homes with no cooperation. A night out once a week, a little help from the "head of the house" and this girl would be happy. She doesn't long for expensive clothes or a limousine, but just a few moments' vacation from being "MOTHER."

Mothers, haven't you felt this way? If you have, and if you've stood on your own two feet and gotten your RIGHTS, tell Evelyn how you did it.

A man like her husband makes me forget that I'm a peaceful person who believes in PEACEFUL decisions:

Jerry:

In reply to Grace M. of Sunday's paper, who wants a night off with pay.

Say, I would laugh myself sick. It would be hysteria if I ever had 15 minutes free from my 3½-year-old boy. I would be worse than a ship at sea without a pilot, for I could never steer myself around without about a 40-pound weight on my right arm. If he says, "Hold me, daddy," daddy says, "Mother will do it." "I want a drink, daddy," and daddy says, "All right, mother will get it." "I want my face washed, my hair combed." "Well, mother will do it." If I wish to go to the corner store for a bottle of cream, it is "Take the baby with you, I can't take care of him."

I know it is blessed and sweet to be a mother and I am very proud of my boy, for I have reason to be, but sometimes I never want to hear the word mother, and I'd like a rest from it.

I am just 24 years old and several thousand miles from relatives or friends, so no chance of relief. If the daddy would just be real responsible for one week, mother would not be called on so much.

So, Grace M., you see you are not the only one who wishes for one night off. You would never know what to do with it, anyway; neither would I. We have stayed at home too long. Jerry, maybe you can read mother between the lines. He is right at my arm asking, "Who you writing to?" "Where did you get your pencil, etc.?"

Our CHEERY CHUM

A Christmas Carol

ENTIRE COSTUME DEAD BLACK WITH GOLD AND SILVER STREAKS

IX. THE LAST SPIRIT.

(Drawing: Christmas Future)

Scrooge saw a solemn, hooded figure coming toward him—The Spirit of Christmas Future. Although used to ghostly company by this time Scrooge trembled violently, more violently than any time before. This Spirit would not or could not speak, sometimes it partially answered Scrooge's questions with a nod of the head, sometimes not—and the two traveled on—seeing the Christmases which were to come.

Oh the fear and the horror of it! Scrooge saw how men came to hate him more and more. He saw that people were even going to steal the clothes off him when he was dead and that there would be no one to mourn him. In fact, some people were actually glad he was dead because he was so hard and cruel. The Spirit led him on, protesting, to a little cheerless yard surrounded by high walls, where the sun could not penetrate. It was dank and ill-kept. The Spirit pointed down and Scrooge saw—

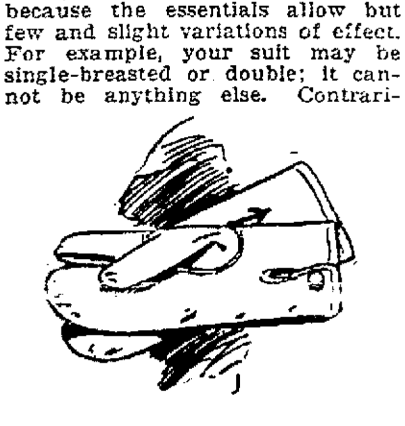
The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

THE TWO-FINGERED GLOVE.

Some one, with a knack for peppygrams, has remarked that trifles make up perfection, but perfection is no trifle. And a potential effusionist wrote that "so the little minutes, humble though they be, make the mighty ages" and so forth. Now come the French with a proverb that "the nothings in dress are everything to appearance." All of which is a good deal like declaring that water is wet, sugar is sweet and fire burns. Men's dress is self-evidently an affair of incidentals, because the essentials allow but few and slight variations of effect. For example, your suit may be single-breasted or double; it cannot be anything else. Contrariwise, women's clothes rob the rainbow, plunder the periods and filch the fashions of the world since it began, from ancient Phoenicia down to modern Paris.



The two incidentals of one's dress most slighted are gloves and shoes. Yet, these are all-important to correct appearance, because they bespeak that attention to details which differentiates the smartly turned out man from the shoddy-smart. Gloves and shoes bear the hardest burden of wear and, therefore, should be most carefully watched and most frequently replaced. Wear neither until they wear out. Cast them aside before they begin to cast reflections upon you.

Among types of gloves or mitts for confessedly cold-weather use that are gaining wider vogue, because they are uncommonly practical and comfortable, is the two-finger style, illustrated here. This may be chrome-tanned leather or knitted wool, such as Scotch, Angora or Australian, often fleece-lined and water-proofed. It is made to accommodate the thumb and forefinger separately and the other fingers together. Such a glove is capital for motoring, as well as for many Winter sports and pastimes, as it grants free movement of the hand while imparting welcome warmth.

Other gloves of the same sort are made with only the thumb left free and some are finished with wide, high, stiff gauntlet wrists and a reefing strap below. Some have soft wrists, enabling them to be rolled up and conveniently rammed into one's pocket. We wise ones of today snicker reminiscently at the "pulse-warmers" our grandfathers wore, but who shall say that the old folks didn't have the right idea? Imitation makes derision pointless.

REGIMENTAL-STRIPED SCARFS

Men's neckwear reminds one comically of the "orchestra of three pieces" composed of piano, stool and cover. It has but three primary patterns—the stripe, the plaid and the spaced or floating figure. Notwithstanding the myriads of designs you see in scarfs, all belong to one of these groups. This excludes solid colors which, having no contrasting effect, cannot, of course, be considered as a pattern. To such limited latitude in treatment is traceable the continuing vogue of designs like polka dots and regimental stripes which never come into fashion, because they never go out of fashion. They recur as regularly as the seasons.

Some wag has remarked that a critic is one who can tell somebody else how to do something he cannot do himself. Or, as Lord Byron put it, "Believe a woman, or an epitaph or any other thing that's false before you trust in critics." Hence, the present writer is reluctant to belittle the average man's taste in the choice of his scarfs. However, just dart the tail of your eye along a row of men, and you are driven to marvel how so little character and originality can be expressed in neckdress. Is this because most men have no taste or because they are too lazy to exercise it? Rather, may it not be due to the fact that a scarf or a couple of them are purchased hastily and haphazardly as disconnected articles of dress, instead of as units in the theme or harmony of the complete effect?

To avoid this fault, select your scarfs and shirts together, not separately, so that they will blend or offset engagingly and effectively. Always keep in mind the color of the suit each scarf is intended to accompany. Do not wear a striped scarf with a striped collar and a striped shirt, but if collar and shirt are striped, see that the scarf bears a figured or all-over pattern to relieve the sameness. The spice of dress is contrast, not harmony.

Just now, the broader the stripe, the smarter the effect, and the brightest of colors are favored by young men. By regimental stripes one usually means stripes which are facsimiles of the colors of well-known British regiments. However, college, club and fraternity colors are just as much used and these have a more individual significance.

"Oh, gee, I am tired of waiting," said her chum. "You know vacation is only two more days," said Julia. "Yes, I do," said her chum Mary, "why?" "Oh, my father and mother and I are going to Egypt." "Are you?" said Mary in surprise, "will your father take me if my father and mother will let me go?" "Oh, I think so," said Julia gladly, to hear what Mary had said, "I will ask him if you will ask your father and mother too." "I will," said Mary, jumping up and down. Off ran Julia and Mary in different directions. "Oh, mama," said Julia. "Goodness," said her mother, "what do you want?" "Mother," said Julia "Mary wants to know if father will take her to Egypt with us if her father and mother will let her go." In came her father. "Of course I will take her." Off ran Julia in delight in what her father had said. Around came Mary. "Oh I can go. Will your father take me?" "Oh, yes, he is going to take you," said Julia, delighted.

"Go pack your clothes because we are going in the morning. You can sleep with me tonight." "Oh, goody," said Mary, off with a run. Here came Mary in ten minutes. "I am ready," said Mary with a smile." "I am glad to have you go," said Julia's father, "you will be company to Julia."

"Oh, I love the ocean breeze," said Julia. "So do I," said Mary. "Children, come to dinner," said Mrs. Webber, Julia's mother. "Oh, this is our last day on the ship." "Oh goody," said both girls at once. A sailor had fallen in love with pretty Julia. One day when Julia and Mary was sitting on the porch of their Egypt home, they heard some men talking. They said, "We will get the diamond from the Egypt mansion and then kidnap pretty Julia and Mary." Julia and Mary were scared but hid some guns in their clothes. Julia and Mary left their door open that night. Pretty soon the door opened; in came three men. One carried a big diamond. Just as they came near the bed Julia and Mary jumped out of bed and said "Hands up." The men were surprised. Julia and Mary did not take their clothes off that night. Julia said, "Put that diamond back where you found it or I will shoot you." The men took the diamond back where they found it. Then Julia and Mary took the three men to Julia's father. The chief of the robbers said, "I love Julia, that is the reason I did it." Julia recollected the sailor that she had fallen in love with. She said, "Father, forgive him because I love him." Julia and her sweetheart married the next day.

"THE HAUNTED HOUSE.

One time there was a boy at the age of 10. He was going for a journey and he saw the sign "Haunted House" on his journey. He crept into the haunted house and he went into a room and saw some robbers and he said, "Hands up!" to the robbers and he got a thousand dollars reward from the police. Next time he went into the haunted house and he went in a room and he saw one "teeny-weeney" girl and a great big girl and he married the big girl and had the teeny weeny girl for his daughter, and they went to his house and one time when he was walking through the woods and he saw a sign saying "That who finds the golden ring will get $500 reward," then he was walking along and he came to an old tree that somebody had sawed down and he looked at the stump and he found the golden ring and he got $500 reward, and he came to a cave and went in it and he looked around and he saw Black-hands all over, and he went in room No. 2 and he saw the Black-hand gang and he pulled out his revolver and said, "Hands up," and he took them to the police. He got a $100 reward and thought he would live happily ever after, but somebody knocked at the door and it was a witch. Then the witch waved her wand on him and he turned to a billy goat and he went out in the field and ate grass and then a fairy came one night around him. She had a wand and waved it over Billygoat and he turned to his own self and lived happy with his wife.

THE TIGER RUG.

I was sitting in the old arm chair which had been in the family for years. A tiger rug lay beside me. It slowly blinked its eyes as it said, "I will tell you the story of my life if you will listen." My heart was beating fast as I said I would.

Then the tiger said slowly, "Your uncle was in Africa hunting and one day he was out in the woods. He happened to turn and of course he saw me approaching. He looked through a funny long thing. I was just getting ready to spring when the funny long thing made a lot of smoke and I knew no more." My heart beat faster as he said: "I have lain here so long that I feel hungry." He was just getting ready to eat me as I thought, when my uncle whose name was John, came in. He asked me why I was staring so hard at the tiger rug. I looked up and said, "Oh, nothing." Then I asked him to tell me how the tiger rug got there. Uncle John told me exactly what the tiger told or rather what I thought he said, only Uncle John said gun instead of funny long thing. I really think the tiger spoke. Don't you?

THE HOLDUP.

It was near sundown about five miles south of Chicago, that a train was puffing along. In a private car in the rear of the train two boys, Earl and Hal, were engaged in talking about their luck. They were coming from their mine where they had made their fortune. They now had a bag full of gold which they kept an eye on all the time.

"I can hardly wait to get home," said Hal "Just think how surprised mother will be!"

"Yes," said Earl. "Both of us will be rich and we—" The sentence was not finished, for just then the train come to a stop so suddenly that it threw them out of their seats.

"Train robbers!" said Hal in a frightened tone. "What about our gold?"

"That's all right," said Earl "We will hide it."

"Oh, Earl, they are unhitching our car from the others; if we are left alone we cannot do anything." exclaimde Ha. l

The robbers, having sent the rest of the cars ahead started to mount the stairs of Earl and Hal's private car.

"No, you don't," said Hal, and with this he threw a chair down the stairs.

"I see a hand car come on," said Earl. "Grab the gold and run."

"Goodby," shouted Hal as they started off on the hand car. "Now we're safe at last," he said, addressing Earl.

"Don't be too sure of that," said Earl. "Look behind you."

"Pump hard; it's only one more mile and then it's all down hill," said Earl.

The robbers were a little behind and were gaining all the time.

"Pump there, men," said the one that looked like like the leader of the robbers. "If you do we'll all be rich."

Then the robbers went at pumping with new eagerness. Forty yards between them, thirty yards between them, twenty.

Hal and Earl pumped eagerly. At last they reached the grade. It was easy from there.

The robbers had to turn around because they knew it was useless to try and catch Hal and Earl.

ADVENTUROUS DICK

There was a boy called Adventurous Dick because he was always looking for adventures.

One day as Dick was coming home from town, he saw a sign on the billboard saying, $10,000,000 for the capture of One-Legged Pete. Now One-Legged Pete was a pirate who stayed on a small island in the Black sea.

One Thursday afternoon Mr. Jackson's daughter, Janis, was missing. Mrs. Jackson looked in Janis's bedroom and found a paper on the floor saying, "One-Legged Pete."

Dick heard about this very quickly because Janis was his sweetheart. So Dick got in his motor boat "Dare Devil," and motored to where Pete stayed. He got there about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. He went to Pete's cave and heard Janis hollering for help. Dick went in and held up Pete and his gang, took Janis and they all went to Dick's place.

Dick took the robbers to jail and received the reward and got the gold and jewels from Pete's cave and gave them to the poor people. There was a smack on Dick's and Janis's lips and you know the rest.

Vivie fought like a wild cat. She had seen this cave man stuff depicted on the movie screen, and it was tactics that never appealed to her. She preferred to be wooed with compliments, kissed of her own desire if she was kissed at all She preferred to have her vanity fed with the inconsequential nothings that a lover is supposed to whisper in his lady's ear.

But she had been insulted—deliberately, had had her garbage can origin thrown in her face, and then on top of that outrage, he had caught her in his arms, held her wriggling, struggling body fast—and kissed her! Held her slim white wrists with one hand as he did so.

If there was one charm that Vivie did not possess, it was a sweet temper. And right now she was seething and boiling with rage. She could not claw and scratch, but she could kick. And kick she did. Until eventually she kicked and wriggled herself free And then it was her turn to bawl HIM out even as he had her.

She sprang away a few feet, put a chair between herself and him and let loose.

"So!" she cried, trembling with fury, injured pride and wounded vanity. I am a garbage can lily, am I? Well, what are you? You are that filthy thing that sneaks up to the garbage can to steal and eat what is in it—a rat! That's what YOU are A dirty rat You dress like a gentleman but beneath your clothes is nothing but a dirty, greedy, mangy little rat Just because you used up 50 cents worth of gasoline to bring me here do you think you have bought the right to force me to kiss you? Ain't my kisses mine to give or keep if I choose? You say I'm the sort of a girl who wants a fellow to spend money on her and then won't play the game. Are all girls for sale? Can the filthy money you possess give back or pay for what you'd like to take from me?"

"Why you d— little flapper! You—"

The cad in Jimmy overcame the training of a gentleman—the years of training that had taught him up until now that gentlemen did not swear in the presence of a woman, no matter what her status

The color mounted to his cheeks One cheek was already smeaded with vermillion, where he had brushed it against Vivie's lips. But both cheeks flamed now—with anger. He, too, had an overabundance of personal pride and vanity.

"You d—d little flapper vamp," he repeated, shutting his teeth together with a click.

"All right," shot back Vivie. "Let it go at that. But thank God that is the worst that you can call me"

"Oh, I don't know"

"You mean you don't care All lilies look alike to you, whether they grow on garbage cans or hothouses What difference does it make to you? You think that you have a right to kiss every girl that you take out in your car!"

"Say, are you trying to pretend?"

"I'm not trying to pretend anything now You wouldn't believe me if I did So I'll admit everything that is the truth That I live in a rat hole, if that is what you mean by a child of the slums That I've chased around to dances and met fellows on the street corners just as I did you because I was ashamed to take them into my home Home! You should see it. It's smelly and its poverty-stricken, and it's dirty. So don't blame me altogether for what I am. At least I am not what you would make of me Sure, I've hung around the streets when I should have been in school I've played hooky lots of times just like a boy. I 'spose ladies ARE made by education But I can't see that going to college has made a gentleman out of you!"

"Oh, come now—"

"Shut up! You insulted ME You used bigger words and education to do it with, and now I'm coming back at you in the only language I know—the filth I've picked off the streets as you say And here goes. You are a worthless, good-for-nothing lounge lizard, who lets his folks support him! You are a contemptible little cake-eater with bandoline on his hair! You are a finale hopper and a booze hound! You are EVERTHING but a gentleman I've got a brother just like you, so I know the breed. The only difference between you and him is, your clothes are tailor-made and he walks up one flight to save ten dollars YOU probably live in a 15-room bungalow, with a view in Piedmont He lives in a dirty dark four-room flat down by the rail- [illegible] tell the whole cockeyed world that neither one of you is any bargain"

Vivie paused for breath. There was something magnificent about her for the first time in her selfish young life. And that magnificence had been whipped to the surface by the fact that for the first time in her life she had met a young man who hinted—hinted! Who came right out and accused her of being worse than she really was. She had started out to win his respect and a proposal of marriage and it had all ended up by his forcibly kissing her in the sordid place where he had brought her. At that moment Vivie felt righteously magnificent As any young woman would feel who has not yet taken the step that places them beyond the pale of decency, even young women who play with fire. It was hard to say who had cause for the greater grievance—she or Jimmy. But both THOUGHT they had.

"Wow!" Jimmy blinked. "I take off my hat to you. You sling the king's English right and left, but I must admit that you do it with telling effect." He smiled sarcastically "Outside of all that I presume that I am all right?"

"There is nothing all right about you. Just add to all that I've said what I ain't got the education to say and you have a picture of yourself. One that doesn't flatter, either. And speaking of education, just let me tell you here and now, Jimmy Brice, when we meet again, I intend to have one that matches your own."

"When we meet AGAIN! Ah little one, you are, indeed, optimistic. There will be no again."

"Oh, yes, there will. Some day I am going to make you take back every dirty crack you made about me. Some day you are going to want to kiss me for an entirely different reason. I'm going to school I'm going to make something out of myself. I've had my lesson here tonight. You are the first fellow I ever met that I MIGHT have fallen in love with I thought that you were CLASS. But I guess clothes don't make class, or education either, for that matter But if it makes one seem to be a lady then I am going to be a lady And I'll find a way to move in your set And I'll meet you again and I hope to be able to bawl you out then in your own language. And, believe me, I'll do it."

"You've succeeded pretty well in your own language," he remarked dryly, and with a grudging sort of admiration.

Just then Charley poked his head in the door. He may have been near enough all the time to hear the fireworks, but probably wisely considered it best to hold a strategic position until a lull in hostilities

"To h— with your duck feed!" exclaimed Vivie, gathering up her hat and flopping it down upon her head, for the first time in her life, not caring whether it was placed at a becoming angle or not. "I've got a thirty-mile hike ahead of me. To h—" she ripped out the oath [illegible] And that is a language we BOTH speak."

Our Children

ROUND SHOULDERS.

Girls nowadays are not as careful of their carriage as they used to be, some of our older folks think. They say they see more round-shouldered girls than ever they saw when they were young. Now of course I don't know about that. I do know that more girls are thinking about how their shoulders ought to be than ever I believed possible. I talked to a lot of them and asked about it. They were anxious to have fine shoulders and a fine carriage and a fine presence. One young monkey, scarce twelve, explained gravely that it counted a lot these days if you had a fine appearance—there was so much competition. No, I didn't ask what competition she had in mind. I was quite satisfied that the girls were thinking about their carriages. So I told them what the best deportment teacher in England told me. They take these things very seriously over there.

She said that the best way to teach a girl to carry herself well was to train her to walk and dance and study with a little book on her head. First she learned to stand still with it in its place. Then she walked around the room and tried to keep it in place for a longer time each day. By and by she became so expert in carrying a book on her head that she could dance with it there and never lose it once.

When she reached that stage of balance she was given an apple to carry instead of the book, and it was considered a great failure not to be able to dance with that apple on one's head. But you were ready for presentation when you could carry an orange on your head while you waltzed once around and back again. Try it and see what happens.

Your spine will stretch up in the effort to hold up your head and your walk become easy and graceful by the same token. No better exercise for grace and strength could be devised. Nor a cheaper one, as to money cost. The effort put into the work will not be cheap. It is the price of a fine carriage, a poised body and mind, a grace of presence that a queen might envy. That is not cheap.

Then too, if the shoulders are very droopy and the girl very willowy, it helps if she stands with her back flattened against the wall for five minutes of every hour she is seated at work or study.

Hooking a wand under the arms, while studying, for a half hour, is fine for straightening the shoulders. It will, like the book exercise, cost very little in money, but it will pay tremendously in health and physique.

But—and this is most imperative—if there is anything about a girl's carriage or walk that causes you uneasiness, consult a physician whom you trust lest there should be a spinal curvature. That must be attended to immediately. The physician will give the right exercise for its correction. The wrong ones would prove very serious.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents or school teachers on education and development of children. Write him in care of th' paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Fashion News Notes

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—It seems unusual to look for fashions in a hen house but where else except on the legs of a buff chicken could the idea for feather decorated garters have originated. Ostriches, pheasant plumage are extensively used in the latest round house supporters.

New flappers want to be a flop at Miami Beach but her hat may flop provided it is a bankok brand, so died to harmonize with her printed crepe de chine or tub silk printed crepe de Chine or tub silk frock.

A gentle sniff, whether from cold or disdain does not come amiss for it is opportunity for display of a bright colored handkerchief of voile, linen or crepe de Chine with hand-rolled with embroideries scallops.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Holiday visitors from south of the equator, India, the West African coast, are going to Jeanne De Casilis' hair dresser. Miss De Casili's plays the leading role in Rate Morgan and observers declare that if her wave can withstand the ruffling that play with hectic situations, a similar one should withstand climate in which the lizards have to walk on tip toes.

Colonia, Jabon, Polvos, those Spanish words, signifying, Europe, De Cologne soap and powder, have come easy to English tongues since the flowers of Spain have taken to dominating the perfume fashions of London. When it comes to scientists the "purveyors to the royal house of Spain" carry real significance in fashionable circles.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Spring suits already are worrying the designers. A sketch just completed in one of the Atliers for such a costume shows a three-quarter coat of gray duvetyn closed with frogs down the front placed closely together and with a high standing collar and cuffs of gray squirrel. The pockets are concealed by huge double tabs of the gray fur.

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PRETTY BERRIES.

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy crept down stairs in the hollow stump bungalow one morning, carrying on the end of her tail a basket.

"How do you do, Nurse Janes?" asked Uncle Wiggily, though he knew quite well how his muskrat lady housekeeper was, since he had seen her only a little while before at the breakfast table. But he just asked that to be polite,

"I do very well," replied Nurse Jane. "But I wish you would do something for me."

"What is it?" asked the bunny uncle.

"I wish you would go to the woods and get me some pretty berries," said Nurse Jane. "I want to make the bungalow look nice, for it will soon be Christmas"

"Do you want red holly berries?" asked the rabbit.

"No, it is too soon to gather the holly berries for Christmas," Nurse Jane answered. "Any kind of pretty berries you see in the woods will do for now—blue berries, red berries, green berries—any kind"

"I'll go look for some," said Mr. Longears. "But why is that basket on the end of your tail? Are you going after eggs?"

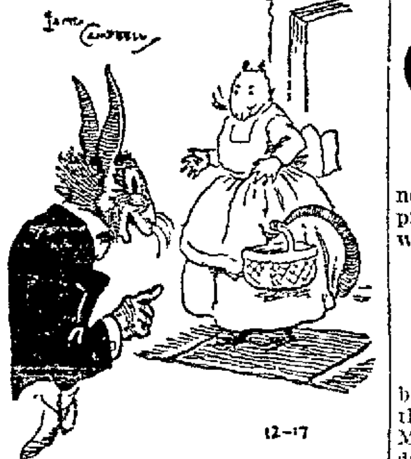
"No, I brought this basket for you to bring back the pretty berries in," answered the muskrat lady. "Gather as many as you can"

"I shall," answered Uncle Wiggily, and with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose, taking the basket on his paw, off he hopped over the fields and through the woods

With his bright eyes he looked on each side of the path for pretty berries. Most often Uncle Wiggily looked for cabbage or carrots to eat, but this time he was looking for something else And soon he spied a bush on which were growing pretty red berries.

"Those aren't holly berries, but they are very nice," said the rabbit "I think they will be just what Nurse Jane wants. I'll gather the basket full for her.

But when Uncle Wiggily went to reach over and pick the pretty red berries, he found that they grew on a very stickery, prickery bush, full of thorns, and the thorns began to scratch him.



'Are you going after eggs?'

"Dear me!" exclaimed the bunny. "I didn't know they were there!"

"Ho! Ho! And I didn't know you were here, but I know it now!" suddenly cried a savage voice, and out from behind a rock sprang the Bob Cat, with his silly little tail "I'm glad you are here, Uncle Wiggily," said the Bob Cat, "and I am going to nibble you. Don't look so sad about it."

"Oh, I wasn't looking sad about that," spoke Uncle Wiggily.

"What then?" the Bob Cat wanted to know. "Why are you sad?"

"I am sad because I can't get Nurse Jane any pretty berries off that bush," said Uncle Wiggily, pointing to it but not telling the Bob Cat it was a stickery bush.

"I'll pick some berries for Nurse Jane," offered the Bob Cat, "and then I'll nibble your ears." With that he jumped right into the middle of the stickery bush to get the red berries Of course the thorns stuck him all over. "Wow! Zow! Scow!" howled the Bob Cat and he squirmed and twisted so that he tore loose with his claws a lot of the pretty red berries which fell out on the path.

"Thanks, I have enough!" called the bunny, picking up the berries which he could do now without getting pricked on the thorn bush. And away he ran, his basket filled, leaving the Bob Cat caught in the stickery bush . And it took the bad chap an hour to get loose.

Now if the jumping jack doesn't think the cranberries are red marbles, and take them out to shoot the roller skates, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the blackboard.

Can Hear Atoms Roar

A German and an American air pilot fought a thrilling duel at Dijon, France, during the war. The German, Baron Hans von Ringhausen, was brought down wounded, and placed in a nearby prison camp. Here a Red Cross nurse, Mrs. Bertha M. Wendell, sister of the winner in the air battle, Charles E Cummings, nursed the German bac kto health. The baron married Mrs Wendell at Omaha last month. He has sold his German holdings and will become an American citizen.

SCRAMBLED NEWS.

EASTBAY.

The remarkable work being done by the astronomical department of the University of California at Mount Hamilton was added to today by the announcement received from Lick Observatory telling of the discovery and measurement of 100 pairs of double stars; the stars were viewed with the 12-inch and 36-inch refractors at the observatory and were measured by Astronomer W. J. Hussel, who for many months past has been engaged on double star work and has written several papers on the subject for the benefit of the world's astronomers. The county board of education met today and besides making preparations for holding the annual teachers' examination granted several certificates.

County Treasurer Feidler and County Auditor Gill Bacon have finished their semi-annual settlement with State Controller E. P. Colgan, as a result of which there has been turned over to the state the sum of $439,057.34 as its share of the taxes for the last half of the year, together with moneys derived from the sale of school lands and money due the state on account of boys sent to the state reformatories. Mayor Olney and Councilman Meese counted the cash in the city treasury yesterday and found there was $219,943 71 on hand; these are the figures called for by the books of City Auditor Breed. The Ebell Club celebrated its twenty-eighth birthday last Tuesday.

President Charles P. Welch of the Independence Square District Improvement Club, in order to show the good work accomplished by the organization during the past year, has made a report to the club; some of the most important work done in the district in which the club is situated is the following: Ten blocks of streets have been graded, curbed and macadamized; ten blocks of streets have been graded in connection with the Commerce street contract; more than 3250 feet of cement sidewalks have been constructed and about 1000 feet more have been promised; one new electric light and two additional mail boxes have been granted; the trees in Independence Square have been trimmed.

Among those admitted to the bar at the Supreme Court examinations just held in San Francisco is Carlos G. White, son of Mrs. W. E. Logan, the well-known journalist; White is a graduate of the Oakland high school and of the University of California; during the last political campaign White was secretary of the University Republican Club. The men of the Hanna Memorial University Presbyterian church met last night for a social and banquet at the church parlors, Eighteenth and Castro streets; W. T. Hanford acted as toastmaster; Rev. Paul Stewart and others discussed the formation of a men's league, for which purpose a committee was appointed; solos were sung by Miss Essie Cobb and Miss Mae Miller.

ELSEWHERE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 17—H. B. Miller, consul general of the United States at Newchwang, China, who has arrived here from the Orient, will remain here a few days before proceeding to Washington, where, it is said, he will have matters of interest to place before Secretary Hay relative to affairs in Manchuria. As president of the International Red Cross and Refugees' Aid Society, much of Miller's time recently has been occupied in taking care of Chinese rendered destitute by the war between Russia and Japan; the Aid Society collected nearly $300,000 and provided for many thousands of suffering Chinese, more than 30,000 being sent to their home.

Allow yourself less than one minute for this "teaser"; have some one time you if possible.

Take a pencil and run through the numbers in the drawing. There are about fifty in all. Every time you see a number which is a multiple of 7 (as 14, 21, etc.), cross it out. And every time you see a number in which the figure 7 appears (as 17, 70, etc.) cross it out also. You must work quickly, and it will take keen thinking to get them all within the time limit!

Yesterday's Teaser.

Mexico is composed of twenty-seven states. An estimate of twenty-seven is exceptional; 25 to 30, very good; 20 to 35, good; 15 to 40, average; 10 to 40, fair, less than 7 or more than 48, poor.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

A Day Filled With Sight Seeing

Properly to tell this story requires the pantomimic abilities of my friend Dick Carle, the actor. He is the one who, acting out the principal role had given the story a deserved popularity.

Still lacking his aid I shall do my own feeble best with it

A man who has a severe crick in his neck—a crick so very severe that he cannot raise his head or look sidewise — accompanies a friend to where an aeronaut is to give an exhibition.

"What's that?" inquires the sufferer his gaze firmly fixed on the earth at his feet

"The flier has just started up. Gee he knows how to handle that machine of his!"

The applause increases in volume

"What's that for?" asks the wry-necked man.

"Oh, he's doing tail spins, nose dives, all sorts of fancy stunts He's great—the best you ever saw!"

"The plane has caught fire!" exclaims his companion: "It's bursting into flames! The flier is jumping from his aeroplane in a parachute! He's cut loose! He's dropping like a rocket! The parachute is opening out—he'll be saved! No, by Heavens, the parachute is splitting into pieces! He'll be killed! He's coming down faster and faster! He's going to strike right on top of Smith's greenhouse! No He's all right! He's managed to twist himself in the air and he's lit right on top of a haystack alongside the greenhouses! He's not hurt—he's saved! Hurrah! hurrah! Good boy."

"What's going on now?"

"The crowd is surrounding him! They're riding him on their shoulders!"

"Is that so?" says the sufferer; "well that being the case, we might as well be starting on home. I've seen enough for one day."

Language of the Horse's Ear

It is said that the Arabs were the first to appreciate a horse's intelligence and to treat him accordingly They kept the history of [illegible] ivory, and traced their parentage back to the time of the Pharaohs. They were extremenly thoughtful of the comfort of the horse and it was even said that they took better care of their horses than they did of their families. Constant companionship made the Arabian horse quick to understand the meaning of words, and kindness made them fearless, brave and obedient. The intelligence of the horse varies just as it does in other animals, or even people, and is developed or retarded according to man's treatment of him, says a bulletin of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

A good driver always keeps an even, gentle voice and studies the disposition and peculiarities of his horse. There is a so-called "ear language," and a great many misunderstandings between man and horse, and many accidents as well, might be avoided if this language were better understood and more carefully observed. A horse that is interested shows it by constantly keeping his ears on the move, alert and active. When the horse is tired or discouraged the ears droop and his head hangs dejectedly down. When he is frightened the ears stand erect and point in the direction from whence the disturbing sound comes. When he is angry his ears flatten back against the neck.—Thrift Magazine.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

"Will you kindly publish in the column of The TRIBUNE Information Bureau the origin of the custom of sending Christmas cards?"

The custom of sending Christmas cards evidently started in the beginning of the nineteenth century with the sending of "Christmas pieces" during the holidays. These so-called "Christmas pieces" were sheets of writing paper decorated with elaborate pen pictures and sometimes headed with copper plate engravings. A well-known publisher in 1871 in one of his books says that there was a great demand for Christmas pieces about 1830. Many of the subjects were Biblical in character. The Christmas card proper, however, had its origin in 1846. Joseph Cundall, a London artist, lays claim to being the publisher of the first one. In speaking of it, he says: "The first Christmas card was issued by me in the year 1846. The drawing was made by J. C. Horsley. It was printed in lithography by Mr. Jobbins of Holborn and colored by hand. About a thousand copies were sold. It was about the size of a lady's card."

Not until 1862 did the custom obtain any foothold and from that time until the present day the number of Christmas cards sent has increased every year.

The following table of equivalents is published by request:

"Please tell me how the feathers can be removed from a wild duck? It takes so long to pick them"

Wring out a woolen cloth which has been dipped in boiling water; wrap it around the duck and leave it so for several minutes. The feathers can then be removed very easily.

"What did the American Indians use for money? What was it called?"

The Indians used a certain kind of shell beads for money. They called it wampum. Specimens of wampum may be seen in nearly all public museums.

Pop Gets an Earful

I am a minister and while traveling on a train to an appointment, began a conversation with a man in the seat with me, writes J. E. M., in Capper's Weekly. The talk drifted to the subject of women's dress. By way of illustration I pointed to a girl across the aisle. "Take that girl," I said. "Surely she does not realize how she appears. Her dress is so short her knees show, there are no sleeves to speak of, and the neck is extremely low front and back." My companion seemed to agree with me and I though him a sympathetic listener, until he glanced across the aisle. "Yes, that is my daughter," he said. I could have jumped out of the window, or sunk through the floor, but there was no way of escape. But the man made it a little easier for me by saying he heartily disapproved of the girl's dress, and if he could have his way she would not be wearing it.

URBAN SHOCKER TRADED TO NEW YORK AMERICAN TEAM

Curtain Will Be Rung Down on Four-Round Boxing Tonight With Seven-Bout Program Staged at Hayward

Expected War Of Big Moguls May Not Occur

Love Feast Looms as American, National Heads Gather in Chicago.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.

SPECIAL BY WIRE
TO THE TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Urban Shocker, of the St. Louis Browns was traded to the New York Yankees today for Joe Bush, Milton Gaston, pitchers, and Joe Girard, both from Toledo.

The major leaguers were late in getting into session and they are further apart than they have been for some time because of the differences between Johnson and Landis.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The American League moguls went into the joint meeting with High Commissioner Landis, and representatives of the National League here today, hoping for the best—and without any well defined plans as to what they would do if the worst happened.

The worst of course would be the removal of their president Ban Johnson from the ranks of Big League power. In the event of Johnson's removal it is possible that an effort might be made to swing in one of the officials of one of the clubs to act in a temporary capacity as president. But you just couldn't make the American leaguers believe, as they entered the meeting that any such emergency might arise.

The American League men refused to take the situation with as much seriousness as the National League heads which led to the belief that the National Leaguers might have heard a great deal more from Chicago than the American League men had.

WILL ALLOW DICTATION.

The American League will permit dictation to go so far as to confuse its organization and unsettle its stability might happen, but it is certain that no such thing could happen without a determined fight against it. The league has its limits, over which it cannot be pushed without the liveliest verbal battle that it has yet experienced

Here in Chicago, the feeling grows as time for the meeting approached that the predicted knockdown and drag out fight would develop into a love feast.

Commissioner Landis and Johnson were sitting tight and saying nothing that would indicate what they expected to come out of the meeting. But there was a feeling that the Judge would not feel inclined to strike the blow at the possibility of harmony in baseball circles which would be struck in forcing out Johnson

It is recognized, however, that the commissioner has his temperamental side, and that if things did not go to suit him, he might make it an issue of Johnson's resignation or his own.

The fact that President Williams of the Coast League left for home without waiting for a hearing on the wholesale gambling charges that have been made about his circuit was taken in some quarters as an indication that nothing serious was going to happen at today's meeting.

The trip from the East which the writer made with the baseball officials was vastly different from some similar trips the writer has made. One league was at one end of the train and the other at the other end and the only length between them was ancient memories and some lengths of Pullmans.

The atmosphere was strained. Still, the American Leaguers showed no disposition to leave their quarters to mingle with their brothers of the National and vice versa.

Most of the magnates were tired after the long sessions of the previous week and all were recuperating and storing up energy for the clash at Chicago. They had not expected to make this trip. They had thought everything would be settled last week, and the dread and apprehension of the unknown into which they were journeying oppressed their baseball ardor.

Colonel Ruppert of the Yanks was perhaps the most optimistic baseball man on the train and was inclined to think that everything would be satisfactorily adjusted.

Naturally a man of peaceful character, he deplores all the chatter back and forth between the owners and officials but it is not likely that it will ever end because baseball began with it and despite the fact that suspicion makes some men angry it is presumed to indicate a condition of belligerency which baseball dwells upon in the fighting spirit of the game.

The train crowd included Col. Ruppert, E. G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankee club, Manager Huggins, Wm. F. Baker of the Phillies, John G. McGraw and F. X. McQuade of the Giants, S. W. McKeever of Brooklyn, Judge Mil Fuchs and his manager Bancroft of the Boston Nationals and John Heydler, president of the National League.

FIRPO HAD STORMY TIME IN UNITED STATES

Argentine Fighter Sails for France But Will Return And Try His Luck Here Again.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Dec 17.—Luis Angel Firpo again sails the seas, this time to the eastward.

Having cast off the last tenacle of a legal octopus that caught him at every turn, the South American seeks rest in Europe. Behind him is word that when he comes back to the United States he will reenter the school of Jimmy de Forest, veteran ring master.

Firpo leaves a string of legal misadventures. The Argentine first faced an injunction on the eve of his bout with Bill Brennan. A New York club claimed he had signed a previous agreement. The application was denied. Following his victory over Brennan, Andrew Scott, of Nutley, N. J., filed suit for $3467, alleging Firpo retained him as business manager.

Then Sailor Maxted declared his rights to moving picture percentages had been overlooked to the extent of $50,000. Maxted won an attachment on Firpo's receipts in the bout with Willard.

His meeting with Jack Dempsey, the champion, when he went down eight times and the champion twice, came next, and as he weighed in, Firpo was served with a summons, the nature of which was not learned. Andrew D. McCorkindale of Long Beach, obtained an attachment on the proceeds of the bout, alleging the existence of a contract which called for 25 per cent of Firpo's earnings and demanding $3300 for expenses.

Then Luis clashed with federal officials by becoming an American citizen by courtesy. He said he had taken the action under misapprehension.

He was held up at Key West, Fla., for interrogation as to income statments but New York authorities defended him.

Then Mrs. Minnie Swartzlander of New York was awarded $500 damages against the Argentine in a suit declaring he had ruined her furniture.

After a sojourn in the homeland, Firpo was readmitted to the United States as a "visitor," after being detained at Ellis Island with other members of his party and a Miss Blanca Lourdes, Picart, who said she was a friend of the boxer, but not one of his party. Firpo was allowed to land.

He was arrested at his training camp at Saratoga Springs, where he was preparing for his match with Harry Wills, on a warrant charging perjury in connection with the boxer's statements regarding his relations with Miss Picart.

Again Andrew D. McCorkingdale appeared upon the scene and obtained a $25,000 attachment upon the money which Firpo was to receive and New Jersey ministers and reform organizations went to court in their efforts to prevent the Wills bout. Wills, however, was permitted to battle the South American for 12 rounds.

After the battle the perjury charges were dismissed and a federal grand jury refused to return an indictment against him.

NATIONAL LEAGUE'S FIRST TEAMS. THE HARTFORDS.

In early baseball Hartford always played a prominent part in the sport. The old Charter Oaks, organized in 1874, were one of the most famous of the nation's ball clubs. New England has been foremost in baseball and Connecticut was foremost in New England, if we except the territory immediately adjacent to Boston.

The Hartford team was a member of the National League in its first year and the manager of this team was Robert Ferguson, one of the best-known men in the hostory of the game, and a player of unlimited pluck and courage. His whole career through his baseball life was exemplary.

Other players of this team were famous everywhere. They were Doug Allison, W. A. Cummings, the man who found the curve in the ball; Tommy Bond, one of the National League great pitchers; Ed Mills, the giant first baseman, Jack Burdock, a second baseman whose reputation as a player always will live; Tom Carey, Tom York, who only a little while ago was the gateman at the press gate at the Polo ground and who was one of the best outfielders baseball ever had; J J Remsen, Pete Cassidy, Dick Highan and W. H. Harbridge.

Hartford was in the fight all the way through the first year of National League history and finished third in the race with a percentage of 691 and 47 games won to 21 lost. [illegible] win a championship in almost any year, but the Hartfords that year were playing against the strong Chicagos and the St Louis team, which was much stronger than had been expected when the league was formed.

The head of the club was Morgan G. Bulkeley, who was also the first president of the National League. Bulkeley afterward became the governor of Connecticut and the senator from that state of congress, but he never lost his interest in baseball up to the last year of a prosperous and busy life. He was identified with the great insurance interests of Hartford and a zealous worker among his employees to maintain athletic interest, which he insisted was the best tonic for indoor workers.

It was the flying outfield of the Hartford club that gave a new zest to playing that position in baseball. There had been a tendency to pick big and heavy men for outfielders because it was thought that big men could hit the ball farther than the smaller men, and that the principal aim of the outfielder should be to knock the ball for long hits and not to bother so much about the fielding.

The Hartford outfielders were very proficient in catching long flies, and while they did not bat as hard as some of their rivals it dawned upon the managers of other clubs that the ability of the Hartford outfielders to catch the long hits of, slower-footed chaps on other teams, more than offset any disadvantage that they might have in the distance they batted the ball. That started speed in the outfield.

(In his next article Foster will discuss "The Louisvilles," another of the famous National League teams of the early days.)

Schmidt Has Received No Word as Yet

MODESTO, Dec. 17.—Walter Schmidt, for several years star catcher of the Pittsburgh National League club, when informed here tonight of a despatch from Pittsburgh telling of his unconditional release said that he had not yet been notified of the change.

Schmidt said that he was surprised that Barney Dreyfuss had taken this action, and could not account for it unless he said, the club was cutting off the high salaried players, already having disposed of Maranville, Cooper and Grimm.

Whether Schmidt would retire from the national game he would not say. He said that he had no trouble with any of the players or the manager.

Weather Drives Missouri Team To Work Inside

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 17—A coating of ice an inch and a half thick, under a light dressing of snow, which covered Rollins field here this morning, sounded the deathknell of outdoor practice for the University of Missouri football team for the three days yet remaining before the Tigers turn their faces westward on their journey to Los Angeles, where they will meet the University of Southern California Christmas day.

Following last night's practice Coach Gwinn Henry announced that the cold mist and driving wind had made the workout of practically no value, and that unless condition improved today the squad would move indoors. An all-night rain, which turned to sleet and then to snow was the answer, and this afternoon will find the Missouri squad at work in the college of agriculture's livestock judging building on the campus here.

Blocking, spiking and tackling have been added to the mock scrimmage program during the last few days, Henry apparently deciding that a few days' work at fundamentals would improve the technique of his squad.

Harry Kipke, assistant coach, who was married at Lansing, Mich., last Saturday, will return to Columbia tonight and will join Henry in the last two workouts with the team tomorrow and Friday.

ELECTED CAPTAIN.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—Charles Levy, said to be the best individual athlete at Washington University since the days of Jimmy Conzelman, was elected captain of the 1925 football team yesterday.

Hayward Host To Fight Fans This Evening

Curtain Will Be Rung Down On the Four-Rounders Tonight.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Four-round boxing in Los Angeles will continue during the holidays, following a decision today by District Attorney Asa Keyes, who declared the old law was effective until the new long bout measure went into effect.

Hollywood's club has announced a card for Friday night featuring Ace Hudkins of Nebraska against Dick Hoppe, Los Angeles lightweight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—The new boxing law was held by police to be in effect here today and no more fights will be permitted until after the law becomes operative through the appointment of a boxing commission by the governor.

The Association club's "farewell" program was ordered cancelled. The police ruling was made on the authority of District Attorney Brady.

By BOB SHAND.

Johnny Conde, former local boxer will stage the final act of the four-round game at Hayward tonight when he will offer half a dozen battles. Johnny has done everything in the boxing game. He was a game performer with the gloves not so long ago; before that he swung a towel at the old Wheelmen club; later he became a manager and second and tonight he blossoms forth as a promoter. It will be the last four-round show in Alameda county and many Auditorium customers will attend the last sad rights which will take place at Native Sons' Hall. The talent has been recruited from the country districts, but in honor of the occasions the pasttimers will probably do their stuff pretty. Prominent among the preliminary boys is Joe Azevedo who was one of the three best lightweights in the country ten years ago. Joe has had his ups and downs, mostly downs, since he faded from the picture and it is not likely that he will break into the ten-round game later. His eyes are not what they used to be.

While promoters in other cities are talking about building huge arenas for the box-fighters and signing up eastern talent, Tommy Simpson, local impressario is resting on his oars waiting for the boxing commission to be appointed.

"It will be time enough to talk about cards when we know who is on the commission and what restrictions will be placed on the sport," said Simpson today. "I don't think the governor will have the commission ready for another couple of weeks yet and after that it will be some time before it can get into action. When the O. K. is given to go ahead with the ten-rounders I will be ready."

Simpson enjoys an excellent reputation in eastern boxing circles as well as locally and he will probably get his pick of the top-notchers when he is ready to start.

According to a statement made by Governor Richardson yesterday he is not at all sanguine that the distance bouts will last long. In a Los Angeles interview he is quoted as saying that the law will be repealed at the next election two years hence. The governor says he will appoint a good commission and that the rest is up to the boxing fraternity. It is up to those interested in the game to see that the sport is kept clean, otherwise there will be a reaction. However, with the right commission undesirables will be weeded out. promoters will impress upon managers and fighters that the future of the sport depends on their actions and the newspapers can be depended upon to do their bit in exposing any violation of the law.

American Net Star Is Married Abroad

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Miss Leslie Bancroft, one of the ranking tennis players of this country, and Charles Frederic Aeschliman of Switzerland, who holds several sectional championships in Europe, were married here yesterday. They will live at Cannes.

Dempsey Ready To Marry and Quit Fighting

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, has again announced his willingness to remain away from the prize ring permanently and "marry and settle down."

The scene of the latest announcement was the apartment of Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress whom persistent rumor has it he will wed.

"I'm tired of this inactivity," the Los Angeles Times quotes the champion as saying, "and I've gone into business. I've already signed a contract with Miss Taylor and from now on I will handle all her film engagements."

Referring to frequently published reports that he will again appear in the prize ring to defend his title, Dempsey said:

"There have been a lot of rumors about me fighting Gibbons, Wills and others, but it is nothing but gossip."

So far as he can see, the champion added, there is not a single fight on the horizon for him.

British Amateurs To Invade America

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The amateur boxing association of Great Britain has selected a team of amateur boxers to go to the United States to oppose the best of the American amateur boxers early in 1925.

The British team consists of G. Gogay, Oxford and Bermondsey Boxing club (lightweight), Pat O'Hanrahan, Polytechnic Boxing club (welterweight); Harry Mallin, "E" division, Metropolitan police (middleweight); Reserve J. Elliott, Polytechnic Boxing club (middleweight amateur champion), and H. J. Mitchell, Polytechnic Boxing club (light heavyweight).

Negotiations Closed For New Fight Arena

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Negotiations were closed yesterday for the lease of a tract of land in Compton, south of here, as the site for a $100,000 boxing arena designed to accommodate 20,000 spectators, it was announced last night by Rollin McNitt, attorney for the promoters.

The arena is to be used only occasionally, but for bouts of recognized importance. Operating under the new law permitting 10 and 12-round bouts, the promoters, headed by "Uncle Tom" McCarey, hope to stage fights for world's championships in the new plant.

McCarey was active in prize fight promotion before the law prohibiting professional fighting was passed in California.

Williams Remains Firm on Gambling

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—A second statement on "the gambling charges" since his return from the east last night was issued here today by Harry A. Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league. He again reviewed what he had done in the east to develop a formal investigation of the charge by Ban Johnson, president of the American league, that there was gambling in Coast league parks, and concluded:

"It is now up to him to prove them, or by failing to do so, admit that he was merely talking."

Rockne Giving Full Attention To Rudiments

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 17—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, was confined to his home today with a severe cold and it was doubtful whether he would be able on Friday to supervise the team's workouts in preparation for the New Year's game with Stanford.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. Dec. 17.—In preparing Notre Dame for its football battle with Stanford University at Pasadena New Year's Day, Coach Knute Rockne is apparently working on the theory that if his team is to add the Californians to its list of gridiron victims its victory will be due to superiority of fundamentals of the game as much as to the use of any array of trick plays.

In yesterday's practice as in all others, preparation for the contest Rockne laid stress on blocking, charging, kicking and other elementary points, although rehearsal of the team's repertoire of plays was not overlooked

No regular scrimmage has been held, partly on account of the fact that the squad is not in the best of physical shape, dummy scrimmage being substituted.

There is expected to be plenty of the deceptive type of modern football on display at Pasadena, however, as both Rockne and Coach Pop Warner of Stanford are noted for their knack of springing the unusual.

Rockne is drilling his charges to prepare for some surprises from the westerners and is depending on his field general Quarterback Stuhldreher, to fathom the Stanford attack as it develops.

PALO ALTO, Dec. 17—Ernie Nevers, the star Stanford fullback, who has been kept off the football field by injuries most of the season, expects to play against Notre Dame at Pasadena New Year's Day, he has told friends.

But the big line plunger still limps a little, and it is considered quite likely that Hey and Bogue will play a large part of the game. Those alternate fullbacks have borne the brunt of the work this season.

It is possible that Coach Warner will shift Bogue to one of the halfback positions, with Hey ready to step in at fullback if Nevers is in distress. Bogue weighs 185 and is fast.

Cuddeback, however, the halfback who made two field goals and a touchdown in the 20-to-20 tie game against California, is slated to do the diversified work of the backfield. He can pass almost as accurately as he can kick. He runs the ends and is a flash on defense.

Jim Jeffries to Return as Referee

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—James J. Jeffries will return to the ring as referee when the new state boxing law, permitting 10 and 12-round bouts becomes effective, it was announced here today.

GREEK LOAN AT PREMIUM WHEN TRADING STARTS

New U. S. 4s Also Sell Above Par: Speculative Railway Bonds Irregular.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.
SPECIAL BY WIRE
TO THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Strength predominated in today's bond market. The feature was the new Greek 7s offered today at 88. They went to a premium as soon as trading in them was begun and the opening price was 89½. The next sale was 89¾, from which point there was a reaction on profit taking.

The success of the Greek loan again stimulated buying in the Hungarian 7½s, and these gained upward of a point from yesterday's price. Jugo Slav 8s at 88 were a point above the previous close.

Speculative rails were irregular. St. Paul 4s of 1925 improved fractionally, but the other St. Paul bonds were heavy, particularly the long term 5s. Erie General 5s were strong. International Great Northern adjustments were steady. C. & O. convertible 5s went above 106 again, keeping pace with the stock.

Maxwell Motor 7s fluctuated over a wide range, running up to 111½ and then dropping 2 points. Large blocks of United States Rubber 5s were taken at a fractional advance. This issue so far has failed to reflect the improved outlook for the corporation. Today's price was more than 2 points below the high of the year.

Liberty bonds were a shade lower, but the Treasury 4¼s were firm and the new Treasury 4s continued to sell at a premium.

Ticker and Tape

Dealers delivered 34,388 General Motors cars and trucks to ultimate users in November, compared with 47,005 in the same month last year and 46,003 in October this year. Deliveries in the eleven months of 1924 decreased 10 per cent.

The Southern Pacific Company, through a subsidiary, has made application to state authorities in Texas to drill oil wells along its right of way through the new Wortham oil field. The railroad, it is understood, could utilize the output from these wells on its oil-burning locomotives.

The Premier Gold Mining Company, controlled by the Guggenheim interests, has declared an extra dividend of 2 cents on its common shares in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 8 cents. The total disbursement aggregates $500,000.

Three New York financial institutions declared extra dividends today. Title Guaranty and Trust Company authorized an extra dividend of 8 per cent, half of which will be paid January 2 and the balance March 31. The Central Union Trust Company declared an extra of 4 per cent and the Empire Trust Company an extra of 3 per cent.

The International Utilities Corporation has acquired control of the Buffalo and Erie railroad, which operates a line between Buffalo and Erie, Pa., as well as other smaller lines. The International Corporation recently acquired the Kentucky Securities Corporation and Southern Utilities Corporation.

The American Brass Company has advanced prices of sheet brass, sheet copper, seamless brass tubes and bare copper wire a quarter of a cent a pound. A similar increase was announced a few days ago.

Copper production of North and South America in November showed no important changes, a decline of about 5000 tons under October being attributed to a day less in November and fluctuations in ordinary plant operations.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Savage Arms and Worthington Pump, which have scored extreme gains of 50 to 90 points from their low levels of the year, despite the fact that none of them yet in the dividend paying list, all are being bid to new high prices again largely at the expense of an overcrowded short interest.

Persistent buying of American Woolen, carrying the stock to a new top for the current movement, bore out the recent statement that the recent increase in the company's business and that the possibilities of special dividends were making them felt in the market for Woolen shares. [illegible] has been due to the short covering.

Further rumors of a large electrical [illegible] involving the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company set off the fireworks in the company's stock. The stock ran up briskly to highest prices of the year. The street had been hearing stories that the General Electric Company would buy Allis-Chalmers and perhaps Worthington Pump would figure in the deal.

Bondholders and preferred stockholders of the Hydraulic Steel Company of Cleveland, now in receivership, are understood to [illegible] reorganization under the management of several manufacturers of railroad supplies in the Chicago district. [illegible] operating under the [illegible] company [illegible] for the year ended October 31.

Additional gold [illegible] 000,000 to India [illegible] transactions [illegible] Farmers Loan and Trust Company and $1,000,000 by the Yokohama Specie Bank of New York, brought total gold exports since the first of the month to approximately $25,000,000.

Public offering of $150,000 shares of the Utilities Power & Light Corporation class "A" stock at $25 a share will be made tomorrow morning by a banking syndicate headed by Pynchon and Company in New York. The company operates the public utility properties in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and New Jersey, two of its largest subsidiaries being Interstate Power Company and the Eastern New Jersey Power Company.

Net profit of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company for the year ended October 31 was $8,116,689, equal after preferred dividends and federal taxes to $17 a share on the common stock. This compared with $6,104,922, or more than $13 a share in the previous year. Sales in the United States aggregated $85,616,000 against $77,583,149 the year before.

The Missouri Pacific's program of keeping equipment and service on a parity with its increasing volume of business, is reflected in purchases of 100 modern locomotives since September 1, and 6000 freight cars since July 1. Recent orders aggregated $9,000,000 for delivery between April and August 1. The road soon will buy 10 all-steel passenger cars and 1000 fifty-ton coal cars.

Barnsdall Corporation has completed its Howard Park No. 3 well in the Rosecrans field, California, flowing 645 barrels. This tract covers 200 acres and is owned by the Barnsdall Corporation with Union Oil Company.

Doheny Loans Mexico 6 Million Pesos

(Special Cable to The TRIBUNE and Chicago Daily News.)

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 17.—The much discussed loan by the local Huasteca Petroleum Company, one of the Doheny concerns, to be applied on oil tax imposed by the Mexican government which at first was reported would be $5,000,000, and later would be $10,000,000, by newspapers here, has finally been boiled down to six million pesos, a check for the amount being handed to Albert J. Pani, minister of finance, yesterday afternoon. In the evening the following bulletin was issued from the ministry of finance:

"This afternoon an agreement was signed under which the Huasteca Petroleum Company has advanced to the federal government the sum [illegible] taxes payable on the petroleum production by the company. The minister of finance has received through H. N. Branch, a representative of the petroleum company in question, a sight draft on New York for the sum mentioned, the loan being repayable monthly of 500,000 pesos plus interest at 6 per cent."

Last year at about the same time, Doheny advanced this government 10,000,000 pesos, also being repayable from the oil production taxes. The loan was wiped out only a month ago.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

By H. S. SCOTT.

Dividend disbursements by the railroads of the country during 1924, it is estimated, have been increased by approximately $6,000,000 to a total of $303,000,000. Constructive developments along this line were taken by a half dozen or more carriers this year, although their full effects will not be felt until 1925.

Inauguration of dividends on the preferred stock of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad company at the rate of five per cent yesterday added that road to the growing list of companies which have authorized extra, initial or increased payments.

One of the most important developments of the past year was the action of the Southern Railway company in placing its common stock on a five per cent annual dividend basis last March, when the initial quarterly payment of $1.25 a share was voted, widespread interest was created by the inauguration of dividends for which the common stockholders had waited 26 years.

One railroad—the St. Louis and San Francisco—inaugurated dividends on both its preferred and common stock during the year. After placing the preferred shares on a six per cent basis the directors declared an initial payment at the annual rate of five per cent on the common and also indicated their confidence in the future by voting the full year's preferred dividends for 1925.

In railroad circles it is agreed that year will see a more general disposition on the part of the carriers to share their prosperity with stockholders. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, which has maintained a conservative dividend policy for many years, is reported ready to increase its regular common dividend or to make an attractive offering of stock to present shareholders. Southern Pacific is prominently mentioned as another road likely to take favorable dividend action along with Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific and Wabash in the western group. Completion of the Van Sweringens' projected "Nickel Plate" merger will result in larger returns for many stockholders, especially those of the Erie, who have never received dividends. Continuation of the record-breaking traffic and favorable earnings of the last few months, it is believed, would result in placing many other roads on a more substantial dividend footing.

On the reported authority of Secretary R. H. O'Hea of the Paraffine Companies, Inc., a San Francisco morning newspaper says there has been no discussion by Paraffine directors of increasing the dividend from $4 to $7 on common or declaring an extra dividend. The common, which has no par value, has been on a 4 per cent basis for over two years. The paper continues: "From another source we have been informed that there is some possibility of a $6 basis being established for this stock."

Discussing the prospects of Pan-American Oil, Daw Jones and Company says:

"Prospect of an increased dividend on Pan-American, as expressed by certain directors, is made brighter by improvement in earnings. Net earnings in November are estimated in excess of $3,000,000, which is at rate of more than $12 a share a year on 2,578,000 shares "A" and "B" stocks outstanding, including 200,000 shares "B" stocks outstanding, including 200,000 shares "B" recently listed on the exchange.

"Probability of these earnings is based on record fuel oil business, which company will do at high prices. It has contracted to sell between 7,000,000 and 10,000,000 barrels fuel oil for 1925 delivery.

"Earnings as heretofore will come largely from its operations in Mexico. Last few days additional wells have been completed in company's heavy oil district in Mexico, bringing its production to 110,000 barrels heavy oil a day.

"Including its light oil output of about 70,000 barrels a day, Pan-American has production of 180,000 a day at present in Mexico. It has about 20,000 a day in California, or a total of 250,000 a day, making it the world's largest producer.

"Cash holders of company are being steadily increased, and it is advancing between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 to Mexican government as prepayment of taxes. This transaction has advantages politically and from banking viewpoint."

F. W. Woolworth company has wiped out its bank borrowings, paying off about $6,500,000 short-term obligations. The company also made its final 1924 tax payment of about $700,000. A large part of the loans was paid prior to maturity, two weeks ahead of the usual time. Cash on hand at the end of the year is expected to be [illegible] larger than the $6,200,000 reported at the close of 1923. Gross business in the [illegible] aggregate more than $200,000,000, of which about $35,000,000 is estimated for December.

New York bank clearings on Monday established a new high record at this center, the turnover of checks aggregating $1,615,000,000 in contrast to the previous high figure of $1,443,000,000 on July 1. Week-end stock exchange transactions swelled the total.

The output of virtually every metal from the plants of the American Smelting and Refining Com[illegible] over the previous year, it is said. Earnings are estimated at around $11 a share on the common stock after bond interest, depreciation, depletion, federal taxes, capital write-off and all other charges. The larger volume of business for the year is expected to show cash and call money, together with government bonds, amounting to approximately $25,000,000 on December 31.

Central Railroad of New Jersey, adding 21 points to its 19-point gain of Monday by touching 255 yesterday in Wall Street. Considerable mystery surrounds the buying of this stock, rumors that the control of the road is being sought by the Baltimore and Ohio gaining widespread circulation.

This year's harvest of important farm crops, the highest priced in five years though not the greatest in volume of products, was valued at $9,479,962,000 today by the department of agriculture.

Better prices than last year placed the value $753,013,000 higher than last year when the total, as revised, was $8,726,889,000 and $1,663,882,000 higher than 1922 when they aggregated $7,816,020,000.

The combined acreage of the principal farm crops was smaller this year than last, there having been a total of 355,210,400 acres as compared with 355,594,730 in 1923.

Both the spring and winter wheat crops were extremely satisfactory, but corn had an unfavorable season. Cotton, planted late, was affected by drought to some extent, but a fair crop was produced. A large crop of potatoes on a smaller acreage than in recent years resulted from unusually favorable weather.

Corn maintained its rank as king of crops and although production was 600,000,000 less than last year, its value was $188,000,000 more than the 1923 crop. The total value of corn was placed at $2,495,405,000. Cotton ranked second with a total value of $1,683,274,000, of which $1,487,225,000 was the value of lint and $196,049,000 the value of seed.

Hay, with a total value for tame and wild of $1,467,648,000, was third crop in point of income. Wheat ranked fourth with a total value for spring and winter of $1,136,596,000.

Aggregate Earnings Show Slight Drop

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Aggregate earnings of employees in manufacturing industries in the United States decreased 1.3 per cent in November from the previous month, resulting in a decrease in per capita earnings of 1.2 per cent.

Employment in the industries, according to statistics made public by the labor department today, remained practically unchanged with a decrease of only one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The figures are based on returns from 8557 establishments in 52 industries covering $2,553,132 employees whose total earnings in one week in November was $65,412,931.

Capacity Output Ahead for Lumber

VIRGINIA, Minn., Dec. 17.—Capacity business for the coming year is forecast by executives of the Virginia and Rainy Lake Lumber Co., who have just reopened their largest mill here. Thomas Whitten, general manager, declared the biggest year in the lumbering industry might be had in 1925. Fifteen logging camps are now being operated by the company in northern woods and over 3000 men employed.

TEXTILES.

LAWRANCE, Mass., Dec. 17.—The Everett Mills are expanding operations from a three to a five day week schedule, coincident with the reduction of wages ten per cent.

MERGER REPORTS BOOSTS RISE IN RAILWAY SHARES

SPECIAL BY WIRE
TO THE TRIBUNE

The idea was that as the result of the administration's program for railway consolidations, there would eventually emerge four railroads in the eastern section of this country. There would be Pennsylvania, B. and O., New York Central and Nickel Plate. All the roads in this territory would be known eventually by one or another of the major units. The railway officials came out promptly with denials but the street refused to accept them. Their contention was that if such huge amalgamations were under way they would be kept very quiet in banking quarters. Official denials would be technically correct because the details had not been worked out and therefore might be considered as still hanging fire. But the financial district preferred to believe the evidence of the stock tape. There was a big rise in Lehigh Valley which belongs in prospect to the New York Central group. There was big buying of Reading, which belongs to the B. and O. group. Everybody is after the Central Railroad of New Jersey but it is not clear how this road will eventually be disposed of. Wheeling and Lake Erie shares and the Western Marylands had an unusual day, because these roads are regarded as almost sure to wind up in one or another of the larger systems.

In connection with the advance of Jersey Central, B. and O. and Reading today, there was talk that B. and O. was buying Reading of N. Y. Central in the open market. The street figured that Baltimore and Ohio would have enough [illegible] holdings in Jersey Central for much of the buying of B. and O. stock.

Among the specialties, Continental Can was a feature reaching a new high above 67. The buying of Philadelphia and Reading Coal carrying it across 49, had a sentimental connection merely within the strength of the coal shares. American Waterworks struck 49 for the first time. There was another sensational jump in commercial solvents B. Stewart Warner went up over 2 points.

ON THE CURB.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Public utilities and coal stocks assumed leadership in the upward movement on the curb exchange today. The heavy demand for public utilities which resulted in advances from 1 to 6 points was based on belief that in view of the rise in the general list, these stocks were selling out of line.

Lehigh Power stood out strongly, getting to 96 as against 90 the previous close. Tennessee Elec. Power continued to attract attention, while American Power & Light new was bid up to a fresh top around 62. The new Utilities Power & Light shares admitted and immediately commanded a premium of a point. Later the advance was doubled. The active buying of the coal shares was in response to the improvement in the industry. D. L. & W. was a feature, advancing 5 points to 132. The opinion was expressed that the directors would do something more for stockholders, probably an extra distribution in stocks.

The motor stocks went along under the lead of Ford Motor of Canada, which was 11 points higher at one time.

AUTOMOBILES.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 17.—The local plant of the Durant Motor Company is now operating on a 40 hour a week schedule, which calls for the production of 2500 cars a month. It may be necessary to increase working forces to accomplish this output.

PRICE OF TURKEY FIRM AS XMAS TRADE DEVELOPS

Buyers Throughout the State Find Growers Sitting Tight for Brisk Demand.

Feelers for the Christmas turkey market, thrown out today, indicated that prices would be at least as high as Thanksgiving and possibly higher. Reports from the country were that growers were holding out for all the market would bring. Buyers from Los Angeles have been busy the past week in the northern section of the Sacramento valley and f. o. b. prices have stiffened materially over a week ago. With shipments from east of the Rocky Mountains likely to be limited because of increased demand due to embargo on chickens from seven western states along the New York seaboard, the California bird may bring much higher prices than market indications of present presage, say wholesalers.

"At present, the market is very unsettled. With the light receipts of turkeys since Thanksgiving most of the held over stock has been sold and very little is left in storage," said G. O. Harbaugh of Harbaugh & company. "Unless there are very light receipts this stock will not be on the market, but will remain in storage for future use.

MARKET ADVANCING.

"With the light receipts, the market is steadily advancing, selling on the wholesale market from 36c to 40c for good birds in case lots. With normal receipts the consumer will have to pay Thanksgiving prices or better. With light receipts, the price will advance as the consumption of turkeys for Christmas is approximately 20 per cent more than at Thanksgiving.

"With the New York and Chicago market firm, we look for advance here as the eastern markets will no doubt take Texas, Idaho and Oklahoma turkeys which otherwise would be thrown on this market, cheapening the local turkey."

TEACHERS FAVOR AMENDMENT TO CHILD LABOR ACT

Resolutions Urge Change in Law on California Textbooks.

stated the association would use every endeavor to bring about the successful enactment of this measure proposed by the National Education association.

Another important resolution concerned the school law of the state of California which provides for the teaching of 27 statutory school subjects. This resolution is as follows:

"It has been the tendency of each legislative session to increase this number of statutory subjects, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the bay session of the California State Teachers association earnestly petition the state legislature to repeal this section of our school law and to rewrite it by directing the teachers of the State of California to obtain certain objectives, allowing the teachers the privilege of working out the details whereby these objectives may be obtained. We humbly suggest the following objective: Health, command of the fundamental processes, citizenship, worthy home membership, correct use of leisure time, and character."

Other resolutions adopted were that the governor of the state be petitioned to provide financial support for the teacher training institution so that they might properly fulfill their functions, that the bay section of the association reaffirms its beliefs, respect and affection for its state leader, Will C. Wood, and its fellow workers in the state department.

Frank W. Allen, lecturer, spoke on "Turning Fear Into Faith" at the close of today's session and business meeting which was held in the Exposition Auditorium.

People Are Misled On Music, Says Lehman

"We have ceased to be a musical people, we have been misled and have been made to think that anything is music," declared Dr. B. H. Lehman of the University of California in an address before the music section of the Teachers' Institute at the Oakland Auditorium theater yesterday afternoon.

Describing the difference between music in Europe and America, Lehman declared that it is instinctive for Europeans to sing, while in this country it isn't considered "good form."

"One of the reasons Americans have not developed musically," Lehman declared, "is because interest is taken in music as an opportunity for social organization, not because of the music itself."

Victor Lichtenstein, of San Francisco, spoke on "Music as a Spiritual Force in Education."

The Berkeley high school orchestra, under the direction of Earl Morton, and the Girls' Glee Club of Technical high school furnished several musical numbers. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Glen H. Woods, and C. A. Harwell of Berkeley gave several whistling solos.

Widow Starts Fight For $150,000 Estate

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—Planning a fight for a portion of her late husband's $150,000 estate, Mrs. Mildred T. Hudson of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Fresno, is on her way here today from Los Angeles. She is the widow of James H. Hudson, who died in Berkeley December 9 from pneumonia.

"Hudson and I had been separated for six months," the pretty young widow said. "We were the best of friends, however, and we frequently dined together."

NARCOTIC THIEF ASKS COURT AID TO FIGHT HABIT

Spread of Evil Is Told by Youth Who Admits He Stole Dope.

"You'd be surprised at the number of young men today who are taking up the narcotic habit," declared F. W. Hall, 20, a former shipyard worker of San Francisco who appeared in Judge Edward J. Tyrrel's court this morning to answer to a charge of having stolen narcotics from a drugstore at 458 Twelfth street.

Hall, who was arrested Monday on charges preferred by J. A. Bently, inspector for the state board of pharmacy, pleaded guilty and asked the court that he be sent to some institution where he could be cured of the narcotic habit.

Acting on the advice of Judge Tyrrel, Mrs. Nellie Hall, 3883 Piedmont avenue, refused her son's plea to furnish bail for him.

Hall declared that about five months ago he contracted what he thought was lead poisoning. A friend he said, told him of a remedy, which turned out to be dope.

Part of the dope stolen, according to Hall, were sold for $14 75, the rest given away to friends.

The boy, who was graduated from night school while working in a shipyard, declared that he could take anyone into the Mission district in San Francisco ad within a space of four blocks point out seventy-five young men who were kown to be addicts.

Judge Tyrrel and Mrs. Hall are trying to arrange to have young Hall sent to a state institution for a cure. Hall will appear for sentence December 19.

DANCING RIVALS BEGIN AT CHURCH FINISH IN CELL

BERKELEY, Dec. 17. — A buck and wing dance competition started at a Christmas party last night at the Mount Pleasant Baptist church ended at the police station.

Cleveland Pittman and Goodloe Jones competed at the church party for the honor of being the best negro dancer in Berkeley. Their contest grew so heated and their steps so prolonged that other phases of the church program were completely ignored.

When the appeal of Rev. W. M. Dixon, pastor of the church, failed to stop the contest he called the police for assistance. Both dancers were taken to police station, where they continued to dance in adjoining cells

Alameda Police and Firemen Seek Raise

ALAMEDA, Dec. 17.—Police and firemen of Alameda today have petitions before the city council for permission to place before the voters at the election of March 10, 1925, an amendment to the city charter increasing the salaries of members of both departments.

Under the proposed amendment the following schedule of salaries would become effective: Police and fire department chiefs, $3600 a year; police lieutenant and assistant fire chiefs, $2700 a year; detective sergeant, $2640; fire captain $2400; police sergeant, $2400; chief operator of the fire department, $2200; firemen and patrolmen from $1920 to $2100, according to length of service.

The council adopted a new schedule of firemen's and policemen's pensions, providing for the retirement of those who reach the age of 60 years and have had twenty years or more of service, and the payment of half their salaries to department members while sick or suffering from injuries received in pursuit of duty.

Auto Fatalities in State on Decline

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 17.—A decline of 5 per cent in automobile fatalities in California this year as compared with last is predicted by L. E. Ross, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, in a statement today of the auto death toll based on the past ten months.

Deaths from automobile accidents for 1924, said Ross, will approximate 1340 as against 1413 last year. A total of 1115 persons lost their lives in automobile accidents during the first ten months of the year, Ross said.

BUILDINGS CALLED MENACE.

The city board of condemnation on Friday will hold hearings concerning three buildings which the fire department contends are [illegible] barn at 630 Sixteenth; one story dwelling at 541 Eighteenth; and one story barn at 1424 Grove.

High School Text Books Revision Urged By Wood

Urging the revision of high school text books and the elimination of foreign classics to be supplanted by literature of American authors as an aid to the foundation of better citizenship, Will C. Wood, State superintendent of schools, yesterday addressed the high school session of the bay section of the California Teachers' Association at the University high school.

Wood declared that the present text book deals too greatly with the life of Europe, and contains the writings of European authors to the exclusion of American writers.

"A misconception of European superiority, even by Americans themselves, is responsible for the present condition of spiritual America," Wood declared.

R. A. Nyman, chairman of the committee of teachers' retirement, advocated an increase of the teachers' pension from $500 to $1000 annually in a report.

Advocation that the methods of study in junior and senior high schools be divorced from the dictation of the universities was made by William J. Cooper, superintendent of schools of Fresno. Cooper stressed the importance of the junior high school in the present educational system.

A plan outlined by Cooper, whereby the course of study in the junior high schools should be rearranged to suit the needs and interests of the children, received full endorsement of the assembled high school teachers.

Chosen Queen

MISS NATALIA KOLL, who will reign over the Christmas festival Saturday night to be given by the Allendale Businessmen's Association.

ALLENDALE FETE RULER ELECTED

Defeating a field of four other candidates, Miss Natalia Koll has been elected queen to preside at the Christmas Festival to be given Saturday night, December 20, by members of the Allendale Businessmen's Association. Other entrants were Marie Abbott, Mabel Larn, Dolores Putmann and May Dewhurst.

A feature of the festival will be a Christmas tree from which presents will be distributed to the children.

HOUSE PROBE IN NAVAL AFFAIRS IS SIDETRACKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—As a result of President Coolidge's opposition to naval investigations in congress, the house naval affairs committee today voted indefinite postponement of a proposed inquiry to determine the efficiency and adequacy of the United States navy.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur will be invited to appear before the committee December 31 to explain some details of his statement to the house appropriations committee on construction needs, but he will not be asked to give his views on the present condition of the navy.

'PELICAN' STAFF MEMBERS ELOPE

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—News of a "quiet" wedding at Martinez on Monday became known today on the University of California campus when Rebecca Thacher of San Diego and Reginald S. Clampett of San Francisco, both members of the "Pelican" staff, appeared to accept congratulations from college friends.

Clampett, the son of Rev. F. W. Clampett, San Francisco clergyman, explained that he and Miss Thacher had been engaged for some time and that relatives and close friends knew of the impending marriage. Miss Thacher is the daughter of Rev. Philip Thacher, retired Unitarian minister of San Diego. She is a member of the Theta Upsilon sorority and Clampett of the Psi Upsilon fraternity.

LIZZIE, GAY DOG OF BURLINGAME, GETS BARK OKEH

BURLINGAME, Dec. 17.—Lizzie, one of the gayest young dogs of the local sporting set, can go ahead and bark all she wants to. A complaint charging her bark was a nuisance and asking that she be suppressed has been withdrawn. She is employed as night watchman at a local jewelry store.

Pittsburg Civic Body Names Heads

Man Keeps Pledge One Year; Arrested

BERKELEY, Dec. 17. — Just one year to a day from the time he signed the pledge to do no more bootlegging, Charles Eksstrom, 72, of 1645 Fairview street, was taken into the police station today. He admitted selling liquor. A year ago he was released because of his age. His case will come up before Judge Edgar Monday.

Moro Outlaws Kill Chinese, Rob Store

MANILA, Dec. 17.—A band of Moro outlaws today raided a Chinese store near Zamboanga, killing five Chinese, according to a telegram received here today from the constabulary there.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Dismissal of the suit brought by two Californians, George F. Guy and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Guy, in the California community property tax case, was asked by the government today in a brief filed with the district supreme court.

The government brief denied the right of the court to grant a mandamus, asked by the plaintiffs, on the ground that the right to recover taxes paid cannot be decided in mandamus proceedings.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair, the officials sued, also denied they were the proper officials to be sued.

DISEUSE HEARD BY LARGE CROWD

By ROY HARRISON DANFORTH

Lydia Ferguson, member of the ever increasing group of "diseuses," looked and sang her way to the appreciation of a considerable audience in the Hotel Oakland yesterday afternoon at the concluding Alice Seckles matinee of the series. Miss Ferguson appeared in several changes in costume, which gave an even more authoritative cast to her singing of Continental folk songs.

These were included in three groups, one of old French, one of songs of the Brittany people and a third of Czecho-Slovakian numbers. In an intervening group Miss Ferguson appeared in more nearly normal concert attire and offered several songs in English.

In addition to a most pleasing appearance and manner, the singer has a good vocal equipment, knows the value of clear and accurate diction and uses musical intelligence of a fine order in the delivery of her songs.

ORDINANCE NO. —— N. S.

SECTION 1. WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Oakland, did on the 13th day of November A. D. 1924 pass its Resolution of Intention No. 30915 N. S. to order the closing up and abandoning of the following described portion of Outlook Avenue, to-wit: Commencing at the most southern corner of Lot 32 in Block E, as said Lot 32 and Block E are delineated and so designated on that certain map entitled, "Map of Bay View Tract Brooklyn Township Alameda Co. Cal." etc., filed May 14, 1906 in Book 21 of Maps, page 23 in the office of the Recorder of Alameda County, California; and running thence along the Southwestern line of said Block E, said line being also the Northeastern line of Outlook Avenue, as shown on the aforesaid map, North 53° 06' West, 841.62 feet (the bearing of said line of Block E and Outlook Avenue being taken as North 53° 06' West for the purpose of making this description) to the Northwestern line of said Bay View Tract, the said Northwestern line being also the Southeastern line of "Chevrolet Park" hereinafter mentioned; thence along the Southwestern line of Block 20, as said Block 20 is delineated and so designated on that certain map entitled, "Chevrolet Park Oakland, Alameda Co., California," etc. filed April 12, 1916 in Book 14 of Maps, page 28, in the office of the Recorder of Alameda County, California, said line of Block 20 being also the Northeastern line of Outlook Avenue as shown on said map of "Chevrolet Park," North 53° 06' West, 14.51 feet, (the bearing of said line of Block 20 and Outlook Avenue in "Chevrolet Park" being taken as North 53° 06' West for the purpose of making this description); thence Northwesterly along the arc of a curve to the right, tangent to last said course, the radius of said curve being 170.50 feet, a distance on said arc of 40.13 feet to a point on said line of Block 20 distant Southeasterly, measured along said line, 2.16 feet from the line dividing Lots 53 and 54, as shown on said map of "Chevrolet Park"; thence Southeasterly leaving last said line

Women's Store to Be Strictly Male As Men Buy Gifts

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 17. — A department store, which caters exclusively to women, will open tonight "to men only." Men clerks will be behind the counters, the proprietor announces, and no women will be permitted in the store. The theory under which the proprietor is proceeding is that men, who seek to purchase Christmas gifts for women, are embarrassed when obliged to shop among women.

PALO ALTAN GETS CHEMISTRY PRIZE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The Nicholas medal, awarded annually by the New York section of the American Chemical Society, goes for 1925 to Dr. Edward Curtis Franklin, professor of organic chemistry in Leland Stanford University, California, it was announced today.

DR. E. C. FRANKLIN

The medal is bestowed "for the research published during the current year, which, in the opinion of the jury, is most original and stimulative to further research."

It was established by Dr. William Nicholas, the aim of the donar was to stimulate original research in chemistry.

Dr. Franklin last year was president of the Chemical Society, being succeeded by Dr. Lee Hendrick Baekland of New York. He was born in Geary City, Kansas, in 1862, receiving the degree of B. S. from the University of Kansas in 1888, and an M. S. in 1890.

WHEREAS, said resolution described the work or improvement and the land deemed necessary to be taken therefor, specified the exterior boundaries of the district of land to be affected or benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the damages, costs and expenses thereof, and designated the Oakland Tribune, a daily newspaper published and circulated in said City of Oakland, as the daily newspaper in which the notice hereinafter referred to was to be published by the Superintendent of Streets of said City of Oakland; and

WHEREAS, said Superintendent of Streets did then, to-wit, on the 15th day of November, A. D., 1924 cause to be conspicuously posted along the line of said contemplated work or improvement, at not more than 300 feet in distance apart, but not less than three in all, notices of the passage of said Resolution No. 30915 N. S., which said notices were in the form and set forth all the matters and things required by law to be therein set forth; and

WHEREAS, said Superintendent of Streets caused a notice similar in substance to be published for a period of ten days in said Oakland Tribune; and

WHEREAS, more than ten days have elapsed since the expiration of the time of the publication of said notice, as aforesaid, and no objection whatever to said proposed work or improvement or to the extent of the district of land to be affected or benefited by the work or improvement have been filed with or delivered to the Clerk of said City Council, or made to or received by said City Council; and

WHEREAS, the public interest and convenience require that all that portion of Outlook Avenue hereinbefore described be closed up and abandoned; and

WHEREAS, said proposed work is for closing up and abandoning, and it appears that no assessment is necessary; and

WHEREAS, no parcel of the hereinbefore described portion of Outlook Avenue hereby ordered to be closed up and abandoned was acquired by the City of Oakland, or by the public, by deed from any person or persons whatever, or in any manner other than by the filing and recording of a map;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Oakland, that all that portion of Outlook Avenue hereinbefore described is hereby ordered closed up and abandoned.

SPEND THE HOLIDAYS IN YOUR OWN HOME

We realtors are very busy men. We have endeavored for the past six weeks to give some of Oakland's prosperous tenants a worth-while hunch, that now, this winter, is the best time to get that home, for a number of reasons:

1. Oakland's population is growing but her ground space isn't, so her front foot values are.

2. If you see your new home in the mud and gloom of the winter and, nevertheless, like it, you will like it immensely in the sunshine and bloom of the summer months.

3. "No one is interested in buying property just before Christmas—all too busy buying Christmas presents, etc., etc.—" which means that the present owner does not hope to sell now and will fall on your neck if you offer him a little less than he can confidently expect next spring.

4. Prices will be higher next Spring, not merely from natural financial considerations, but from the illogical fact that humans, like birds, get the "own your own home" idea between February 15th and June 15th (we know, we are in the real estate business) the demand governs price so the seller will ask, and get, more.

Please don't take exception to our unconventional "man-in-the-streets" mode of expression, we are talking to you straight from the shoulder and much more for your good than for our own—though, of course, we get our commissions and, believe us, we earn them. Any of us whose advertising surrounds this little speech will be very glad to help you. See any of us or all of us until you find what you want.

And a merry Christmas to you --- in your own home!

Comparison Is Convincing

Our reputation for square dealing is your safeguard. We have about 100 good used cars, almost any make or model you would like.

Freighter Hans Hemsoth Is Loading 1,500,000 Feet Lumber for So. Africa.

A large quantity of building steel and building hardware found its way into Oakland yesterday when the freighter A. L. Kent of the Munson McCormick line made its first visit into the Oakland estuary to the Lawrence Terminal. The vessel's cargo was of a varied character.

The German freighter Hans Hemsoth is at the Southern Pacific wharf loading one of the largest shipments of lumber to leave Oakland in several months. The vessel is taking more than a million and a half feet of timber aboard for delivery to South African ports. The freighters will get away from the inner harbor tomorrow.

Several lumber carriers made the port yesterday from the north and put their cargoes ashore. The Pasadena from Albion, had 50,000 feet of redwood. Eighty thousand feet were discharged from the Catherine Donovan at the Southern Pacific wharf. The steam schooner Santa Monica also put ashore 5000 feet at that wharf.

Walter Scammel has severed connections with the the Moore Drydock a[illegible] Shipbuilding Company.

Shale Land Placed As Naval Reserve

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—Segregation of 23,000 acres in Colorado as naval oil shale reserve Number 3, and addition of nearly 5000 acres in Utah, to naval oil shale reserve Number 2, were among interior department land orders today. The geological survey reported during November 1,[illegible] acres of public land withdrawn for water power purposes in Arizona and New Mexico; about 50,000 acres in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah were designated as non-irrigable, and made subject to entry as homesteads of 320 acres or less and slightly more than 100,000 acres in Colorado, Montana, Nebraska and North Dakota were classified under stock raising homestead laws and designated for entry in tracts of 620 acres or less.

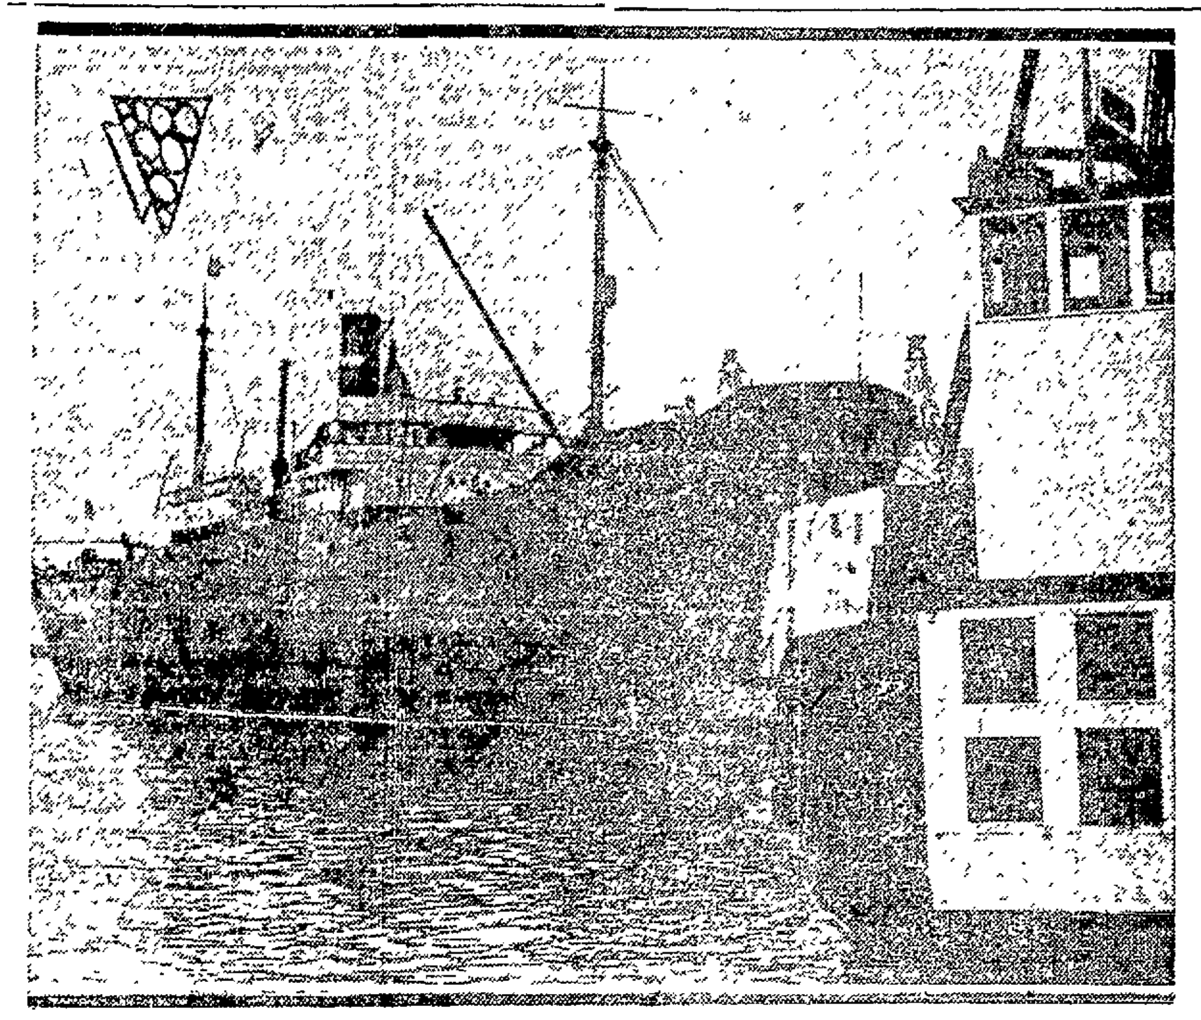
Makes First Visit to Estuary

The freighter A. L. KENT of the Munson-McCormick line made its first visit to hte estuary yesterday when it arrived with a shipment of miscellaneous freight. This is the third vessel of the service to arrive here on the new regular schedule.



New Vessel Will Put $3,000,000 In S. F. Yearly

New Matson Craft Will Expend Two Million in Paying Crew Wages.

Approximately $3,000,000 a year will be added to the incomes of San Francisco's business, commercial, hotel and mercantile industries by the new Matson express liner, plans and specifications for which were approved yesterday by the U. S. shipping board, according to Associated Press despatches. These were confirmed later by private advices to the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. and the Matson Navigation Co.

According to the statistical department of the Matson line, the new ship will mean an expenditure of $2,000,000 a year in San Francisco alone for wages. There will be a crew of 268 officers and men, fuel oil, equipment and maintenance will also figure largely. The ship will add more than 15,000 tourists a year to the floating population of San Francisco, and this number of travelers means that at least $1,000,000 a year will be spent by these tourists in San Francisco's hotels and shops.

Matson officials state that the new liner is designed primarily as a high grade, de luxe passenger vessel, catering to the highest class of tourist travel—a class which heretofore has gone to Europe each year because it could not secure de luxe accommodations in sufficient numbers on the present ships engaged in the San Francisco-Honolulu service. With the new ship in operation two years from now, carrying 500 first-cabin passengers and sailing every two weeks from San Francisco, the Matson line will more than double its passenger-carrying capacity.

When equipped and ready for service early in 1927, the new ship will represent an investment of almost $7,500,000. The contract has been awarded to the William Cramp & Sons Ship and Engine Building Co., of Philadelphia. The ship will be 582 feet long, 83 feet wide, of 21 knots schedule speed, with a maximum of 23 when needed, and will have every comfort and convenience enjoyed on trans-Atlantic liners of the most luxurious class. Her accommodations will include a ballroom, music room, dining saloon capable of seating 500 passengers, radio telephone equipment, hot and cold salt and fresh water in every stateroom, a swimming pool and [illegible] electric baths, ladies' beauty parlor, a ventilating system changing the air in all public rooms and staterooms every few minutes, elevators leading to the four decks, ice-water piped throughout the ship, electric cooking and baking equipment, and many other features.

Eight Vessels To Take Cargo On Columbia

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 17.—Eight vessels are scheduled to load at the Port docks within the next week. Among them are the City of Vancouver, 250,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom; Jacob Luckenbach, 5000 cases of salmon for New York; Floridian, 5000 cases salmon and 200 tons of flour for San Francisco, and the Kurohime Maru, 5000 tons of bulk wheat for Japan, and the Hessen, 500 tons of flour for Hamburg.

The Akagisan Maru, Japanese motorship, finished loading 750 tons of flour and sailed last night for the Orient.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of tides the only tides are given in the order of their occurrence commencing with the early morning tide in the left hand column and the succeeding tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth occurring the following morning.

SALMON CARRIER ASHORE IN NORTH; AID IS RUSHED

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—Three vessels have gone to the assistance of the five-masted schooner Bianca reported ashore four miles west of Sekiou river, between Neah and Clallam bays in the strait of Juan De Fuca, the merchants exchange of Seattle was informed.

The steamship Willpolo, inbound from New York City for Seattle, and the salvage steamer Homer have left Port Angeles, Wash., for the scene of the wreck. The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Haida departed from Seattle to aid the other vessels.

The Bianca was purchased in July by F. Einstoss of New York and fitted out as a cannery vessel. She left here June 2 for Saw Mill Bay, Alaska, and was returning to Seattle when she was beached by a violent gale that swept the strait. She was said by Marine officials to have a large stock of canned fish aboard. The number in her crew was unknown here. The messages failed to state if the crew was safe.

Prior to being sold to Mr. Einstoss the Bianca was operated by the Bianca Shipping corporation financed by the defunct Scandinavian American Bank in Seattle.

San Pedro Saved From Wrecking

ABERDEEN, Wn., Dec. 17.—The steamer San Pedro, which went aground at North Spit in the lower harbor yesterday, outbound with two million feet of lumber for San Francisco, was pulled from the sand by two tugs early this morning and brought safely to the Grays Harbor Lumber Company's dock. A diver will examine plates and keel today to determine the extent of damage.

SHIPPING BOARD CONSIDERS BIDS FOR COAST SHIPS

The shipping board has under consideration three bids for its steamers operated between Oakland, Portland, other Pacific coast ports and the east coast of South America, according to word received here from Washington, D. C.

Swayne & Hoyt have not entered a bid for the fleet. However, whoever buys the line will be obligated to continue service for three years to the ports now covered, according to Bert E. Haney, Oregon member of the board.

The West Japna, from the Argentine with a cargo of bones, has just finished loading at Parr Terminal. This vessel is one operated by Swayne & Hoyt.

The pipe line of the dredge Tualatin has been extended to more than 8000 feet. It is deepening the harbor to 35 feet of all principal docks.

28-Mile Gale Holds Up Fishing Fleet

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 17.—A 28-mile-an-hour southwest wind retarded marine movements here today. No serious damage has been reported, but a check late today revealed that many of the fishing boats operating out of here were still at sea.

Canal Imposes Quarantine for Hoof and Mouth

PANAMA, Dec. 17.—The health authorities of the Panama canal zone announce restrictions on shipments of hay, grain cattle and poultry from South America, excluding Colombia, Venezuela, and British and Dutch Guiana, to become effective January 1, and applicable to the canal zone, Panaman destinations and for trans-shipment. The reason given is the reported prevalence of the hoof and mouth disease in some countries of the southern continent.

Coffee, Bananas, Pineapples Form Cargo of Liner

Cargo brought from Honolulu yesterday by the Matson liner Matsonia, according to acting purser M. W. McCullough, included 81,220 bags of raw sugar, 56,761 cases of canned pineapples, 4795 bunches of island bananas, 1938 bags of Hawaiian Kona coffee, and other cargo totaling 8603 tons. Next week the Matsonia will celebrate Christmas day at sea one day out from San Francisco, and chief steward Charles Toller is arranging an elaborate dinner menu, also framing it up with Santa Claus to distribute presents on Christmas morning to every passenger. The Maui will also be at sea on Christmas day, one day out from Honolulu.

Piping Breeze Ties Up Vessels

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 17.—The heavy north wind which piped up over the harbor last night kept local tugboat men and mill operators on a keen jump today with reports of more or less damage from along the harbor.

The Admiral Dewey, expected today, will arrive tomorrow morning to load and discharge California freight.

The Romulus is expected this evening from West Coast ports of South America. The Colusa is also due tomorrow with ore from South America.

Annual Banquet Is Held Aboard Stmr. Alexander

The annual banquet of the employees of the Pacific Steamship Company was celebrated aboard the coastwise liner Emma Alexander last night. Two hundred people were present. In the absence of H. F. Alexander, W. Waterhouse acted as master of ceremonies.

The Emma Alexander sailed this morning for the south with a capacity passenger and freight list aboard.

Mexican Line to Add New Vessels

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Increased freight and passenger traffic between San Francisco and Mexican west coast people is to result shortly in the addition of three new ships to the Mexican state line. The company now operates four ships of about 900 tons each.

RADIO COMPASS REPLACES PRES. PIERCE ON COURSE

The steamer President Pierce on a recent voyage from San Francisco to the orient encountered typhoon weather between Honkong and Shanghai, which resulted in the loss of her bearings, according to a dispatch today to the Federal Telegraph company. By means of a radio compass, bearings were taken on the President Hayes and the ship's exact position was again determined. A new course was set and the ship proceeded to Shanghai. The use of the radio compass resulted in the saving of 24 hours valuable time, the dispatch stated.

All of the shipping board passenger fleet are being equipped with similar radio compasses as they arrive in port, it was announced.

A large number of the coastwise liners, notably the Pacific Steamship Line, operating the Alexander, have also adopted this style of detector. The government is lining the coast with transmitter stations so as to give excellent fog protection.

Boat Aids Ship; Goes Aground

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—After an attempt to save the crew of a tug towing a lumber schooner, which was in distress tonight off Alki Point, southwest of the city, Harbor Patrol Boat No. 1 drifted ashore between Luna Park and Alki Point. When aid arrived the craft cut loose her tow and disappeared toward the city's wharves. The scow was beached within a few feet of the harbor vessel, which was believed to be badly damaged.

Ship Wreck Only Salvage Hulk

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 17.—Investigation today by provincial police of a report that a 150-foot boat was lying capsized off Bentinck Island, near Race Rocks, west of here, showed that the upturned craft was the hulk of the steamer Santa Cruz, which was burned to the water's edge several months ago.

500 Sail for Far East on Liner

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 17.—Nearly 500 passengers have been booked for the Empress of Russia, which is scheduled to sail from here for Hongkong Friday. On her arrival at Hongkong the vessel is to be drydocked for her annual overhauling. She is to sail for Vancouver on her return trip February 6.

MISCELLANEOUS

The steamer San Pedro, previously reported ashore at Grays Harbor, is still ashore inside the bay at Grays Harbor, according to a report received this morning.

NEW HEARING OF PETERSEN CASE FIXED

Civil Service Board Votes to Re-Open Controversy Now Four Years Old: Son Will Ask Injunction, He Says

The civil service board [illegible] sustained the dismissal of Policeman H. J. Robbins by Commissioner Frank Colbourn, [illegible] Petersen case for another [illegible] starting next Tuesday [illegible].

Cedric Petersen, son and attorney for the former captain of inspectors, [illegible] he will apply for [illegible] to prevent the civil service board from reopening the [illegible] case.

The civil service board [illegible] ed Petersen it was [illegible] advice of the city attorney, [illegible] would hear the Petersen case whether Petersen [illegible] or not.

The row is caused by a former verdict of the civil service board which reinstated the then deposed captain of inspectors, Walter J. Petersen, but specified that he shoud not receive pay for the time when he was absent. Cedric Petersen appealed the case and the decision was reversed. City Attorney Leon E. Gray contended that the entire civic service decision was reversed not merely the matter of pay, and recommended that the civil service board re-hear the case.

Trio to Be Tried on Robbery Charge

Elizabeth Collins, Walter C. Alf and Fred Talbott, the trio accused of having robbed Lawrence Higgins and Thomas Willitt, Piggly Wiggly messengers, of $2175 several weeks ago, will be tried January 15. The three were arraigned before Superior Judge L. S. Church, and through their attorney asked for an immediate trial after pleading not guilty. The state charges that Mrs. Collins invited the two messengers to ride with her using as a pretext a desire to find a street which lay in the general direction in which the men were going. After they entered the car Alf and Talbott appeared and kept the messengers covered while Mrs. Collins drove to an out-of-the-way spot and there assisted in robbing them, it is charged.

PAVING QUIZ STIRS STORM IN COUNCIL

Word 'Steal' Hurled by Attorney for Protestants Signal for Retort; Bids on Fire Station Called

The word "steal" was hurled before the city council this morning by Carlos White, attorney for Thirteenth avenue property owners who are protesting against the paving cost of that street, causing tumult in the council and a [illegible] return to the regular court procedure. The case was postponed for further hearing on Friday.

White protested against a witness being ridiculed because he was a competitor of the company doing the paving and asserted that the discrepancy of paving thickness, though but one inch in twelve, or from 8 to 17 per cent, in places is not a minor matter.

"If this city allowed an 8 per cent discrepancy in the year's paving that would be $345,000," said White. "A 17 per cent error would be $714,000. The error on Thirteenth avenue is $16,000 for that job. If an attempted steal of $16,000 were brought to light in any other department an investigation would be ordered quickly."

BACCUS BRISTLES.

"Steal," repeated White. "I'm sorry this council is not taking the matter more seriously."

"How do you know how seriously I'm taking things," asked Congressman-elect A. E. Carter. "I resent your insinuation."

"I'll not stand for this," said Commissioner Colbourn.

"We're willing to pay for a disinterested investigation," said White, "but we only get a turndown from your mouthpiece, the city attorney."

"This," said City Attorney Leon E. Gray, "is another personal attack such as I underwent in the Jefferson street case, which seems to be carried over. Apparently somebody must make good a deficiency of facts by personal attack. If I'm an improper official, make charges."

"I'm going to prove that the work on Thirteen avenue is not up to standard," said White, who then resumed the taking of testimony.

FIREHOUSE BIDS.

The council called bids for the construction of a firehouse on Thirty-third avenue, and, upon recommendation of Commissioner Baccus, turned down the project for installing advertising boxes for refuse on the streets, which was suggested with an income of $15,000 per annum from the advertising concern.

"It would not be good policy to use our streets for advertising purposes," said Baccus.

DRY THROATS PLEAD FOR LIQUOR SHIP

Lily de Aqua Is Slated to Take 15,000 Cases From Vancouver if Principio Is Not Freed by U. S.

[illegible] the Lily de Aqua, whisper the unnumbered parched throats of the bay district today as unsteady hands raise beakers of hot water to wash down the pre-Christmas toast, "A fair wind and a full hold."

Something of the earnestness of the desperate [illegible] in the toast because those who ought to know say that if the Lily de Aqua is grounded on the reefs of the [illegible] it is going to be [illegible] dry [illegible] about December 25.

EXPORTERS GATHER.

According to the reports from Vancouver Joe Parent and A. McAdam of San Francisco, managers with the Reifel interests of Vancouver in the Stirling Shipping company, owners and operators of the ship Principio, arrived from the south on Tuesday and are stopping at the Hotel Vancouver where a large number of men in the liquor export trade have gathered during the past few days.

Parent and McAdam are here to investigate the detention of their boat which the customs authorities are now studying in connection with a suspicion that that ship is one of the "mother ships" to a fleet of small whisky boats.

It is reported today that, in the event of the authorities not having reached a decision as to what is to be done in the case of the Principio, her owners will charter a vessel to make the trip south in an effort to arrive by Christmas eve.

15,000 CASES DELAYED.

The vessel spoken of for this charter is said to be the Lily de Aqua, owned by the Northern Freighters, a company controlled by Robert Colquhoun, of Vancouver, and Alexander Hutchison and Will Lane of San Francisco.

Harry Reifel said the Principio was to carry 15,000 cases of liquor and he expected to have the goods there by Christmas.

Probationer Taken As Army Deserter

Although John V. Hines won clemency when taken before Superior Judge L. S. Church, he is still in custody [illegible] in charge by a provost guard as he left the courtroom yesterday afternoon. Hines was placed on three years' probation on a burglary charge and turned over to the United States army authorities on the ground that he is a deserter.

He is alleged to have broken open a number of lockers at Neptune Beach last October, rifling the clothing he found in them.

CONTROL OF BIRTH TALK HEARD HERE

Mrs. Sanger, Founder of League, Will Make Speech Before Clubwomen in California Early Next Month

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, founder and president of the National Birth Control League, will tour California early in January. She will be presented to the Eastbay at a luncheon January 16 at Hotel Oakland. Oakland League of Women Voters, co-operating with the Alameda County Birth Control League, is sponsoring the public appearance of the woman who has become an international character through her championship of the movement for the regulation of population. Arrangements for the luncheon, which will be open to the public, have been placed with Mrs. F. C. Turner, president of the local League of Women Voters, and Mrs. H. G. Hill, president of the County Birth Control League, recently organized.

Mrs. Sanger, according to her present schedule, will arrive in Oakland January 15. Opportunity will probably be offered for a conference with leaders in the birth control movement in this part of the state on Thursday evening.

San Francisco League of Women Voters is making plans for a second luncheon January, presenting Mrs. Sanger to the public of San Francisco. The following day, Mrs. Sanger will leave for Los Angeles, where she will be entertained by clubwomen of the south.
